THE LATEST.

Sensational testimony was introduced in the trial of Caleb Powers yesterday. One after another were presented witnesses who laid bare to the jury in a more concise and connected form than in any of the previous trials the details of the conspiracy alleged. W. H. Culton told of early plotting and of plans to start a general shooting in the Senate chamber, in which Goebel and other Democrats were to be killed, but this was called off by Charles Finley on the day decided upon. Finley said: "Culton, don't start the trouble to-day. Gen. Duke says other arrangements have been made to settle the matter." Former Chief Justice Hazelrigg testified that Leander Guffy, son of Justice Guffy, warned him at 10 o'clock on the day Goebel was shot that "the boys had decided the night before to kill him" (Hazelrigg). Sherman Stivers, who was a Republican assistant postmaster at Paris, testified that Postmaster John L. Bosley had told him on his return from Frankfort four days before the assassination that "we have arranged to raid the Kentucky Senate to-morrow," and that Goebel, among others, would be killed and that five trusted men had been secured to do the work. The next day Bosley told him the plan was abandoned because the presence of deputy sheriffs made it impossible to get the men in the chamber, and that "we have arranged another plan." Sherman Stivers was corroborated by his brother Rufus, also an employe of the Paris post-office and a friend of Bosley. The testimony adduced yesterday implicated all the men under indictment and others. The Commonwealth will rest its case to-day. The defense moved to abandon the night sessions on account of Powers' health, but the affidavit was neither sworn to nor signed by the attorneys, and Judge Cantrill overruled it.

Eight witnesses were examined during the Schley Court of Inquiry yesterday. The last witness, Lieut. B. W. Wells, who was flag lieutenant or private secretary to Rear Admiral Schley during the war with Spain, stated that the Flying Squadron left Cienfuegos about three hours after Schley had received word that the Spaniards were not in the harbor. He also stated that the first direct knowledge Schley had of the presence of Cervera at Santiago was when he saw the Colon on May 29. Lieut. Wells gave a history of Schley's part in the Cuban campaign and had reached the battle of July 3 when the court adjourned for the day until Monday at the request of Mr. Rayner. The other witnesses gave evidence favorable to Rear Admiral Schley.

The Masonic Home directors last night decided to ask the opinion of their attorney before considering further the request of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Kentucky for the return of $93,000 held in trust by the Home for the State body. The "New Masonic" Building Committee has already been offered at 4 per cent. the $200,000 necessary to build the Temple at Fourth and Chestnut streets.

Southern Congressmen in Washington believe President Roosevelt has done harm to his new Southern departure by entertaining Prof. Washington at his dinner table. President Roosevelt is said to be undisturbed by the comments made upon his violation of the unwritten law, and the statement is made that he will again entertain Washington.

A steel company with a capital of $3,000,000 will soon be incorporated in West Virginia to compete with the United States Steel Corporation. An extensive plant will be built on the banks of the Ohio river, near Pittsburg.

The convention of the Equal Rights' Association, which has been in session in Covington, adjourned yesterday. The association adopted a resolution urging that co-education be established at Central University in Danville.

Gov. Beckham has issued an order to the troops of the Third regiment now on duty in Hopkins county, to prepare to return to their homes Sunday. No further disorder has been reported in the mining regions.

The new Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty, it is said, will omit the fortification clause of the previous treaty, and the United States will be free to fortify the canal if it is deemed advisable.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Frank W. Hackett has announced his intention to resign and resume the practice of law. Judge Charles H. Darling, of Vermont, will succeed him.

Secretary of State Hill has issued an order to the various County Clerks in Kentucky regarding the arrangement of the official ballot for the November election.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America is planning a reorganization.

Former Gov. John S. Pillsbury, of Minnesota, is dead.

IN SERIES OF DRAMATIC CLIMAXES CONSPIRACY PLOT IS UNFOLDED.

New and Sensational Testimony Against the Men Indicted For the Goebel Murder

AND OTHERS HERETOFORE UNACCUSED.

Former Chief Justice Hazelrigg, Culton, and Sherman and Rufus Stivers the Witnesses.

HAZELRIGG WARNED HE WAS "MARKED"

Culton Says Plan To Kill In the Senate Chamber Was Called Off By Charles Finley and "Other Arrangements Made."

BOSLEY, OF PARIS, BROUGHT INTO THE CASE

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—To-morrow the Commonwealth will close its case against Caleb Powers for the murder of William Goebel. This afternoon and to-night there was a flood of startling testimony introduced by the State, implicating all the men under indictment for the crime and placing others, hitherto unknown in connection with the plot, in an embarrassing position, to say the least. The witnesses who swore to testimony not heretofore adduced in any of the Goebel cases were former Chief Justice James H. Hazelrigg, former Chief Deputy State Auditor William H. Culton, former Assistant Postmaster Sherman Stivers, of Paris, and his brother, Rufus Stivers, formerly a clerk in the post-office at Paris. The Messrs. Stivers are prominent Republicans of Bourbon county. The testimony of these witnesses, with that of Postmaster Holmes, of Frankfort; Frank Purcell, receiving clerk for the Adams Express Company, in Cincinnati, and Arthur P. Branch, clerk for the same company at Frankfort, and Wade H. Watts, made a connected story of the conspiracy to murder Goebel.

Guffy Warned Hazelrigg.

Judge Hazelrigg testified that shortly before Goebel was shot on Tuesday morning, January 30, Leander Guffy, son of Appellate Judge B. L. D. Guffy, warned him not to go to the Court of Appeals, that "the boys had decided the night before to kill the Chief Justice."

Previously William H. Culton swore that at a meeting between Taylor, Powers, Finley and himself, Taylor said that if the Democrats did not stop, Hazelrigg and Hobson should be killed, and that would settle the contest.

Culton also testified that it was determined at a meeting held at Lexington on Sunday, January 28, that the Republicans would seat Henry Perry, of Fayette county, by force on the following day, Monday, and when the Democrats started to seat Van Meter, the Republicans would begin to shoot. Culton stationed his men on the floor of the House, ready to murder and kill the Democratic Representatives, when Charles Finley came up and said: "Culton, don't start that trouble to-day. Gen. Duke says other arrangements have been made to settle this contest."

More Knew of the Plot.

At 9:05 o'clock to-night Sherman Stivers, formerly assistant postmaster of Paris, and a stanch Republican, was called to the witness stand. He said John L. Bosley, the postmaster of Paris, spent nineteen days at Frankfort in January.

"Did you have any conversation with Mr. Bosley in January prior to the 30th?" asked Mr. Franklin.

"Yes, sir."

"Upon the subject of the assassination of William Goebel?"

"We object," cried Mr. Sims.

The court overruled the objection.

"When was that conversation?"

"On Friday previous to the assassination."

The defense objected, but the court overruled the objection.

"Arranged To Raid the Senate."

"Mr. Bosley came into the office," said Stivers, "late in the afternoon. He was nervous and said the situation at Frankfort looked gloomy. Mr. Bosley said: 'Goebel will never be Governor of Kentucky. We have arranged to raid the Kentucky Senate to-morrow and five of the bravest men in Kentucky will lead the raid.' I asked him if a good many Senators would not be killed. He said that was true, and then he said: 'We are determined to kill that ——.'"

Were To Aim At Goebel.

"What were the five men to do in the Senate chamber?"

"Bosley said they would begin immediately to shoot right at Goebel."

"Did you have another conversation with Mr. Bosley?"

"Yes, sir."

"When?"

"On Saturday afternoon previous to the killing."

"What did he say?"

"Another Plan" Arranged.

"He had just returned from Frankfort and he said: 'There were so many deputy sheriffs and officers at the door of the Senate chamber that our men could not get in, but we have arranged another plan.'"

"Who heard that conversation?"

"My brother, Rufus Stivers."

"Where is Mr. Bosley now?"

"I do not know, sir."

On cross-examination Mr. Smith asked: "Mr. Stivers, are you and Mr. Bosley not bitter enemies?"

"Yes, sir."

Forced Into Confession.

"To whom did you tell first what you knew?"

"Mr. Robert Franklin, but I did not tell it voluntarily. Mr. Franklin came to me and asked me if Bosley and I had a conversation relative to the killing of Goebel. I asked him how he knew. He said he did not have to say, but if I did not tell him he would have me summoned before the grand jury and placed in jail till I did tell."

Rufus Stivers was the next witness. He was a clerk in the post-office at Paris. He said on Saturday before the shooting Bosley shook his finger and said a plan had been laid at Frankfort to raid the Senate, and that Goebel, the G—d d—d — — —, would be killed.

Another Corroborates.

"I laid down the mail," continued Stivers, "to listen. Mr. Bosley said five of the bravest men in the State had been selected to lead the raid on the Senate. Mr. Bosley went to Frankfort the next morning. When he came back the next afternoon, my brother asked him how the situation was at Frankfort. Mr. Bosley said: 'Our plan failed, but we have another plan.'"

On cross-examination, Mr. Smith said: "Are you a friend of Bosley?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is your brother?"

"No, sir."

"Isn't it a fact that your brother and Bosley engaged in a little newspaper controversy in Paris?"

"That is a fact."

Paris Post-office Row.

"Isn't it a fact that your brother was indicted in the Federal Court for alleged irregularities in the Paris post-office?"

"Yes, sir."

"That'll do."

Then Mr. Franklin arose and asked: "Wasn't Bosley indicted on the same charge?"

"Yes, sir; he was."

"Was your brother convicted?"

"No, sir; he was not."

"Was Bosley?"

"Yes, sir; he was."

"That will do," said Mr. Franklin.

The testimony of Judge Hazelrigg, Culton, Sherman and Rufus Stivers came as a bombshell to the defense. The statements of these four witnesses form the new testimony and the "card which the Commonwealth has had up its sleeve" since the first trial of Powers.

Morning Session.

When Judge Cantrill convened court this morning Jere Morton, one of Powers' counsel, said he desired to offer a motion to discontinue the night sessions of the court for the reason that the defendant was in poor health and that his time was so completely taken up in the court room that he was unable to consult with his lawyers relative to his defense. In support of the motion he filed the defendant's affidavit. Judge Cantrill announced that he would reserve his decision on the motion.

Wharton Golden was then placed back on the witness stand and Mr. Sims continued the cross-examination of the witness. For the first time Golden was asked what he said when he heard that Goebel had been shot.

"As well as I remember," said Golden, "I said that it was a d—d good thing."

Denied Contract For Confession.

In answer to question, Golden denied emphatically that he had told the Rev. John Stamper, his brother-in-law, that he had a written contract with T. C. Campbell whereby he would get $5,000 for his confession, and $2,500 for every man convicted of Goebel's murder. He said he never told Stamper that he and W. H. Culton could get together and "convict every d—d one of 'em."

"Did you not tell J. C. Owens, in the depot at Winchester, that Caleb Powers was as innocent as a dead man or one unborn?" asked Mr. Sims.

"I did not," replied Golden, "for I knew Caleb Powers was guilty."

The witness was then asked if he did not show Jim Harklerode, at Barbourville, a big roll of paper money and ask him if he did not know that there was $100,000 reward for the conviction of Goebel's murderers.

"I did not," answered the witness, "because if I had any money, that fellow Harklerode would be the last man I would show it to."

Taylor's Indorsement of Golden.

Letters written by W. S. Taylor to Golden were introduced, but it was the opinion that they served as a boomerang to the defense, for they showed how Golden stood in Taylor's estimation. Two of the letters introduced are as follows:

Attorney General, Frankfort, Ky., June 20, 1899.—To F. W. Golden, Esq., Barbourville, Ky.—My Dear Sir and Loyal Friend: I have not forgotten your kindness and expressions of good will when you were in Frankfort, and it is a pleasure to me to know that those with whom I have associated in business are my truest and best friends. I know how effective you are and what you can do, and of your loyal friendship to me. I want to pledge you my support and influence in the light for whatever you may desire. I feel that it is due from me.

Now, my dear young friend, I want you as soon as you get this letter to in some way effectively organize your county so as to get out the full vote to the convention and see that I carry it beyond question. I want it to instruct, not to send uninstructed delegates. I know you have a local candidate, Mr. Powers, but it will not injure Mr. Powers to let his county instruct for me; so don't compromise on anything short of instructions, and I want you to come as a delegate without fail to the Lexington convention. I have some things I want to talk with you about.

I am interested in your future, and I want to introduce you to Senator Debee for a purpose I will make known to you when you get there.

I shall now leave my interests in Knox county to you and my loyal friends up there. Fight the battle out, and I shall be glad to get a telegram from you announcing that I have carried the county. Yours truly, W. S. TAYLOR.

Office of the Kentucky Penitentiary, Frankfort, Ky., July 26, 1898.—To Whom It May Concern: I write this to commend Mr. F. W. Golden, guard at the Kentucky penitentiary. I have been connected with the prison for more than two years, and have come in daily contact with him, and am glad of the opportunity of recommending him. He is wideawake, industrious, thoroughly competent to handle men, and a man of the highest type of integrity. To any one in need of the services of a man who is absolutely trustworthy and competent, I respectfully recommend him. Very truly,

R. A. HANCOCK, Warden Ky. Penitentiary.

I concur in the above

W. S. TAYLOR, Attorney General.
G. W. LONG, Treasurer.

One of Powers' Sweethearts.

At 11:15 o'clock Golden was excused and Miss Sudie Snuffer, of Williamsburg, to whom Powers paid attention, was called. She said one day during the contest Powers called upon her and showed her a pistol.

As he drew it from his pocket, he said: "I will not be robbed. I will kill 'em myself first."

Mr. Williams then asked Miss Snuffer to produce the letters which Powers had written her relative to the contest.

"I haven't them," she replied.

"Where are they?"

"I do not know."

"Where were they when you saw them last?"

"In my trunk."

"Who took them?"

"There was but one person who knew where they were. That was Perry Llewellyn. He came to my boarding-house, and asked me where I kept those letters. I told him they were in my trunk."

"Who is Perry Llewellyn?"

"He is Caleb Powers' brother-in-law."

Powers' attorneys said they had no objection to the Commonwealth reading the letters from the record of the former trial. In the first letter, Powers wrote:

I'm the fellow who raised the mountain army. It has had a good effect. The papers are not on to me.

In another letter after Goebel was shot, he wrote:

I cannot come to Williamsburg, for I will meet Charles Finley there, and I do

BAD MESS

Made By President In Entertaining Washington.

HAS LOST ALL HE GAINED.

MAKES POSITION OF IGNORANT NEGRO ALL THE WORSE.

IS AMUSED BY CRITICISM.

Statement Made That He Will Invite the Colored Leader To His Table Again.

PAYS NO HEED TO COMMENTS.

Washington, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Southern members of Congress in Washington think the President has lost in the South by entertaining Booker T. Washington at dinner at the White House much more than he gained by appointing ex-Gov. Jones, of Alabama, to the Federal Judgeship in that State. No one of them cares to be quoted, but there is a unanimity of opinion that Mr. Roosevelt has broken an unwritten law and has made the generally ignorant negro in the South worse off instead of improving him.

That Washington is intellectually head and shoulders above his race they concede. As great men go these days, it would perhaps not be extravagant to say that he is a great man. But this does not alter the case. Withal negro blood flows through his veins and he is not in the nature of things in a position to be made the intimate of a President.

Surprised At Acceptance.

Those who know Washington have expressed surprise that he would accept an invitation of this nature, or, in fact, be willing to be in the position of the President's adviser in Southern patronage. Washington owes his present comparative superior position to his refusal to meddle in politics and his desire to devote his time to the upbuilding of his race. Mr. Roosevelt, however, has placed him in the position of being the Republican boss of Alabama. If he remains such his influence for good is wholly impaired. Instead of devoting his time to the teachings of his school at Tuskegee, his home will be the mecca of office-seekers who know his indorsement has much to do with appointment.

President's Critics Denounced.

The Star, which is printed in a city having nearly one-third of its population negroes, to-day vigorously denounces the President's critics in the South. It will probably be followed by other Republican newspapers preaching by inference social equality between the races in the South.

HE WILL DO IT AGAIN,

And Roosevelt Regards All Criticism As Impertinence.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A Washington correspondent of the Inter Ocean telegraphs his paper to-night as follows:

"President Roosevelt is only amused at the criticisms in Southern papers because he chose to invite Booker T. Washington to dine at his private table in the White House. The Southern papers that are denouncing this act as an outrage simply show the narrowness of their own editors in trying to regulate the life of the President of the United States. A Memphis paper declares that this is 'the most damnable outrage ever perpetrated by any citizen of the United States.' If that is to be the attitude of the Democratic press of the South they will have many provocations in the future.

"President Roosevelt will not be guided by Southern prejudices. He is not seeking to placate the South by the appointment of Southern Democrats to office. He is simply seeking to put partisanship aside when he appoints Federal officers, naming the best men he can find, and where there are few Republicans of the legal training to be qualified for Federal Judge, as in the South, he will appoint Democrats. That was what the President did in appointing ex-Gov. Thomas Jones, of Alabama, to the Federal bench. The President was amused at some comments of the Southern press on that appointment, assuring him that he could not win over Democrats to Republican policies by patronage bribery.

Not the First Time.

"The invitation to Prof. Washington to dine at the White House was not a new departure on the part of President Roosevelt. The two men have been personal friends for years, and they have dined together before and he will invite him to dine again.

"President Roosevelt has no desire to irritate the South, but he will not ask the Southern editors to define for him the conduct of a gentleman. Had Washington been invited to a State dinner there might have been some excuse for the Southern criticism as expressive of the attitude of one section of the country toward a public act of the President. But when Southern papers denounce the President for inviting a negro to his private table they show how narrow are their prejudices, and the President will pay no attention to such criticisms. He concedes to his opponents the right to criticise his public acts, but he regards as impertinence the criticisms of his private courtesies."

ACT HAS DONE HARM.

Crumpacker Says Independent White Man's Party In South Is Hurt.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Congressman E. D. Crumpacker, of the Tenth Indiana district, energetically defends President Roosevelt for his action in inviting Booker T. Washington, the negro leader, to dine at the White House. He said:

"I am very glad that the episode has occurred, for it brings to the attention of the whole country the fact that a deep-seated hostility exists in the South against the negro, not because of his weaknesses or vices, but on account of his color. It also shows that nothing can be hoped in the direction of amelioration of the negro from the dominant party in the South, but that it is the purpose of this dominant element to keep the negro in a continual state of absolute subserviency. I think that the President's act also, probably, will retard the building up of an independent white man's party in the South."

Mr. Crumpacker is author of the bill, which has never gotten very far in Congress, providing that Congressmen shall be apportioned on a basis of voters instead of actual population, the purpose being to prevent alleged disfranchisement of the negro in the Southern States.

Disgust In Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Great disgust is expressed here at Mr. Roosevelt's entertainment of Booker T. Washington at the White House, and he is being condemned in unmeasured terms. Republicans have nothing to say publicly, but even they do not indorse, nor do they practice social equality.

MAY FORTIFY ISTHMIAN CANAL IF IT IS DEEMED ADVISABLE

New Treaty With Great B[illegible] No Clause Preventing Such Protection By United States.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Lord Pauncefote will sail for the United States on the 26th inst., before the British Cabinet Council has had an opportunity to review the protocols which embody in principle the new Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty. It is thought here, however, that that fact will not delay sensibly the final negotiations, which will take place here between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote, for it is the intention that the new treaty, like that which it will replace on the docket of the Senate, shall be finally drafted and signed in the city of Washington.

It is said that when the new document is framed the "fortifications" clause will have been found to have dropped out, leaving the United States at liberty to fortify the canal, but it is distinctly stated that it is not obligated to do so, and, in fact, there is no present intention of erecting fortifications which, it is stated, would be much more expensive than a fleet of battleships and less useful.

President Hutin, of the Panama Canal Company, had another conference to-day with Rear Admiral Walker and former Senator Pasco, of the Isthmian Canal Commission. No formal proposition for the sale of the Panama canal to the United States was made, nor is it certain that a definite offer will be made at this time.

AMALGAMATED ASSOCIATION PLANNING REORGANIZATION

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 18.—The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America is planning a general reorganization tending to strengthen itself after the losses accruing in membership due to the strike settlement. The national officers have come to the conclusion that the recent strike was lost largely by reason of the fact that the men of the inferior positions in the mills were able to take up the skilled work and fill the positions of the Amalgamated men. The new policy of the association will be to take in all the mill workers and make them part and parcel of the organization, so that the interests of all will be identical.

CASHIER IS MISSING AND BANK IS CLOSED.

Committee Recovers $165,000 of the Bank's Securities Which Had Been Placed With a Broker.

Boyertown, Pa., Oct. 18.—The doors of the National Bank of Boyertown were closed to-day. This action was due to the disappearance of Cashier Milton A. Morey. A committee of bank officials which went to Philadelphia to-day found that Morey had taken $165,000 worth of the bank's securities, and these securities were found deposited with S. M. & M. S. Fridenberg, brokers of that city. What amount Mory had raised on the securities is not announced, but the presumption is that the Boyertown bank officials made good the sum secured, as they state to-night that the securities are again the property of the bank.

Mory was under $30,000 bonds. His wife says that he appeared completely unnerved for the past few weeks, but that he was more cheerful than usual when he left home on Monday. His friends fear he has committed suicide. It is generally understood that he speculated in stocks.

TWO MORE ARE MISSING.

Bank In Massachusetts May Uncover a Shortage.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 18.—Albert G. Smith, teller, and Lewis K. Swift, bookkeeper, of the Merchants' National Bank, failed to report for duty this morning. Inquiry showed that neither had been at his home last night. At 10:30 o'clock this evening the directors of the bank are still in session and a statement may be made later.

REQUIRED TO TAKE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

Man Suspected of Being Connected With Philippine Junta Forced To Swear Loyalty To America.

Manila, Oct. 18.—Fiske Warren, the first man to take the oath of allegiance required under the recent act of the Philippine Commission of all suspects attempting to land, has been closely identified with Sixto Lopez. Many treasonable and inflammatory proclamations were found in his baggage. Regarding these, he said he had only one copy of each, having retained these as souvenirs. It is also known that he was intimate with the members of the Junta in Hong Kong. He at first objected to taking the oath, saying that he was a loyal citizen; but he signed it when notified that on no other condition would he be allowed to land.

Some of his fellow passengers told Civil Governor Taft that Warren and Lopez shook hands and retired for consultation upon hearing of President McKinley's assassination.

Governor Taft considers the action of the commission in requiring all suspects to swear allegiance perfectly justified.

Gen. Walker Critically Ill.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 18.—Gen. Jas. A. Walker, former Congressman from the Ninth Virginia district, is critically ill at his home in Wytheville, suffering from dysentery, which does not yield to treatment. Frequent hemorrhages give cause for alarm.

ASSAULT

On American Troops In Island of Samar.

TEN SOLDIERS ARE KILLED.

MEMBERS OF NINTH INFANTRY AGAIN THE VICTIMS.

ATTACKED BY BOLOMEN.

Over a Hundred Natives Are Slain and Six Americans Wounded.

RE-ENFORCEMENTS ARRIVE.

Manila, Oct. 18.—Five hundred bolomen attacked a detachment of forty-six men of the Ninth infantry at Bangajon, on the Gandara river, Island of Samar, to-day, killing ten and wounding six.

The remainder of the company arrived on the scene in time to prevent further slaughter, and routed the enemy, killing over a hundred of them.

It is believed that the enemy only retired for re-enforcements.

As soon as the news was received at Catbalogan two gunboats were dispatched, Gen. Smith going in person to the scene.

Chaffee Confirms News.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The following brief cablegram from Gen. Chaffee, reporting the fight in Samar Wednesday, was received at the War Department this afternoon:

Manila, Oct. 18.—Corbin, Adjutant General, Washington: Forty-six men, Company E, Ninth regiment, United States infantry, under First, Lieut. George W. Wallace, in field, lower Candara, Samar, were attacked by four hundred bolomen October 16. Our loss ten killed, six wounded; names not received. Eighty-one of the enemy left dead on the field. Enemy beaten off.

"CHAFFEE."

OFFICIALS SURPRISED.

Ill Fortune Attends Movements of the Ninth Infantry.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The War Department officials were somewhat dismayed at the press report of the new setback on the Island of Samar.

The Ninth infantry, which suffered there, was the same organization that engaged in the latest fight at Bangajon, though in this case the company attacked is not known. An inspection of the dispositions made of the troops on the Island of Samar shows, that before the Balangiga fight there were no less than thirty-eight separate posts. These were so disposed that supplies could be conveyed to the troops by water. Gen. Hughes has left Samar and gone to the Island of Cebu to recuperate, which accounts for the assumption of the command on Samor by Gen. Smith. Gen. Hughes was worn out and suffered from the effects of a severe fall received while chasing insurrectionists in the mountains of Samar.

Perry Heath Buys Salt Lake Paper.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 18.—At the head of the editorial columns of to-morrow's issue of the Salt Lake Tribune will appear as publisher and general manager the name of Perry S. Heath, former First Assistant Postmaster General, and at present Secretary of the Republican National Committee. It was announced to-day that Mr. Heath, who has been in Salt Lake City for several days, is the real purchaser of the Tribune.

Foreign Waiters Ordered Deported.

New York, Oct. 18.—An order was received from Secretary Gage, of the Treasury, to-day directing the arrest and deportation of thirteen Hessian waiters who are alleged to have been brought here and put to work by the Plaza Hotel in violation of the contract law. The men will be sent away on the steamship Laurentian October 30.

Dr. Frederick Loeber Dead.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 18.—Dr. Frederick Loeber, one of the South's leading physicians, head of the Touro Infirmary for thirty-one years, died to-night, aged sixty-three years.

NO MERCY

To Be Shown Brigands By Bulgarians.

WILL MAKE AN EXAMPLE

OF MISS STONE'S ABDUCTORS IF THEY CROSS FRONTIER.

DICKINSON'S IMPUTATION

Denied and Bulgarian Government Will Not Enter Into Ransom Negotiations.

WORK IN BEHALF OF PRISONER.

Vienna, Oct. 18.—According to the Politische Correspondenz, M. Saratoff, Bulgarian Minister of the Interior, and, for the time being, Minister of Foreign Affairs, addressed a note to Mr. Dickinson, United States Consul General at Constantinople, a few days ago, in which, after complaining that the Consul General had expressed dissatisfaction with the measures the Bulgarian Government had taken against the kidnapers of Miss Stone, he strongly protested against his Government being held responsible for a crime committed on Turkish territory, and declared that in order to guard itself against a serious and unmerited accusation, the Bulgarian Government had resolved, should the robber band try to cross the Bulgarian frontier or succeed in stealing into Bulgaria, to have it mercilessly pursued and annihilated by Bulgarian troops.

"We will not enter into any negotiations whatever for paying ransom," said M. Saratoff, "as we don't want the precedents established for many robbers infesting the neighborhood to turn to Bulgaria whenever there seems to be their advantage. We are firmly determined to make an example which will deter robbers from repeating such speculations.

"It will then no longer be possible to accuse Bulgaria of harboring secret committees which organize bands for kidnaping foreigners in Turkey and removing them to Bulgaria, there peacefully to enjoy the ransom they extort."

BULGARIA RESPONSIBLE.

Macedonians Disguised As Turks Alleged To Have Captured Miss Stone.

London, Oct. 19.—Commenting upon the statement of the Politische Correspondenz regarding the letter from M. Saratoff, the Bulgarian Minister, to Mr. Dickinson, the Vienna correspondent of the Standard says:

"It may be regarded as convincing proof that Bulgaria is shielding the Macedonian committee, and that the Sofia correspondents of the Politische Correspondenz, the Pester-Lloyd and other papers were correct when declaring that Macedonians disguised as Turks had kidnaped Miss Stone, and that a regular game is being played by Bulgarian troops on one side and Turkish troops on the other side of the frontier, each side trying to smuggle prisoners over the border in order that the ransom paid by sentimental Americans may be recovered, as the Bulgarians wish, from Turkey, and as the Turks wish, from Bulgaria, and that the prisoners, but for this farce, could be produced at any moment.

"The right course now is not to pay ransom, but to hold Bulgaria responsible for every hair of Miss Stone's head. Those who knew the facts see no reason to anticipate any danger to her life."

RANSOM MUST BE PAID.

American Consul General Severely Criticised For His Refusal.

London, Oct. 19.—"Four thousand Bulgarian and Turkish troops have been occupied in the effort to obtain Miss Stone's release," says a dispatch from Sofia to the Morning Leader. "It is believed here that her release would have been effected but for Mr. Dickinson's refusal to offer her captors more than an ordinary pour boire. Mr. Dickinson's extraordinary action is regarded as suicidal. A large sum must be paid to the brigands, as otherwise Miss Stone's life will be sacrificed. If Mr. Dickinson desires vengeance on the brigands the women must be ransomed first."

MISS STONE BLAMED.

Claim Made That She Had Herself Captured To Aid Macedonians.

London, Oct. 19.—"An extraordinary version of the Stone abduction comes to-day from Constantinople," says a dispatch from Vienna to the Daily Telegraph. "It is declared in Turkish official circles that Miss Stone sympathizes with the Macedonian committee and herself agreed to the kidnaping so that ransom would be paid to the committee. Comment upon this story is quite superfluous."

WORKING FOR RELEASE.

Wife of Russian Diplomatic Agent At Sofia Interested.

Samakov, Oct. 18.—It is learned that Mme. Bakhmetiew, wife of the Russian diplomatic agent at Sofia, formerly Miss Beal, of Washington, has begun energetic work on behalf of Miss Stone, and the strong attitude taken by the German diplomatic agent because of the murder of a German traveler may hasten the authorities to bring about Miss Stone's release. The Bulgarian authorities are working hard to prevent the ransom from being paid on Bulgarian soil. Hence Dr. Haskell is likely to get another letter requesting payment of the ransom on Turkish territory.

INTERNATIONAL TROUBLES

May Arise From Consul General Dickinson's Action.

London, Oct. 18.—The Globe this afternoon says it fears that the safety of Miss Ellen M. Stone is seriously compromised by the attitude of Consul General Dickinson in refusing to pay the ransom and in demanding that Bulgaria arrest the leaders of the Macedonian Committee as the real authors of the missionary's abduction. The paper says the situation contains all the features of a grave international complication and threatens to assume importance far beyond the personality of any individual missionary.

SCHLEY'S FLAG LIEUTENANT

TELLS OF THE DEPARTURE FROM CIENFUEGOS.

STORY OF CUBAN CAMPAIGN.

Brought Out In the Court of Inquiry —Eight Witnesses Give Their Testimony.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL MONDAY.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The most important testimony given before the Schley Court of Inquiry yesterday was the evidence given by Lieut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who served during the war with Spain as Rear Admiral Schley's Flag Lieutenant or private secretary. Lieut. Wells was the last witness of the day and he showed that the Commander of the Flying Squadron left Cienfuegos within three hours after he received word that Cervera was not in the harbor.

From the line of the examination relating to the fight of July 3, already pursued, it is evident that it is the intention of Mr. Rayner to have Lieut. Wells give a complete history of Admiral Schley's actions during the Spanish War. When the court adjourned he had reached the period of the battle of July 3, having gone quite minutely into other incidents of the campaign up to that time, including the receipts of dispatches from Admiral Sampson.

An Oregon Man's Evidence.

Lieut. Commander Nicholson, who was navigator of the Oregon, told the story of the battle of July 3, as he saw it from the deck of the Oregon. He said the movements of the Oregon had not been controlled by signals from the Brooklyn, and he expressed the opinion that the Oregon was nearer the Colon than the Brooklyn was. Mr. J. T. Hanley, who was chief machinist on board the Texas, said that the port engines of the Texas had not been stopped during the battle of July 3.

The other witnesses heard during the day were Medical Director Charles M. De Valin, a surgeon; Capt. J. L. Hannum, retired engineer; Lieut. Thomas Carter, Ensign W. P. Cronan, Carpenter J. H. Warford, all of whom served on the Brooklyn. Warford stated that the Brooklyn had been struck about thirty times.

Adjourned Until Monday.

Just before the court adjourned today Attorney Rayner, counsel for Admiral Schley, informed the court that he hoped to be able to conclude the presentation of testimony for the applicant by the close of next week. He added that he thus far had not had opportunity to consult with witnesses who are still to be heard. He, therefore, asked that an adjournment be taken from to-day until Monday. Speaking for the court, Admiral Dewey said he was most happy to grant the request. Accordingly the court adjourned until 11 o'clock Monday.

Corrections In Evidence.

When court opened to-day all of yesterday's witnesses appeared to make corrections in their testimony.

Lieut. Commander Nicholson, of the Oregon, was the first new witness, and his story of the battle corroborated the other Schley witnesses. Dr. Charles M. Devalin followed Commander Nicholson. He said that he had been medical officer on board the Brooklyn, and had observed the battle of July 3 from the forecastle. He gave a brief description of the battle, saying he had been present when Yeoman Ellis was killed, and that he had observed Commodore Schley during the entire engagement. "His conduct and bearing," said the witness, "was all that could be expected. He seemed to know what he was about, and to be doing all that he wished to do. He was in perfect control of the situation."

Schley's Order.

In response to questions from Capt. Lemly, the witness said that he had heard Commodore Schley give the order, "Helm hard aport," and had heard no one else give it. In response to a question he said that he had at that time heard no colloquy or altercation concerning this order.

"Haven't you stated heretofore that you did hear such a conversation?"

"I may have so stated, but I do not now remember and cannot repeat any conversation of the kind."

"Have you not heretofore repeated it?"

At this point Mr. Rayner interrupted Capt. Lemly's examination with a protest against the putting of the question without giving the names of persons with whom witness was supposed to have had the conversation in question, but Capt. Lemly objected to this interruption and insisted upon the regularity of the proceedings. Capt. Parker quoted precedents to sustain Mr. Rayner's objections, to which Capt. Lemly replied that a question similarly put had been allowed on a previous occasion.

Dewey As a Lawyer.

Speaking for the court, Admiral Dewey sustained Mr. Rayner's point, saying:

"We know more law now than we did before. Time, place and names of individuals should be given. I would not like myself to have such a question put to me; no one would like it."

Capt. Lemly then asked:

"Did you tell Lieut. Ward in Portsmouth, N. H., on August 6, that you had heard a conversation in which the word 'Texas' was used?"

The witness said that on that date Mr. Ward had asked him what he would testify to in the case and he had said that it was possible that there had been a conversation about the order for porting the helm of the Brooklyn during the battle between Commodore Schley and Lieutenant Commander Hodgson; but the witness said that he was unable to repeat it under oath. He had no recollection of saying anything at that time about the Texas.

Encouraging Messages.

Dr. Devalin was then excused and Capt. John L. Hannum was called. He testified as to the disabled condition of the collier Merrimac and was followed by Lieut. Thomas F. Carter, passed assistant engineer, who was in charge of the machinery of the Brooklyn. Lieut. Carter told of the encouraging messages sent by Schley to the men below the deck, and he was followed by Ensign Cronan, of the Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn's Loop.

In describing the details of the battle of July 3 Mr. Cronan told of the turn of the Brooklyn, saying that after it began he observed that the first ship appeared to be heading directly toward the Brooklyn, creating the impression that either she meant to ram the Brooklyn or the Brooklyn to ram her. This countingency, however, was averted by both the Brooklyn and the Spanish ships putting the helm to port. He said that the Zocapa land battery also fired at the Brooklyn at that time. He also stated that just before starting inshore the Viscaya made a sudden turn toward the Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Struck Many Times.

Lieut. Cronan was followed by George H. Warford, who was a carpenter on Schley's flagship. Describing the battle of July 3, he said that early in the action the order was passed by a marine orderly, "Stand by to ram." He also said that later, and during the chase, he had seen the Viscaya turn as if to ram the Brooklyn before the former went ashore. He said he had made a personal examination of the Brooklyn after the battle, and had found that she had been struck thirty times.

Contradicts Claxton.

When Mr. Warford was excused, J. L. Hunly, who was chief machinist on the Texas during the battle of July 3, was called. He said that during the engagement he had been on duty at the throttle of the port engine. He said, in response to a question by Mr. Rayner, that he knew Alfred Claxton, who had previously testified that on the day of the battle he was standing at the throttle of the port engine.

"Is that correct?" asked Mr. Rayner, quoting Claxton's testimony.

"No, sir," the witness replied.

"Was the port engine of the Texas either stopped or backed?"

"No, sir, not to my recollection."

"Was it slowed down?"

"Slowed down; yes, sir."

Schley's Bearing.

Mr. Hunly was then excused, and Lieut. J. P. J. Ryan, who was assistant engineer on the Brooklyn, was introduced. He considered the bearing of Commodore Schley during the battle of July 3 as admirable, and stated that the Commodore was in an exposed position all the time. He also described the death of Yeoman Ellis.

The Cuban Campaign.

When Lieut. Ryan had concluded, Lieut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who was Commodore Schley's Flag Lieutenant during the Cuban campaign, was called.

Mr. Rayner questioned the witness at considerable length concerning the receipt of dispatches while the flying squadron lay off Cienfuegos and also after it had arrived off Santiago. He first directed the witness' attention to dispatch No. 7, known as the "Dear Schley" letter, and elicited from him the statement, based upon notes upon the back of copies of the dispatch presented to him for identification, that two copies of it had been received, the first on the 23d and the second on the 24th of May. With reference to the McCalla memorandum, saying that a good landing place could be found on the coast of Cuba, thirteen miles to the westward of Cienfuegos, it was shown that it had been received at 8:15 p. m. on May 25, and the witness said that as the Hawk had arrived at that time he thought the memorandum had not been received until then. No. 8, a dispatch from Admiral Sampson, saying that the Spanish squadron probably was at Santiago and directing Admiral Schley to proceed there with all dispatch if satisfied that the Spaniards were not at Cienfuegos, also was referred to, and it was shown that according to the receiving stamp imprint it had been received at 8:15 p. m. May 23, and that another copy had been received on the following day.

Orders Rapidly Obeyed.

The witness stated in reply to a question asked by Mr. Rayner, that the flying squadron left Cienfuegos about three hours after the message had been received stating that the Spaniards were not in the harbor. He also stated that the first direct knowledge Commodore Schley had of Cervera's presence in Santiago harbor was when he saw the Colon at the entrance on May 29. In telling of the reconnoissance of May 31, Lieut. Wells said that he did not hear Schley make any remarks about the conspicuousness of his uniform and that he was at different points on the conning tower during the bombardment apparently indifferent to danger.

Court Adjourns.

At this point Mr. Rayner stated to the court that he desired to interrogate Mr. Wells with reference to the battle of July 3, but that as the hour of adjournment was approaching he would not have time to conclude his examination of the witness upon this branch of the inquiry. He therefore asked to be allowed to postpone further questioning until the next session of the court. He also requested an adjournment of the court over until next Monday. Both requests were granted, and the court adjourned until 11 o'clock Monday next.

NEW WARDEN

Of the Indiana State Prison Appointed.

JAMES D. REID CHOSEN

TO SUCCEED GEORGE SHIDELER, WHO HAS RESIGNED.

A SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Filed By Muncie Man Against Former Friend, Whom He Accuses of Alienating Wife's Affections.

VILLAGE WITHOUT FUEL.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 18.—This afternoon the Board of Control of the State prison announced the appointment of James D. Reid, of South Bend, to succeed George Shideler, as Warden. Shideler's resignation takes effect November 1.

SUES FORMER FRIEND.

Muncie Man Asks Damages For Alienation of Wife's Affections.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 18.—The damage suit brought by William Matthews against William Neff, who is accused of the alienation of Mrs. Matthews' affections, has begun in Circuit Court. Neff denies all the allegations, and declares that here is an attempt to blackmail him. Neff was once owner of the big Neff washing machine factory at Cowan, and he still has large property interests. He is a widower about sixty years old. The woman in the case was, until her husband got a divorce from her a short time ago, the comely wife of a well-known iron worker. She is thirty-five years old. Neff and Matthews were formerly good friends, but Matthews says Neff took advantage of their friendship to win the affections of his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were divorced soon after the filing of the damage suit.

DODGED HIS TAXES.

Heavy Fine Imposed On a Farmer In Crawfordsville.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 18.—In the Montgomery Circuit Court yesterday, Judge West imposed a fine of $1,000 upon William Cox, charged with having sequestered $50,000 worth of taxable property for seventeen years. By the ruling of the court the property in question was placed upon the tax duplicate, and taxes were collected upon it for the full seventeen years. There were seventeen counts against Mr. Cox, but they were all bunched, and the fine was imposed as a whole. Mr. Cox is one of the highly respected citizens of the county, and is worth about $200,000 in choice farm lands. The suits were filed over a year ago, and, under the law the County Prosecutor, William M. Reeves, will receive 10 per cent. of all the taxes collected.

CITIZENS HUNT FOR WOOD.

The Gas Supply of the Village of Shideler Gives Out.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 18.—Shideler, a village of several hundred inhabitants, six miles north of Muncie, is completely out of natural gas, and the residents of the place are spending their leisure time hunting for wood. The village has heretofore been supplied by two large wells that always proved excellent producers. Wednesday the gas pressure gave down entirely, and the residents were forced to go to the woods in order to find enough wood to keep them warm. The people of Shideler say that while there has been a gradual decrease in pressure, it was thought there would be plenty for this winter, and the total failure thus finds them wholly unprepared.

HAS NOT RESIGNED.

Consul To Zanzibar Reaches Home To Take a Vacation.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Charles B. Rogers, of Shoals, Ind., who is in the city, says he has not resigned as Consul to Zanzibar, but has returned on a sixty-day furlough, the climate of the island having affected his health. He does not say whether or not he will return. It is understood that Mr. Rogers has tendered his resignation as Consul, but that the Department of State at Washington has not formally relieved him of his title. He is now a candidate, it is said, for the nomination for joint Senator for Orange, Lawrence and Martin counties.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

In Honor of George Rogers Clark and Pierre Gibault.

Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 18.—The Columbia Reading Circle, composed of society women, at a meeting last night decided to raise funds to erect a memorial hospital in this city in honor of George Rogers Clark and the Rev. Father Pierre Gibault. Their first effort will be a rummage sale, and entertainments of different natures will be given until enough money is secured to begin the work.

May Not Bore For Water.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 18.—The newspapers of both parties are objecting to the expenditure of the $500 appropriated by the County Council to bore for water to test the supply for a waterworks plant, and it is probable that that step toward a municipal plant will be retracted by the Councilmen, who are promoting the project for a city plant. A committee of the City Council has under consideration the proposition for a municipal works, but while there is general belief in the advisability of such investment, the newspapers are asking how it is to be obtained. The city's debt is so near the limit that the money can not be borrowed, and, besides, the contract with the existing company has twenty years to run.

Y. M. C. A. Out of Debt.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Last night, at the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., a committee that has been at work the past month was banqueted because of its success in raising $12,000. This sum was necessary to put the association building out of debt, and the committee of citizens, assisted by Mr. W. A. Kling, of Chicago, labored hard to bring about this end. The association is now out of debt, and owns one of the handsomest buildings in Indiana, valued at $30,000. E. E. Stacy, of Indianapolis, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., presided at the banquet, which was attended by representative business men of the city.

Dairymen To Raise Prices.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 18.—Thirty-five dairymen, who sell their product in this city, to-day formed an organization, and have raised the price of milk from five cents to six and one-quarter cents a quart. J. T. Brent, of Chicago, is in this city conferring with local people relative to the formation of a company which will erect a plant and buy the product of the local dairies for distribution to consumers. The dairymen say they will welcome a move of this sort, as they can make more profit by this method than by handling the milk themselves.

Will Meet In Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—Delegates from Bloomington, who attended the thirty-second annual meeting of the northwest branch Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, held at Grand Rapids, Mich., succeeded in getting the next convention in this city. The date will be the week of October 8, 1902, and over 400 delegates are expected from the States of Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. This is the first time in twelve years that an Indiana conference has entertained this branch meeting.

Whitecaps At Work.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—In charging the grand jury to-day, Judge Martin gave special instructions concerning the report that "whitecaps" had been at work in Monroe county, having in mind the attempt to murder John Cole, a farmer, north of town, two weeks ago. He ordered that the matter be thoroughly investigated. Cole is much better to-day, and it is now thought he will recover.

Shideler's New Appointment.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18.—George A. H. Shideler, of Michigan City, has been elected president of the Indiana Conference of Charities, and Charles H. Grout, of Indianapolis, secretary.

Madison Man Dead.

Madison, Ind., Oct. 18.—Geo. W. McKinney, a respected resident of Madison for over sixty years, died last night in his eighty-fourth year.

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT WAS A SUCCESS.

Orchestra and the Two Soloists, Mr. Wetmore and Miss Gibbons Do Wonderfully Well.

The fifth Philharmonic concert of the series of 1901 was given at Liederkranz Hall last night. The programme was varied and exacting, and served to bring out clearly the increased and well-rounded strength of the orchestra. The soloists were Mr. Carl Wetmore and Miss Kathryn C. Gibbons.

The opening number was Strauss' concert waltz, "Sounds From Vienna Forest," and was played with spirit and unusual grace of expression.

Mr. Wetmore was heard in Spahr's Concerto 8. He is a young violinist of more than ordinary ability. His playing evinced not only fine technical skill, but artistic insight and appreciation.

Massenet's "Le dernier Tommeil de la vierge" was the second orchestral number, and was rendered with admirable effect.

The work of the orchestra has gained in sympathy, its play is more in harmony, there is evidence of increased precision and of a responsive understanding between the director and those under his baton.

Miss Gibbons has a graceful and magnetic personality and a voice of excellent range and purity of tone. Her notes are full, clear and expressive. She was heard in "La Nozze di Fango," "Why So Pale Are the Roses?" "Return Again" and "Spring Song."

The concert closed with the overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" by the orchestra.

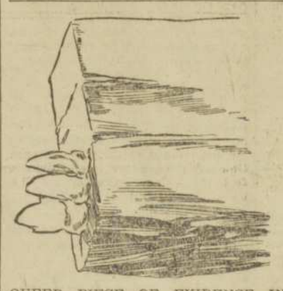

WANTS $10,000 FOR TEETH.

Andrew Foy Leaves Three Imbedded In a Plank—Asks City To Pay.

[Chicago News.]

To Andrew Foy, a stonemason, belongs the distinction of making the city of Chicago defendant in one of the most novel suits for personal injury ever filed in Cook or any other county. He desires the city to pay him $10,000 for three long yellow teeth. When the case comes to trial—which it will if the city fails to settle—it will be shown by Charles A. McDonald, his attorney, that the municipality pulled the teeth and that Foy, although a party to the dental work, was the unwilling subject of the operation.

Only one exhibit will be introduced at the trial. It will be a piece of plank, imbedded in which are the Foy teeth.

QUEER PIECE OF EVIDENCE IN SIDEWALK CASE.
(Teeth imbedded in plank to be used in damage suit.)

September 17 last Foy was traveling at dusk, or later, in the vicinity of Kedzie avenue and West Taylor street, when without warning he stepped from the terminus of a new cement sidewalk. Pitching headlong, his face struck an upright piece of scantling. The fall was accompanied by a gasp and Foy's mouth being open his upper teeth were planted deep into the scantling.

Here was a rough experience for Foy. He couldn't pull out his teeth and so he embraced the piece of plank, and, with his teeth still impaling it, he sought surgical aid. But the teeth liked their new location and there they are to-day, while the plaintiff affirms in his bill that he still is injured in mind and body and is "sick, sore and disordered."

Chinese Curios Were Shown.

An interesting exhibit of Chinese and Japanese curios were shown last night at the residence of Mrs. W. C. Kendrick, 733 Fourth avenue, in the interest of the Broadway M. E. Church Foreign Missionary Society. The curios were sent to this country by Mrs. John D. Trawick, whose husband, Dr. Trawick, is a missionary in China, and included a sword of Chinese cast, Japanese laundry bill, Chinese lady's shoes, Chinese god of wealth, Japanese massage ball, Japanese wine gourd, Japanese and Chinese flags and chopsticks and model of a rickashaw.

SPECIFIC

OF THE OFFICIAL BALLOTS.

ORDERS ISSUED BY SECRETARY OF STATE HILL

TO THE COUNTY CLERKS.

Former State Senator John J. Johnson Candidate For Assistant Clerk of the Senate.

LIFE SENTENCE AFFIRMED.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Because of the action of certain County Clerks in placing unnecessary devices on the official ballot when there are no lists of candidates to go under them, and because of certain other failures to properly follow the election law in the arrangement of the ballot, Secretary of State Hill has addressed a letter to them prescribing the order of the ballot and giving other directions.

The letter reads:

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 18, 1901.—To the County Clerk of ..... County: In arranging the official ballot for your county for the regular November election, to be held November 5, 1901, you are directed to cause to be printed thereon the various party devices or emblems, with the party names or titles and groups of names beneath them as they appear herein, viz:

First, on the left side of the ballot, the device of the Democratic party—"a game cock in the act of crowing"—and its title and group of candidates beneath it; next, the device of the Republican party—a "log cabin"—and its title and group of candidates beneath it; next, and in the order named, the device of the People's party—"the plow and hammer"—and its title and group of candidates beneath it; next, the device of the Prohibition party—"a phoenix"—and its name or title and group of candidates beneath it: Provided, however, that only the devices or emblems of the parties represented by a candidate or candidates are to appear on the ballot.

By Section 14 of the election law (see pamphlet compiled by Secretary of State), it is made the duty of the Secretary of State to prescribe the order in which the party devices and list of candidates shall appear on the ballot, and he is required to direct that precedence be given to the party which polled the highest number of votes for the head of the ticket in the last preceding election, and the object of this circular is to comply with that provision of the law. It is suggested that you forward it to your printer, with your indorsement of approval upon it. Respectfully, C. B. HILL, Secretary of State.

Senator Johnson a Candidate.

Former State Senator John J. Johnson, of Louisa, Lawrence county, has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic caucus nomination for the office of Assistant Clerk of the Senate this winter. Senator Johnson was a member of the last body and made many friends over the State. He believes that the Democrats will without a doubt control the next Senate, and is making a canvass of the party nominees for their support for his candidacy.

Life Sentence Affirmed.

Chief Justice Paynter handed down an opinion at to-day's session of the Appellate Court affirming a judgment of the Breathitt Circuit Court in the felony case of J. F. Gilbert against the Commonwealth. The appellant was convicted in the lower court of the murder of Ned Cassity, a shantyboatman, in March, 1900, and sentenced to confinement for life in the State penitentiary. The judgment was appealed from because of the admission of alleged incompetent evidence and errors in the instructions of the trial court. The court here, in upholding the judgment of the court below, says that there were no errors to the prejudice of the defendant committed.

Jefferson Court Upheld.

The judgment of the Jefferson Law and Equity Court in the damage case of Henry Chun against the K. and I. Bridge Company's receivers was affirmed by the court, Judge Du Relle writing the opinion. Chun, a boy seventeen years old, was injured while hanging on to the ladder of a freight car, losing both feet. The jury in the court below found for the defendant, it being shown that the appellant was a trespasser on the train and was not seen by the engineer in time to prevent the accident.

Owensboro Loses Tax Case.

The judgment of the Daviess Circuit Court in the case of E. O'Callaghan's executors against the city of Owensboro was reversed by the Appellate Court. Judge White delivered the opinion.

In 1896 the city of Owensboro, by its officers, attempted to garnishee in the hands of certain banks funds sufficient to pay taxes that had been assessed against Jerry O'Callaghan, the taxes being for the years 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, and amounted to $5,000. The appellants, as executors, filed their action seeking an injunction to prevent the payment of the taxes out of the attached fund and to have the assessment declared void on the ground that the property belonged to Eugene O'Callaghan, a nonresident, and was in the hands of Jerry O'Callaghan as agent only. The lower court sustained the claim of the city, and the opinion of today holds that the property was taxable only in the hands of Eugene O'Callaghan at his home in Marion county.

Smallpox Stamped Out.

Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, President of the State Board of Health, was here to-day a caller at the Executive Department. He says that smallpox, so prevalent in Kentucky last winter, has been stamped out completely, and that not a single case remains. He says that the members of the last General Assembly are to be congratulated on the prompt action taken in increasing the annual appropriation for the State Board, as otherwise that body would not have been able to do such effective work.

The Nervo Remedy Company, of Jefferson county, filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State to-day. It has $12,500 capital stock, and Claude Buckley and R. W. Cozine are the incorporators.

Powers Asked Her To Leave State.

Miss Snuffer said she went to the jail to see Powers last summer and he asked her to leave the State and not testify against him, for her testimony would be hard on him. He suggested that she go to Hagan, Va., where the State could not force her to testify. He said he would pay for the "necessities of life" for her if she would go.

Sheriff B. F. Suter, of Franklin county, told of having been denied admission to the Executive building when he announced that he wanted to find out who fired the shot. Taylor refused to consult with him and would not permit him to enter the doors.

Afternoon Session.

When the Judge rapped for order at 2 o'clock he announced that he would overrule the motion made by the defense to abandon the night sessions of the court on account of the prisoner's alleged ill health. What purported to be an affidavit of the defendant, was not sworn to, and what purports to be a statement from the counsel was not signed, he explained.

Culton Takes the Stand.

W. H. Culton was placed on the witness stand at 2:20 o'clock and gave testimony implicating Powers, Taylor, Finley and Youtsey.

First, Culton told of his intimacy with Taylor and having taken active part in Taylor's campaign. He took the "stump" for Taylor and engaged in joint debate with James Andrew Scott, of Frankfort, and W. R. Howell, of Hopkinsville. In 1896 he was an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention, John W. Yerkes having nominated him in the State convention.

He told of the original plan of the mountain men to capture two Louisville and Nashville trains, one on the Jellico branch and another on the Hagan, Va., branch, and bring the men to Frankfort. They were to have a locomotive to pilot the way to see that everything was safe.

Powers' Alleged Declarations.

At a meeting in the Secretary of State's office Powers said:

"This is a very serious matter, and if any of you do not want to undertake it, withdraw now. If we fail, all of us may be arrested for conspiracy and we will be indicted."

Powers also said:

"We will give the Democrats thirty minutes to settle this contest, and if they don't do it, we'll kill every d—m one of them."

After the mountain men came Taylor wanted to send them back home. Powers objected and Taylor said: "Powers is a d—d hot-headed fool. He can't wait until I'm ready. I'll settle the contest all right."

Youtsey's "Slickest Scheme."

Youtsey came to him with a rifle and a box of smokeless powder, steel bullets, and said: "I've got the slickest scheme yet to kill Goebel. I've the gun and cartridges to do it with. He can be shot from one of the windows in the Secretary of State's office. All you will have to do is to raise the window, pull down the blind, kill Goebel and escape down through the basement. No one will ever know who did it."

After Henry Berry, of Fayette, had been unseated in the House, it was determined to seat Berry by force on the following Monday morning. Culton went to Winchester to get men "to fight." This was after a meeting with Stanley Milward, Gray Falconer and others at Lexington. On Monday morning Culton had his men placed on the floor of the House. They wore Taylor badges, so they could identify each other and would not shoot their own men.

Another Plan Determined On.

Berry was to go in and take his seat and the shooting was to begin when the Democrats unseated him in favor of Van Meter.

Culton said: "Just then Charley Finley came up and said: 'We don't want to have trouble this morning. Gen. Duke says another plan has been determined upon to settle this contest.'"

Culton then told of a meeting of Taylor, Powers, Finley and himself, when Taylor said:

"If the Democrats don't stop, Hazelrigg and Hobson, of the Court of Appeals, should be killed. That will settle it."

Powers said that was right and Finley agreed with him.

While in jail at Frankfort, Culton said Powers offered him $100 not to go on the witness stand in his own behalf on his motion for bail.

Cross-Examination Unimportant.

At 3:30 o'clock the cross-examination of Culton was begun by W. C. Owens. Culton admitted having been indicted once in Jackson county for signing the name of another man to a paper. He said the paper was a petition to build a new courthouse and he was authorized to sign the name of a man to the petition, and he did this. There was politics in the matter, and this man afterwards turned against him and had him indicted. He said the court promptly dismissed him. He denied that he was short in his accounts in the State Auditor's office, and then in answer to question repeated, only more fully, the testimony which he had given in chief.

At 5 o'clock Judge Cantrill adjourned court until to-night at 7 o'clock.

Evening Session.

When court convened this evening Mr. Owens resumed the cross-examination of Culton. He denied that he told "Delly" Wolcott, of Frankfort, and C. O. Reynolds, of Lexington, that he had made arrangements with the Commonwealth to get money for every conviction secured. He said that he had never told Wharton Golden that the man that killed Goebel was so drunk he could hardly stand up. Culton said he never told Powers that Youtsey had said Goebel was to be shot from his office.

Militiaman Gives Testimony.

Dudley Williamson, a member of the Frankfort company of militia, said the men were kept at the armory in uniform, but when they went to their meals they were compelled to wear citizen's clothes. Between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning Goebel was killed the men were formed in line, and overcoats, knapsacks and blankets were distributed to them. Goebel was not killed until after 11 o'clock.

Former Judge Hazelrigg's Evidence.

At 8:20 o'clock ex-Chief Justice Hazelrigg was called to the witness stand. He saw men standing on the western steps of the Executive building just after Goebel was shot.

"They were mountain men," said the witness, "and were armed."

The Judges of the Court of Appeals he said were not allowed to go on the Capital square after Goebel was shot.

"Do you know Leander Guffy?" asked Mr. Williams.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"Who is he?"

"Tipstaff of the Court of Appeals."

"Did you ever have any conversation with him relative to the killing of any one at Frankfort?"

His Own Life Threatened.

"Yes, sir, I talked with him just a few minutes before 10 o'clock on the morning Goebel was shot. I was leaving my home when Mr. Guffy hailed me. He said he had been out with the boys the night before and it had been determined to kill the Chief Justice. On the Saturday before Mr. Guffy told me there would be serious trouble within three days."

"How many did you see at the west door of the Executive building after Goebel was shot?"

"I saw four. I saw one very determined-appearing man with a black mustache, another stood behind him. This one carried a gun and another had a pistol."

"Did you attend the trial of James Howard?"

"I was in the trial room upon one occasion."

"Did you see James Howard?"

"I saw the defendant, yes, sir."

"Was he the same man you saw on the steps?"

"It is my best judgment that he was the same man I saw on the steps. I was attracted by the man's dark mustache and the determined expression on his face."

Receipt of Cartridges Proved.

Postmaster Holmes, of Frankfort, produced a copy of the money order purchased by Henry Youtsey and payable to Powell & Clements, dealers in rifles, cartridges, etc., Cincinnati.

Frank Purcell, receiving clerk of the Adams Express Company, Cincinnati, received a package from Powell & Clements and addressed to "Henry E. Youtsey, Frankfort, Ky." The package was received on January 23 and was sent to Youtsey the same day.

Arthur Branch, of Frankfort, employe of the Adams Express Company, swore that he delivered to Henry E. Youtsey a package on January 24, sent by Powell & Clements, of Cincinnati. Youtsey signed for the package in his presence. It weighed one pound.

The Stivers Came Next.

Sherman and Rufus Stivers were the next witnesses.

Wade Watts, the colored porter in the Capitol, told of John Ricketts saying: "Every man, woman and child knows what we are here for, and I do not see why we don't do it."

He saw Youtsey run down the steps into the basement of the Executive building after Goebel was shot. He cried: "My God, did you hear those shots?" Youtsey had something under his coat and concealed it by holding his coat over his breast with his hand. Youtsey ran around the building and into the Governor's office.

At 10 o'clock Judge Cantrill adjourned court until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

JOHN D. WAKEFIELD.

Y. M. C. A. Goes To Paducah.

Paducah was selected yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. as the place for the holding of the association's convention, which will be from February 20 to February 23. Owensboro and Bowling Green were competitors, but the request from Paducah, which was signed by the Mayor and other city officials and by commercial bodies, won the day.

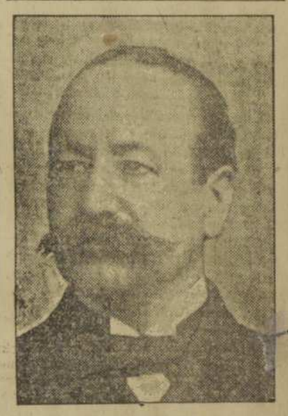

HOPE RESCUE MISSION'S SPECIAL SERIES OF MEETINGS.

S. H. ("Hop") Hadley, of the Jerry McAuley Mission, Will Be the Leader.

S. H. Hadley, superintendent of the Jerry McAuley Mission, of 316 Water street, New York City, will conduct special meetings at Hope Rescue Mission, 808 West Jefferson street, beginning next Wednesday night and continuing four days. There will be a grand rally at Broadway Baptist church Sunday afternoon, October 27, at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Hadley, familiarly known as "Hop" Hadley, is a man of national reputation as a rescue mission worker. He has been the means of the conversion of numbers of fallen men. He has been recently engaged in delivering addresses to the students of the leading universities in the East. He closed a meeting at the University of Pennsylvania last week.

Hope Rescue Mission is conducted upon very similar lines as that of the McAuley Water-street Mission. One leading feature of resemblance is the free supper to homeless men every Saturday night. There have been a great many wonderful conversions of men from lives of drunkenness and crime at the mission during the first year of its existence.

The "Hadley" meetings will celebrate the first anniversary of this work, and many men who have been helped by the Hope Rescue Mission and who are now leading productive, happy lives, will be present and give the story of their conversion at these meetings.

Gospel services under the leadership of the Rev. William M. Bruce are held every night at 7:30 o'clock. To-night a free supper will be given, to which all homeless men are invited.

PAUPER KILLED BY AN I. C. TRAIN.

Nathan Ross Was Crossing Track and Failed To Hear the Warning.

Nathan Ross, an inmate of the Home for the Aged and Infirm, was struck by a train and instantly killed yesterday morning while walking on the Illinois Central track near the almshouse. He left the Home about 9 o'clock for the purpose of taking a short walk and was on his way back when the accident occurred. He was near where the track crosses the Salt river road and failed to hear the warning whistle from the outbound fast passenger train when it whistled as it rounded the curve only a short distance away.

The body was badly mutilated and scarcely recognizable. Coroner McCullough was summoned and ordered the remains to be removed to the Home of the Aged and Infirm. Ross was about sixty-five years of age and had been admitted to the home three months ago. So far as known he has no relatives here.

RECEPTION

Of Callers At the White House By the President.

GOOD NATURED AND CORDIAL,

BUT NOT ABLE TO CONCEAL THAT HE IS BORED.

HISJOCULAR REMARKS QUOTED

New York, Oct. 18.—A Washington letter to the Post says:

Theodore Roosevelt has been President of the United States long enough to have made a distinct impression on the public men who make up what is vaguely termed Washington sentiment. The question on everybody's lips is: "What kind of a President is Roosevelt going to make? Enough persons have been to see him, from Senators and other party leaders down to the most trivial callers, and he has said enough in response to their varied requests to furnish the data by which all interested observers may make their own predictions according to their individual standards of political expediency and public duty.

No one can go to the White House on any business day without realizing the terrible strain to which we subject a President of the United States. Even though Congress is not now in session, and the building is theoretically closed in mourning for the late President, the public corridors of the second story have much the appearance of a steamship wharf on a sailing day. The space reserved for waiting-room purposes is literally packed; there is hardly standing room. Official Secretary Cortelyou, personal Secretary Loeb, and clerical Secretary Pruden are constantly besought by anxious groups to procure an audience with the President. Capt. Loeffler, the President's doorkeeper, who admits without challenge personages of recognized importance, like Cabinet officers and well-known Senators, is kept busy swinging open the door into the Cabinet room. When one considers the number of a President's callers, and the diversity of their business, one may well believe, in thinking of his duties, that "being talked to death must be a terrible death to die."

That the presidency is an office in which a man must submit to endless importunity is the experience of every recent occupant. Gen. Harrison told the friends who inquired concerning his willingness to be a candidate in 1896, that he should dread to have to go through again the terrible ordeal of grappling entanglements and listening to the appeals of patronage. President Cleveland, in his second term, issued a notice to the effect that he would not receive importunities for office, but that all the preliminary discussion must be had with the Cabinet officers in whose departments the positions respectively came. President McKinley, as was often noted, possessed an almost magical faculty for "passing people along," and yet doing it graciously. Still the office wore heavily on him, and left his constitution somewhat weakened.

Has Not Learned the Ropes.

President Roosevelt, it is acknowledged, has not yet acquired the McKinley art of taking these troubles easily. While perfectly good natured and cordial to all his visitors, he bears quiet evidence of being frightfully bored by the office-brokers, and tells those who come to see him on matters of public policy how glad he is to have the patronage harangue occasionally interrupted. Of course everything that a President says to his callers is repeated to somebody and tends to travel rapidly; when he tells the bearer of a statesmanlike message that he welcomes such an oasis, the virtuous man loses no time in letting it get around to the place-hunters that their visits are less welcomed than his own. Already there is some feeling among the politicians that they are suffering a slight when their errands relate to office. Some of the President's jocular remarks at such times have been quoted afterward as coming a little too near the truth to be wholly enjoyed. Two Senators were pressing him closely in regard to patronage the other day, and thought they had about made their point, when the President, with a wave of the hand, invited into the conversation a third man, before whom they could not talk, saying in a jesting way that he wanted to get a little respite from their importunities. His humor, for some reason, they did not wholly like, and they went away questioning whether he would be a real success as President.

Talks Too Loud.

Another thing with which the politicians find fault is that Mr. Roosevelt talks too loud and does not give them much opportunity for privacy. He receives a great many callers in his large room at one time, listening to them in groups, or one by one as they get around to him; in this sort of conference, much that he says can be overheard by the others present, as was his home thrust at Senator Mason the other day on the necessity of Mason's picking out for Federal positions men of the highest integrity. The Senator's opponents are already guying him a little about the impression his henchmen have made on the new President, and Mason is one of those who wish that their patronage conferences might henceforth be held in a shady nook of Lover's Lane. There is also a disposition in some quarters to resent the notion that the President should himself personally ascertain the fitness of candidates presented for places by the Senators; these dignitaries maintain that no President can do this without reducing greatly the time at his disposal for—listening to further appeals.

The President's callers, however, while saying that he lacks something of Mr. McKinley's skill in handling people expeditiously and smoothly, acknowledge that he possesses a wonderful faculty of knowing in advance what they are going to say. He has always been noted for this. His mind habitually leaps ahead of the conversation, and those who start out on a subject with platitudes and preliminaries are suddenly interrupted by some pregnant remark containing the gist of the whole matter. An important visitor the other day, known to be long-winded and painfully precise in his presentation of a case, was coached by his advisers beforehand as to the necessity of bringing his remarks within small compass. He wanted twenty minutes, but his advisers told him that he had better get his story into ten, as that would be as long an audience as he could expect. Reluctantly he composed a ten-minute speech and went to the White House, where, although having a very successful interview, he did not get a chance to talk ninety seconds. The President, as soon as the presentation began, gave one of his logical leaps ahead, showing that he comprehended the whole subject, and with a question or two reached the visitor's exact point of view. Mr. Roosevelt, in doing this, shows that he is a well-informed man, with an alert mentality. This greatly lessens the task of listening to what everybody has to say, because he does not need to hear so much.

Relations With the Senate.

What will be the relation of the new President to the Senate? His declaration at Buffalo that he should continue unbroken the McKinley policies implied that he would make himself a champion of reciprocity, for instance. But can any Republican President push very hard for reciprocity without antagonizing his own party in the Senate, which has no notion of ratifying the reciprocity treaties? The situation is much the same in regard to the trusts.

Roosevelt's last notable speech as Vice President, delivered at the Minnesota State Fair, took strong grounds in favor of some Government regulation of great industrial combinations. Publicity of accounts is believed to be the thing which he regards as most important, and yet how far can he go in any such movement without running into Nelson W. Aldrich, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate, and the real leader of that body? If our new President could content himself to sit back in his executive chair, indorsing senatorial appointments and writing Thanksgiving proclamations, but leaving public questions to adjust themselves, he would undoubtedly succeed in holding the politicians in his support, but if he endeavors to be an aggressive leader he must expect to encounter antagonism.

Already the lines of a possible cleavage are apparent. The public feels very warmly toward Mr. Roosevelt. The newspapers represented in this city were never so nearly unanimous in their encouragement for any President in health and vigor as they are to-day. Even correspondents of stanch Democratic newspapers have seriously tested the liberality of their journals by writing in commendation of his acts. Such things both guide and reflect popular feeling. In these circumstances it is conceivable that the politicians may come to dislike Mr. Roosevelt, but at the same time find it inexpedient to say so. Such things have happened before. Mr. Cleveland was nominated in 1892 by popular demand, and against the practically unanimous sentiment of the Democratic Senators and professional politicians. Mr. Roosevelt's nomination as Vice President was responsive to the same sort of popular impulse. Politicians who attempted to aid it or stand in its way were like Mrs. Partington with her broom. It may be so again. As soon as the public learns that a man desires the right thing and is courageous enough to try to do it, they rally to his support, and the politicians have either to make the best of it or take a whipping.

STRIKERS PROHIBITED FROM PICKETING PLANT.

Machinists Ordered By Court To Refrain From Intimidating Allis Chalmers Co.'s Employes.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Judge Kohlsaat, sitting in the United States Circuit Court, to-day granted a permanent injunction restraining Reliable Lodge, No. 253, of the International Association of Machinists, its members and others from picketing the works of the Allis Chalmers Company or in any way intimidating workmen of the company.

In rendering the decision the court characterized assaults by strikers as civil warfare and as malicious as midnight murder. He said it was the undoubted right of workmen to quit work severally or in a body so long as the act does not come within the rule against conspiracies to injure the property of another. The order of the court was made to take the place of a temporary restraining order issued several weeks ago.

The defendants maintain that they are peaceable and that the Allis Chalmers Company is a trust and also in a conspiracy to fight the Machinists' Association.

HACKETT RESIGNS TO RE-ENTER THE LAW.

Charles H. Darling, of Vermont, Will Become Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Frank W. Hackett, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, will ask to be relieved from that office shortly. He will resume his law practice in Washington. He had intended to do so on the first of October, but remained at the request of Secretary Long, who, on account of the death of President McKinley and domestic afflictions, has been obliged to be away from the department. Judge Charles H. Darling, of Bennington, Vt., will succeed Mr. Hackett. Judge Darling is strongly recommended by Senator Proctor and many other prominent citizens of Vermont. He is understood to be a successful practitioner in the courts of Vermont, and a man of high character and standing. For many years he was a judge of the municipal court of Bennington.

RECEPTION TO VISITING BAPTISTS.

Cake Was Given To the Man Whose Face Looked Pleasantest.

Students of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and Baptists from other cities who are strangers in Louisville, were given a reception last night by the congregation of the Walnut-street Baptist church in the Sunday-school room at Second and College streets.

The room was decorated with palms, trailing vines and cut flowers. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. T. T. Eaton, the pastor of the church. Mr. William D. Major, Superintendent of the Sunday-school, and Mr. Claude Harris, of the Young People's Society, seconded Dr. Eaton's welcome.

Recitations were given by Miss Noland and Miss Wagner. A jury of young ladies sat in judgment on the man whose face wore the pleasantest expression, delivering their verdict in the shape of a large cake.

Clothing House Assigns.

Decatur, Ala., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The doors of the Globe Clothing House, J. Klotzman, of Birmingham, Ala., proprietor, were closed to-day, the business having gone into voluntary bankruptcy. The liabilities are estimated at about $10,000 and the assets are unknown. Poor collections are assigned as the cause of failure.

Bresci's Accomplice In Prison.

London, Oct. 18.—A dispatch received here from Rome says that Salvatore Quintavalli, the anarchist who returned from the United States with Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert, has been committed to prison by the court at Porto Ferrajo, Island of Elba, on the charge of being an accomplice of Bresci.

WILL ORGANIZE.

OIL MEN THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES

TO FORM AN ASSOCIATION.

Bureau of Publicity To Be One of the Benefits of the Order—Kentuckians Included.

Toledo, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Arrangements are now being perfected for the greatest organization ever known in the history of crude oil.

The only organized body of oil men in the United States is the Western Oil Men's Association, located in this city. At the annual meeting in January the association will reorganize under the name of the National Oil Men's Association, with headquarters in this city. The present name is not appropriate; therefore the name will be changed so as to cover the petroleum fields of the United States, Canada and Mexico. Subordinate lodges will be organized in every oil town in the country, where a membership above twenty can be secured.

The towns selected in Ohio are Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Bowling Green, Cygnet, Gibsonburg, Woodville, Prairie Depot, Fostoria, Rising Sun, Pemberville, North Baltimore, Findlay, Lima, St. Mary's, Celina, Wapakoneta, Spencerville, Marietta, Barnesville, Corning, Scio, Tiffin, and other suitable places; in Indiana, Montpelier, Marion, Warren, Van Buren, Hartford City, Geneva, Camden, Muncie, Portland, Alexandria and Indianapolis are listed for branches; in Pennsylvania, Butler, Pittsburg, Oil City, Franklin, Titusville, Bradford, Tidioute, Warren, Clarion, Zelinople, St. Petersburg, North Clarendon, Kane, Tiona, Millerstown, Shippenville, Edenburg, Faxburg, Emleton, Parker, Meadville, Kittaning; in West Virginia, Mannington, Weston, Parkersburg, Sistersville, St. Mary's, Wheeling; in New York, Jamestown, Buffalo, New York City, Cuba, Wellsville, Richburg; in California, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Bakersfield, Santa Paula, Ventura, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara; in Texas, Corsicana, Beaumont, Houston, Port Arthur, Sour Lake; in Colorado, Pueblo, Florence, Trinidad, Boulder; in Wyoming, Casper, Cheyenne, Evanston; in Kentucky, Somerset, Monticello, Sunnybrook; in Kansas, Neodosha; in Louisiana, New Orleans; in Canada, Petrolia, Sarnia, Bothwell, Oil Springs.

Toledo Headquarters.

While Toledo will be the national headquarters, each branch will have their Vice Presidents and other officials, and elect delegates to meet as often as annually. Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Texas, California, Washington and the Canadian districts, also expect to organize branches, which will give the organization untold strength. The association's secretary, George A. Whitney, Jr., of this city, is now in correspondence with many of the towns, and is lending a helping hand toward the new organization at headquarters, as well as the branches. Meeting rooms will be secured in each of the towns, which will be kept open to all members, and where an oil man can while away his leisure hours. It will also be a step toward the enacting of laws that are equitable and not all in favor of one side. President B. M. Moulton will probably start an organization at Marion, Ind., within a few weeks, which will be followed by others.

One splendid feature of the new organization, which will be of practical benefit to oil men, will be the establishment of a bureau of publicity, whose duty it will be to keep valuable records of trade, and furnish such information and maps as members shall require.

The Bureau of Publicity of the Western Oil Men's Association is now getting out an elaborate oil edition, giving a complete history of the oil developments of the United States and Canada, with outline maps of the various fields. It will be the finest of the kind yet attempted in the industry.

GOOD FLOW STRUCK.

Bertram No. 4 Yields Forty Barrels a Day.

Somerset, Ky., Oct. 18.—Reports from Sunnybrook, Wayne county, are that Bertram Well, No. 4, of the Somerset Oil Company, is pumping forty barrels a day. This flow was struck at the beginning of the sand, and drilling will be continued with fine prospects for a larger flow at a greater depth. The Kentucky and Tennessee Oil and Gas Company's well, No. 2, on the Capt. Strubbe lease, that has been pumping five barrels per hour, has increased to over seven.

Oil Well Abandoned.

Monticello, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Flanagan's oil well, in this county, which gave promise of being a good well at 1,154 feet, has been abandoned, as further drilling developed the fact that the oil did not exist in paying quantities.

Parnell Well Flowing Freely.

Monticello, Ky., Oct. 18.—Parnell well, on the Lair farm, six miles west of Monticello, has been tubed and is flowing almost constantly.

RIVER TELEGRAMS.

Pittsburg, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The improvements on the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers being made under the direction of Maj. Charles F. Powell are well under way, but it will require four or five weeks more of good weather and low water to complete them in the way the engineers desire. Delays have occurred at Herr's Island dam, on account of the difficulty of securing steel castings of a special design for the bear traps. The work at the Springdale dam has been retarded for lack of skilled workmen, carpenters especially being hard to get. George H. Anderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been asked to preside at the convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association at Paducah, Ky. The ruling of the War Department, refusing to change the harbor lines between Munhall and Six-mile ferry on the Monongahela, has pleased the rivermen. The request was made by the Carnegie Steel Company, the Harbison Walker Company and other manufacturing concerns. It appears that when harbor lines are once established they will not be changed without good reason. The Ohio river at Davis Island dam was 2.5 feet to-night and stationary. The Allegheny river is now quite low and no indication of a rise.

Wheeling, Oct. 18.—River 2.2 feet and stationary. Weather clear and cool. The Cricket passed up at 11 a. m. The Bessie Smith is due to leave for Parkersburg at 9 p. m.

Catlettsburg, Ky., Oct. 8.—[Special.]—Ohio river 4 feet and falling. The Courier passed up at 10:30 a. m. and passed down at 3:30 p. m. Weather very cool.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The White Collar line to-day announced that beginning with Monday passengers on the M. P. Wells will be carried free of charge from Chilo and intermediate points to this city and return. The regular rate was fifty cents, but since there has been opposition in the trade in the shape of the steamer Cando, the rate was cut down to ten cents, and after Sunday there will be no rate. This will cover everybody. The distance to Chilo and return is seventy-two miles. Carpenters were at work strengthening the boiler deck of the Wells to-day. Capt. S. S. Brown passed through to Pittsburg to-night. All boats were in on time to-day except the Courier, which is due at 8 p. m., and will return as soon as possible. The stage at 6 p. m. was 5.6 feet. Weather cloudy; much cooler.

Madison, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—River 5 feet 7 inches scant and falling. The United States snagboat E. A. Woodruff, in port, will coal here and leave for Louisville in the morning. Mate Will Noble, of the Tarascon, is here because his little son fell and broke his leg. The Hattie Brown, Minnie, Juniata and Bonanza up. The Big Kanawha, Hanover, Fannie and Indiana down. Weather fair and warm.

Evansville, Oct. 8.—River 4 feet and stationary. Clear and warmer.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—River 4 feet and falling. Weather clear and cool. The Tennessee from the Tennessee river arrived at 7 p. m. The Clyde arrived from Madison, Ind., to-night. It is understood that the Chattanooga and Cairo Packet Company will operate three boats between Chattanooga and Cairo.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—River 3.8 feet and stationary. Departed: City of Memphis, Tennessee river. Clear and cool.

Cairo, Oct. 18.—River 6 feet. Weather fair and warm.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18.—River 2.8 feet and falling. Weather clear and cool.

REGAL SHOES $3.50

Remember the name and number: 352 FOURTH AVENUE, Near Jefferson Street, LOUISVILLE.

IN MANUFACTURING REGAL SHOES

KING CALF

we use nothing but the best materials. King Calf, the best leather that's made for uppers, and Live Oak, the best sole leather that money can buy, are controlled exclusively by the Regal.

All Regal Shoes are thoroughly seasoned. They are kept on lasts clear through the process of manufacture. This insures wearers of Regals, shoes that keep their shape, that look well, fit well and wear well.

No better shoe is made at any price than the Regal, and no other shoe nearly so good can be bought at anything like the price.

All sizes—all widths—all the good shapes. You are sure of a perfect fit and complete shoe satisfaction when you wear Regals.

Always $3.50—never any change in the price.

The Regal is the only shoe sold at $3.50 direct from Tannery to Consumer in its own stores from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Regal Dressing gives the most lustrous and lasting polish, makes the shoes soft and easy, and preserves the leather indefinitely.

PROPOSALS.

Proposals For Public Printing, Binding and Paper.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Secretary of State until noon Thursday, November 14, 1901, for the executing of the several classes of the Public Printing and Binding in separate contracts, and for furnishing paper, envelopes and stationery for the term of two years from and after the first Monday in January next ensuing, at a certain rate per centum not to exceed the rates specified in the law, including the furnishing of the paper for election ballots and its delivery to the several clerks under the provision of the act of the General Assembly passed at the extraordinary session, 1900, which act was approved October 16, 1900.

The law governing the public printing and binding and furnishing stationery for the State is embraced in the act of June 20, 1893, Chapter 105, Kentucky Statutes, and in the act last above referred to.

A bond for $10,000 must accompany each bid. Solvent guarantee companies will be accepted in lieu of personal security.

Blanks for bidding may be obtained at the office of the Secretary of State.

Address all bids to C. B. Hill, Secretary of State, Frankfort, Kentucky, and each bid should be indorsed on the outside of envelope containing it with name of bidder and marked "Bid."

Thursday, September 26, 1901.

(Signed.)

J. C. W. BECKHAM, Gov., Chairman.
ROBT. J. BRECKINRIDGE, Attorney General.
GUS G. COULTER, Auditor.

RUMORS

Regarding Methodist Preacher In Tennessee

ARE BEING INVESTIGATED.

AN ALLEGED FRAUDULENT FIRE INSURANCE CLAIM.

BAPTIST MEETING ADJOURNS.

Convention Will Be Held Next Year In Humboldt—Report On Temperance

SUBMITTED AND DISCUSSED.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Rev. W. T. Haggard, Presiding Elder of the Lebanon district of the Methodist Church, has ordered an investigation of rumors regarding an alleged fraudulent insurance claim on a fire loss involving the Rev. B. A. Cherry, pastor of the Methodist church in Lebanon. A committee was appointed to investigate the rumors to determine whether a trial will be necessary at the meeting of the annual conference, which will convene in Pulaski next Wednesday.

This committee has been at work for several days, but it is holding its inquiry behind closed doors, and it is probable nothing will be given out until conference meets next week.

Dr. Cherry strennously denies the rumor, and demands a thorough examination. He was engaged to marry a young woman residing in Providence Wednesday. Invitations were out and a few had been received by people residing in that community. When the trouble first broke out Mr. Cherry, acting on advice of his brethren, released the young woman from the engagement.

CONVENTION ENDED.

Tennessee Baptists Will Meet Next Year In Humboldt.

Harriman, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The State Baptist Convention was called to order this morning by President Henderson. After devotional exercises, the convention was addressed by Dr. Harvey Hatcher, representing the American Baptist Publication Society, of Philadelphia, and President Howell, of Southwest Virginia Institute, also addressed the convention.

Dr. A. J. Fristoe, of Chattanooga, read the report on foreign missions. He then discussed it. The Rev. N. Maynard, a missionary from Japan, told of his experiences there in a very graphic manner.

Dr. R. J. Willingham, corresponding secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, made a stirring speech, which aroused a great deal of enthusiasm.

The convention voted thanks to President Bird M. Robinson for an excursion over the Harriman and Northeastern railroad to Petros and the State mines.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Relief was read by the Rev. M. Ball, in the absence of the chairman. The report on temperance was read by the Rev. E. E. Folk, D. D., of Nashville. It showed that $1,200,000,000 is expended in this country yearly for strong drink. More people die annually from drink than from all other causes combined. President B. M. Robinson, of the Harriman and Northeastern railroad, made a fine speech on temperance.

The report on young people's work was read by the Rev. Mr. Murrell, and he also delivered a timely address upon this work. The Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher also made a speech on the report.

The convention then adjourned, to meet next year in Humboldt.

ACCUSED OF ABDUCTION.

Tennessee Man Arrested On a Serious Charge.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Wilford Quick was arrested this afternoon on a State's warrant, sworn out by M. J. Noonan, charging him with abducting Miss Theophile Noonan, step-daughter of complainant, for the purpose of seduction. Young Quick was taken before a Justice of the Peace, and held to answer to the grand jury. Quick denies the charge, and insists that the girl told him yesterday that she did not want to get him mixed up in her troubles.

NEW COURT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Act of Tennessee Legislature Declared Contrary To Law.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—In an opinion delivered at Murfreesboro to-day Chancellor McConnell decided that the act of the last Legislature creating a new law court for that county is unconstitutional. This court was to supersede the Chancery and Circuit Courts, and its Judge was also to be Judge of the County Court. He was to have criminal jurisdiction in addition. The case will be appealed.

Destruction By Flames In Tullahoma

Tullahoma, Tenn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Fire this morning destroyed the McRae home, the building of the Southern Printing Company, containing the plant of the Tullahoma Guardian; the storage warehouse of the Barnes Botanic Drug Company, and several smaller places. None of the buildings was of great value, and the losses are not over $5,000.

Chattancoga Company Disbands.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—Adjt. Gen. Brandon to-day issued orders mustering out Company I, Sixth regiment, of Chattanooga, on the recommendation of Col. Mitchell J. Brown and Capt. Fulmer. Reports showed disorganized condition and nonattendance at drills.

DIRECTOR OF OPERA MIKADO ARRIVES TO-DAY.

Carroll E. Macomber Will Begin Recitals For Women's Business Club's Building Benefit.

Mr. Carroll E. Macomber, of Boston, will arrive in Louisville at noon to-day, and will begin the rehearsals for the opera "Mikado," which is to be given for the benefit of the Women's Business Club building. The first cast and chorus rehearsal will take place this evening at 7 o'clock in the blue lodge room over the Masonic Temple, which is entered from Green street.

Mrs. Mary T. Parsons, under whose management the opera will be given, requests a full attendance of all the members of the chorus and cast. Mr. Macomber will be remembered as the director of "Priscilla," which proved such a success last winter.

BIG THEFTS.

Whisky Stolen By Negro Teamsters

SOLD TO SALOONKEEPER.

PECULATIONS EXTEND OVER SIX MONTHS.

SEVEN MEN ARE ARRESTED.

Prominent Distillers and Wholesalers Are the Victims—Cannot Estimate Their Losses.

OFFICERS LOOK FOR OTHERS.

Discoveries were made yesterday by the detectives and internal revenue officials which show that within the past six months or more large quantities of liquor have been stolen from several prominent wholesale whisky houses. Just how much liquor has been taken is a matter of doubt, though it is certain that the amount will run well up into the hundreds of gallons and its value into the thousands of dollars. The firms known to have been victimized are Bernheim Bros., S. Grabfelder & Co., Brown, Forman & Co., and one or two of the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company's plants. None of these firms was certain that it had been robbed until informed by the police.

Matters were brought to a focus yesterday when District Detectives King and Hogan and Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors W. L. Archer and J. D. Dawes arrested six negro teamsters and laborers and one white saloonkeeper on the general charge of having made away with and disposed of much of the missing spirits, though each of the seven men has one specific charge laid against him by the State and another by the Government. The arresting officers are of the opinion that these robberies have been carried on systematically by a number of negro teamsters and helpers who work for the whisky houses, and that they have disposed of the stolen goods to certain saloonkeepers whose places are located in the questionable districts of the city. The officers believe further that they got only part of the gang yesterday which they claim has been doing the work. They feel confident that they will round up a number of others, against whom they will place the same charges, and as a result that further startling thefts of liquor will come to light.

Arrested Saloonkeeper.

Charles Beck, who conducts a saloon frequented by negroes at 766 Center street, was arrested yesterday afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock by Detectives King and Hogan. They placed the charge of knowingly receiving stolen property. The Government's charge against Beck is having packages of liquor in his possession not bearing revenue stamps. Shortly after Beck's arrest, the detectives took into custody the negroes Arthur Brown, Irwin Taylor, Cliff Caldwell, Will Parker, Will Slaughter and Will Hall, all of whom were charged with grand larceny. The Government has the charge of selling liquor without a license against them. Most of the negroes are teamsters who have been engaged in handling Bernheim Bros.' shipments of goods to the freight depots. They were arrested in the neighborhood of the firm's place of business on Main street, near Seventh, shortly after 4 o'clock.

Shortly before Beck was arrested by the detectives, he was paid a visit by Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors Archer and Dawes.

As the officers approached the saloon, they saw a number of negroes standing in front. When they drew near and were close enough to be recognized by the negroes, the latter drew back within the place. The officers followed quickly and found Beck near at hand behind the bar. Deputy Archer stepped to the end of the bar and picked up a pistol which lay on a shelf nearby.

Used Beck's Pistol.

"That's mine," said Beck. "What do you want in here anyway?"

"No," replied Archer, "the gun's mine, for the present at any rate. We are internal revenue officers and have come to look over your premises."

Beck silently submitted and the negroes who had been congregated about left the place as quickly as they had come in.

An examination of Beck's stock showed that he had on hand in unstamped packages seventeen gallons of whisky, twenty-three gallons of whisky in a half barrel and sixteen gallons of gin in a keg. These goods were promptly seized by the officers. Deputy Archer stood guard over the liquor that had been seized while Deputy Dawes made a further investigation of the premises. He found in the garret a large number of other unstamped packages of liquor, though all were under ten gallons, and under the law could not be seized for not having a stamp. The goods seized were taken to the Customhouse. In his talk with the Government officers during the progress of the investigation, Beck admitted that he had bought the liquor from negroes at $1 a gallon, and that he did not know where they had gotten it. He took their word for it that they came by it honestly. When the detectives arrested Beck shortly afterward, they also made an investigation of the premises.

They looked over a number of bottles of whisky which had been found by the revenue officers, and discovered that some of them bore the names of brands sold by Brown, Forman & Co., Bernheim Bros., S. Grabfelder & Co. and the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company. They took a bottle or so of each as evidence against Peck.

Negroes Had Money.

When taken to Central police station, all of the negroes were found to be well supplied with money. Arthur Brown had about $45.

Mr. B. Bernheim said that he and others in his house were at a loss to know exactly how the thefts had been committed.

"In fact," he said, "we knew nothing of the thefts until informed by the detectives, though we had suspected that there was something wrong for some weeks past. We had been receiving letters from customers complaining that barrels shipped them had proved to be short in measure. Sometimes it would be only a gallon or so, and sometimes it would amount to as much as five gallons. There were complaints only on an occasional barrel, but they kept coming in steadily. Though we haven't made an investigation, we are of the opinion that some one within the house has been playing into the hands of the colored teamsters. At least, we do not see how case goods could get out unless such was a fact. Of course, when we sent whisky by the barrel to freight depots it could be opened and drawn from before it reached the hands of the railroad. Though, I cannot see just how this could be done very well."

Complaints from Customers.

Mr. S. Grabfelder made very much the same statement as that made by Mr. Bernheim. He also had received letters from customers in the past few months complaining that barrels had been sent them several gallons short in measurement. Mr. Grabfelder has also had case goods stolen from him, but he does not know how they could be taken from the house without the knowledge of his shipping clerk, who itemizes every package that comes into and leaves the place.

Mr. George Brown, of Brown, Forman & Co., said that he had received no complaints from customers of barrels which were short in measurement. He thought, however, that he had lost some case goods. "We received a notice not long ago," he said, "of a case of our whisky being stolen."

All the firms who believe that they have suffered losses at the hands of thieves will make an inventory of their stock. Detective King said he believed the negroes who had been taking the whisky hauled it away from the warehouses, and before delivering it to the depot would take it to some point where they could work without fear of discovery and draw off a few gallons. How the goods in cases and jugs were stolen is a mystery so far to both distillers and officers.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures whooping-cough and measles' cough. This wonderful remedy will save the children from many a distressing coughing spell and soon effect a cure.

FENCED IN.

Clinton County Cattle Are Quarantined.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ACTS.

PREVALENCE OF TEXAS FEVER "TICKS" THE CAUSE.

OFFICIALS WERE INDIFFERENT

State Board of Health Called Upon Washington Authorities As Last Resort.

EFFECT OF THE ORDER.

Clinton county has been put under a Federal quarantine. For months the officials of the county, it is charged by the health authorities, have disregarded the warnings sent them by the State Board of Health. It was known that "ticky" cattle were going out from the county. The Federal authorities told the State Board that something must be done. Then the Federal Government suddenly took the situation in hand and sent out the following quarantine order:

United States Department of Agriculture.—In consequence of Southern or splenetic fever infection being present among cattle in Clinton county, Ky., as shown by the number of cattle in that county infested with the Southern cattle tick (boophilus annulatus), and to prevent the spread of infection, it is hereby ordered that no cattle which are now in said county or which may be taken in said county during the continuance of this order shall be removed from said county and shipped to any State or Territory, except for immediate slaughter and according to the regulations of this department, as specified in Bureau or Animal Industry Order No. 80, dated December 30, 1899, or amendments thereto for the movement of Southern cattle. This order to continue from this date to November 15, 1901.

JAMES WILSON, Secretary.

Secretary McCormack, of the State Board, and Dr. F. T. Eisenman, the State Veterinarian, will give notice to all the other counties, while the Government officials on the ground will be careful to see that the quarantine is observed in the letter and in the spirit.

When Trouble Began.

The trouble dates back to August 5, on which date a number of cattle were driven from Clinton county to Burnside, Ky., and from there shipped to Cincinnati. Soon after being received in Cincinnati it was discovered that the cattle were infected with the Texas fever tick. This tick seems absolutely harmless to the cattle from the far South, but when put upon native cattle, Texas fever and death soon follow.

As soon as the Cincinnati people had discovered the presence of the tick, they made protest to the Department of Animal Industry at Washington. The Kentucky State Board of Health was promptly notified.

State Veterinarian F. T. Eisenman wrote to County Judge C. P. Parrigin, of Clinton county, concerning the matter. The County Judge replied that he did not think much of it, and that the county would pay nothing for the investigation.

Several letters were exchanged, the county officials paying little attention to the commands from the State Board of Health, and rather sneering at the idea that a quarantine could be established.

It was Clinton county against the Federal Government.

At Buffalo, Dr. Eisenman met Dr. Salmon, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry. The Kentucky State Veterinarian asked that some little time be given the refractory county, but the chief replied that the Government had no time to cajole officials who seemed unable to understand the grave danger in which they put other sections of the country. Immediately after the return of the chief to Washington Federal Inspectors visited Clinton county to investigate thoroughly the conditions there. As soon as these inspectors had reported the quarantine was slapped on.

Effect of the Quarantine.

The result is bound to be disastrous to Clinton county, for it means that during the closed season cattle cannot be shipped out of the county except for immediate slaughter. A man living over the border cannot even buy a milch cow in Clinton county. And when cattle are shipped out to be slaughtered they must be marked Southern cattle, and when sold will bring lower prices than others not from a quarantined district.

This quarantine will last until November 15, when the open season begins. With the first of February it will go into effect once more, and so continue indefinitely. The official reading says until the Bureau of Animal Industry shall be satisfied that the conditions which caused the placing of the quarantine have been changed and there is no longer danger from ticks.

The conduct of Clinton county in the future will have much to do with the term of the quarantine, which means the loss of thousands upon thousands of dollars to the cattle industry.

COMPETITION

For the Steel Trust Is To Be Formed

BY EASTERN FINANCIERS.

WILL HAVE A CAPITAL OF $3,000,000.

HEADQUARTERS IN PITTSBURG.

Site For An Extensive Plant Has Been Secured Along Ohio River Near That City.

PROTEST AGAINST HIGH DUTIES

Pittsburg, Oct. 18.—A new independent steel corporation that is shortly to be ready to enter the market in competition with the United States Steel Corporation has been formed in Pittsburg. The new concern is known as the Everson Steel Corporation. The general offices of the company are at present located in Pittsburg, and much interest has been aroused in local steel circles over the outcome of the enterprise.

A new company is incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and has a capital of $3,000,000. A site for the extensive plant that is to be built has been secured along the Ohio river, not far from Pittsburg. The property while located definitely, is not mentioned for publication. It is said to contain over 600 acres of land and under the plans of the company 100 acres of this site is to be covered with various finishing mills, furnaces and terminal railroad facilities. The remainder of the property is to be used for the building of a new town at the plant.

The variety of products that the new corporation proposes to turn out makes the project unusual. In the list is steel sheets, tubes, billets and bars. One additional feature will be the manufacture of steel wagon wheels, and, according to the plans the new works will have a capacity of 6,000 sets of these wheels a year, each set being composed of four wheels.

Within ten months it is proposed to have mill buildings costing $565,000 completed and 1,000 men employed.

Much of the capital stock of the new company has been taken by Eastern financiers and Pittsburgers are supplying considerable also.

TO FIGHT DUTY ON HIDES.

A National Association Is Formed In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—An association to be known as the Free Hide League of the United States, embracing the shoe, harness and leather interests of the country, was organized here to-day at a meeting held in the Bourse. The officers elected are: President, Charles A. Schieren, of New York; Western vice president, Frederick Vogel, Milwaukee; Eastern vice president, Charles H. Jones, Boston; treasurer, Henry J. MacFarland, Chicago; secretary, S. W. Campbell, Chicago.

The officers elected compose the Executive Committee of the league, and to this body was referred the question of whether the organization shall direct its efforts to have the hide duty clause in the Dingley tariff law repealed by the next Congress, or to seek to gain its object by means of reciprocity. The Executive Committee will hold a meeting to decide the question at an early date.

There was a difference of opinion regarding the manner in which the duty should be abolished. Congressman Burke, of this city, made a lengthy speech in which he advocated that it should be done through reciprocity treaties.

President Schieren said he favored reciprocity in all lines of trade, but negotiations for reciprocity with South American countries have not been satisfactory in the past. "We have no means now of knowing how much success may attend the movement for reciprocity with certain South American countries," he said. "I regard this as an unjust tax on hides, and I favor its abolition as soon as it can be accomplished, and I think the country is behind us in demanding it."

S. W. Campbell, of Chicago, said that President McKinley and Congressman Dingley did not want a duty placed on hides and added that it was inserted in the Dingley bill for the benefit of certain Western packing interests.

DRILLING FOR OIL.

Six More Wells To Be Sunk In Barren County.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Kentucky Oil Company has announced its purpose to drill six more oil wells in this county, and its local representatives, L. W. Preston, of this place, and James W. Bailey, of Findlay, O., will let contracts for drilling them in a few days.

This company has a capital stock of $1,500,000, and is composed of Messrs. H. G. Curran, F. A. Peteler and W. L. Russell, whose office is in the Broad Exchange building, New York City. It is now drilling a well on the Wininger farm, three miles west of Glasgow, and it is down 250 feet. A well on the Price farm, adjoining the Wininger well, is producing ten barrels a day at a depth of 425 feet, and the Kentucky people expect to strike a good flow in the Wininger well at 500 feet. They have already let the contract for a 250-barrel tank, which will be completed by next Wednesday night.

The same company has completed a derrick on the Slaughter farm, three miles north of town, and drilling will begin there next Monday.

The operators in charge of the drilling say the rock formations in the Wininger well indicate that oil exists there, and they are confident of making a big strike.

A RECEIVER DESIRED

For the Bluefields Steamship Company By a Stockholder.

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—Ernest T. Merrick, of Harrison county, Miss., to-day asked for the appointment of a receiver to liquidate the affairs of the Bluefields Steamship Company. He represents that he owns $3,900 of stock in the company.

The company had a capital of $125,000 and large property and credit when the United Fruit Company, finding it a formidable rival, made overtures to the directors and stockholders and bought half of its stock under the agreement that its importations of fruit should be placed in the control of the Fruit Dispatch Company, which was represented to be an independent concern, but is now declared by applicant to be under control of the United Fruit Company. To save the Bluefields Company from being wrecked and its stockholders from ruin a receiver is asked for.

WILL RESUME WORK.

Preparations Made For Season's Operations In Window Glass Trust's Factories.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 18.—Preparations for the season's work at the factories of the American Window Glass Company are under full headway. The fires in the plants will be started tomorrow and resumption in full will begin November 1. This will mean employment to over 10,000 people in the American plants. The American will operate twenty-seven factories in Indiana, ten in Pennsylvania, two in New York and one in New Jersey. The total capacity will be 1,656 pots. The bottle houses are expecting orders to begin soon.

LUBRICATING OIL

Struck In Falkville Well In Alabama.

Decatur, Ala., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—At a depth of 1,200 feet a fine quality of lubricating oil was struck yesterday in the Falkville well of the North Alabama Standard Oil and Gas Company. Oil appeared in the black sand known as "first sand," a rare occurrence, and the oil experts say this always precedes a fine flow of oil. Excitement over the appearance of good oil has already begun and it only needs the proof of its existence in paying quantities to send prices of stock up. Two barrels of the oil declared to be of the grade known as black diamond were bailed out to-day.

NOTED DISTILLERY SOLD.

Nelson County Firm Transfers Its Property To Louisville Dealers.

Bardstown, Ky., Oct. 18.—Boone Bros. have sold their distillery and 349 barrels of whisky on hand to Messrs. Thixton, Millet & Co., formerly of Daviess county, but now of Louisville. This distillery, while a small one, has a reputation second to none in the county. It was the original R. B. Hayden distillery, which had a splendid reputation in the East. The price paid for the distillery, whisky, etc., is $8,500. The new owners will begin operating the plant in a few weeks.

SULPHITE MILL COMBINE.

Maine Capitalists Trying To Consolidate the Principal Plants.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 18.—A number of Maine capitalists are interested in the efforts now being made to form a combine of nearly all the sulphite mills in the United States and Canada. It is said that the proposition provides that each manufacturer will be paid for his plant in stock, preferred and common, both going to the makers whose mills show a profit, and common stock to mills not showing any earning capacity.

Will Open Rich Country.

Mayking, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Five hundred additional hands were put to work on the last three miles of the Norton and Pound River railroad, and it will be finished within three months. The line will extend from Norton to Pound river, near Pound Gap, a distance of twenty miles, opening one of the richest coal and timber sections in the United States. It will be subsequently extended into the rich coal fields of Boone's Fork.

ROCK FALLS.

FIVE MEN ARE KILLED AND TWO ARE INJURED

IN TUNNEL IN NEW YORK.

Portion of Roof and Side of Rapid Transit Excavation Caves In and Workmen Are Buried.

New York, Oct. 18.—Five men were killed and two were injured this morning when an enormous mass of rock caved from the side and roof of the Rapid Transit tunnel, in course of construction on Broadway about the line of One Hundred and Sixty-fourth street in this city.

The dead are:

Peter O'Hara, Timothy Kelleher, John Goronsky, Patrick Madden, foreman of the muckers, and Luigi Danife.

The injured are:

Domenico De Petro and an Italian laborer, name unknown.

The section of the tunnel where the cave-in occurred is 105 feet below the surface. A shaft leads to the tunnel and from the shaft headings extend north and south, each being about 700 feet long. The accident occurred in the south heading of the tunnel about 640 feet from the shaft. A gang of twenty rock drillers was working in the extreme south end of the heading and about fifty feet from the end, a gang made up of twenty muckers and a foreman, was removing the debris produced by the blasting.

Without warning the mass of rock, sixty-three feet long, eleven feet wide and ten feet high, and weighing about 150 tons, fell with a tremendous crash directly where the muckers were working, almost closing the tunnel and creating a panic among the two or three hundred men at work in other sections. Before long the work of rescuing the muckers was commenced.

De Petro and the unknown Italian were not buried under the mass of rock and were the first found.

When the rescuing party began to remove the rock they found the mangled bodies of O'Hara, Kelleher and Goronsky. The bodies of Madden and Danife were buried under masses of rock which could not be moved and could not be extricated, although they were in plain sight. It was the work of hours to drill the holes and charge them. At 2:45 in the afternoon the charges were fired with the result that the body of Foreman Madden was removed piecemeal. The next blast uncovered the body of Danife.

SHREWDNESS DISPLAYED

By Dis de Bar In Cross-Examining Witnesses.

London, Oct. 18.—To-day's feature in the trial of Theodore Jackson and Laura Jackson (Ann Odelia Diss De Bar) on charges of immorality and fraud was the shrewdness the woman defendant displayed in cross-examining the witnesses.

After a girl named Laura Walker testified to Jackson's attempt at outrage the case was adjourned until November 7, when another week or more probably will be taken up with the Police Court testimony.

Seeks His Daughter.

Samuel Markley, a farmer, reported yesterday that his daughter Mary had ran away from her home, near Middlesboro, and was supposed to have come to Louisville. The father thought his child had gone wrong. She is seventeen years old, with dark hair and blue eyes, and weighs about 125 pounds. Her height is five feet three inches.

FAIR JUDGE.

Republicans Acknowledge Justice of Magistrate Adams.

LOSE SOME VOTERS.

NO DEMOCRATS HAVE BEEN STRICKEN OFF.

RIDICULOUS CHARGES.

The unfounded charges of fraud in the registration made by the Republicans were again shown up yesterday in the trials of registrations cases. They started out with the assertion that there were at least 5,000 illegally registered voters. As an evidence of the falsity of the charge, the Republicans so far have not been able to strike off the name of a single Democrat.

And it is well here to note a statement made yesterday by Secretary Newman in response to a question of the trial Judge, Magistrate John M. Adams.

Secretary Newman said that the court's ruling had been consistent and fair to his side.

The Democrats have never made any charges as to the registration. They made careful polls, and on the registration days were ready to prevent any wholesale negro or white Republican colonization. The Democrats had only to watch negro nomadism, and this has been shown in the trials to be an abiding trait of negroes.

The first name called yesterday by the Republicans was H. A. Streng, who boards at the Galt House. Mr. Streng left the Galt House temporarily during the triennial conclave, but did not surrender his residence, and is now living there. The Republican attorneys were quick to move for a dismissal of the case.

The unjust serving of notices by Republicans was next evidenced in the case of E. L. Goose, who owns a livery stable at 320 Sixth street. Mr. Goose was born in Louisville and has lived here all his life. And yet Secretary Newman permitted his name to be signed to a notice to Mr. Goose warning him to apepar in court and defend his title to vote.

The case was dismissed, and on the heels of this came D. Gillo, who also lives at 320 Sixth street. There was no question about Mr. Gillo's residence, and Mr. Gillo will vote.

Protest From Democrats.

Counsel for the Democrats were not slow to protest against this unnecessary summoning of well-known and reputable citizens to court. Republican counsel attempted to shoulder the responsibility on their ward workers.

At this point there was some delay in the proceedings, and Mr. E. W. Sprague, of Republican counsel, turned to Mr. Upton W. Muir, of Democratic counsel, and said:

"Adjourn court that we may take a smoke."

Mr. Muir, in view of the attacks made by the Republican newspapers on Magistrate Adams' rulings, which even Secretary Newman confessed were fair to both sides, called the court's attention to the reflections passed upon it and urged that the court should protect itself, even if it be necessary to send to jail those writing the articles.

Magistrate Adams said that the articles reflecting on the court were false from beginning to end, and he then called upon Secretary Newman to state whether his rulings had been such as characterized by the Republican papers. Secretary Newman was prompt to acknowledge that the court had acted with equal fairness to both sides.

Inquiries For Tuesday.

The Republicans then called the following list of names, which will be tried Tuesday:

Frank Kelly, 215 First; E. T. Suttles, 225 East Market; Ed. Connell, 224 Brook; Joe Schneider, 105 East Jefferson; Arthur Newman, 213 First; Jim Clark, 213 First; Mine Nally, Galt House; Frank Mayer, 324 Brook; Joseph Meyer, John Burke, 326 Brook; John Dunn, 149 East Jefferson; James Thompson, 123 East Market; N. L. Madison, John Tracey, 525 East Market; John Donahue, 2403 Montgomery; Robert Kennedy, 516 West Breckinridge; James McGill, 450 West Jefferson; James Akin, 451 West Jefferson; Able Louise, 943 Sixth; John J. Finn, E. S. Carey, 515 West Breckinridge; Henry Miller, 502 Fourth; Richard Thomas, 444 West Jefferson; H. W. Zekman, 510 West Breckinridge; Edgar Forbes, 500 West Breckinridge; W. B. Jenny, W. B. Wilson, Thomas E. Wilson, 514 West Breckinridge; D. Franklin, George Jenney, Pat Highland, 416 East Market; Pat Hart, 802 East Walnut; B. L. Reynolds, J. Wilson, W. Skene, Henry T. Schaefer, E. Ruble, J. Rankins, E. Powers, Henry Martin, C. Mallott, W. Lee, W. Dyes, F. Sanders, 416 East Market.

As a further evidence of the falsity of the Republican claims as to the registration, an investigation by the Democrats shows that the following are boarders at the Farmers' Home Hotel, 416 East Market street, and legal voters: D. Franklin, George Jenney, Pat Highland, B. L. Reynolds, J. Wilson, W. Skene, E. Ruble, J. Rankins, Henry T. Schaefer, E. Powers, Henry Martin, C. Mallott, W. Lee, W. Dyes and F. Sanders. Henry F. Schaefer is the barkeeper at the hotel and George Jenney has voted from the hotel for twenty years.

Negroes Stricken Off.

When the Republican challenges for the day were called, it was developed that the notices had been improperly served—the legal time not being given, and some of the cases were in Magistrate Adams' district. The latter were passed to the foot of the docket and another magistrate will pass on them.

When court met in the afternoon, the first name called was W. H. Harris, colored, 718 Fifth street. The notice had not been served in this case and it was postponed.

The name of John Smith, colored, who was registered from the rear of 1519 Preston street, was stricken off. Mr. Wm. Dickinson and Dr. Albert Deig testified that Smith had acknowledged to them that he had moved from another ward to 1519 Preston street and had only lived there a few weeks.

In the case of Wm. Robinson, colored, of 921 West Broadway, Magistrate Adams held that he was entitled to vote as the evidence as to his length of residence in the ward was evenly balanced.

Henry Tucker, colored, was registered from an alley between Kentucky and St. Catherine streets, and Seventh and Eighth streets. Charles Boehler testified that there was no such alley and that he had been unable to locate Tucker. Tucker was not present and he was marked doubtful.

The cases of Frank Williams, colored, 730 (rear) St. Catherine street, and Wm. Alexander, colored, 712 Kentucky street, were dismissed.

J. W. Ross, registered from 1224 Seventh street, did not answer and he was marked doubtful. A similar ruling was made in the case of Wm. Umstall, colored, 1223 Eighth street.

The case against Robert Wilson, colored, registered in the Seventeenth precinct of the Ninth ward, was dismissed.

Magistrate Adams announced that there would be no session of the court this afternoon.

A Hint to Pale People

STOP STARVING YOUR BLOOD.

When you starve your Blood, you starve your Body, your Nerves and your Brain.

The stomach supplies the strength for every department of your system, and if your face is pale it shows clearly that there is an imperfect circulation of the blood. It shows also that the blood is thin and watery and weak.

How can you expect to have a healthy color when only a small portion of your food is assimilated?

If pale people would take the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract with their meals their faces would presently take on the hue of health.

Johann Hoff's
Malt Extract

is called a Maker of Blood. This is because it combines with the food to make blood. It aids the processes of the stomach, gives Nature a helping hand, and gets the food's nutritive elements into the blood and into the body. It corrects the digestive process and keeps food from going to waste.

How easy it is for every pale person to put this simple thing to the test!

Every druggist has the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract, and though you may not know that your stomach is not doing its proper work, you will find a marked difference in your flesh tints and in your general health after a few days' use of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract.

Dr. L. Miller Woodson of Gallatin, Tenn., writes: "I have used Johann Hoff's Malt Extract in my practice for 12 years, and have found it to be the best flesh and blood maker we have."

Beware of Substitutes. Be sure to get the Genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT.

BREAK CAMP.

Troops Will Leave Hopkins County Sunday.

NO REQUESTS RECEIVED

BY GOV. BECKHAM URGING THAT SOLDIERS REMAIN.

STRIKERS' MASS-MEETINGS.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The State troops of the Third regiment, who have been stationed in the Hopkins county mining district for several weeks, have been ordered to returns to their homes and camp will be broken on Sunday next. The soldiers would probably have been sent home sooner but for the fact that Adjt. Gen. Murray, who is in command, was called to Scott county as a witness for the prosecution in the Powers conspiracy case.

It is not true, as has been stated in dispatches from Madisonville, that Gov. Beckham has received telegrams and letters from the mine operators and others in the strike section urging him to keep the troops on duty there for an indefinite time. Not a single telegram or letter of this nature has been received at the Executive Department.

MINERS HOLD MASS-MEETINGS.

No Attempt Made To Interfere With Speaking In Hopkins County.

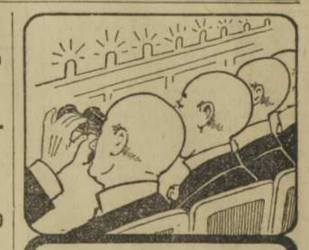

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Reports received from every part of the mining regions of this county today state that there has been no sign of disorder for the past forty-eight hours. The union miners held a mass-meeting at Earlington to-night. Miners from all parts of the country attended. About 200 strikers from this city walked to Earlington to be present at the meeting. The principal speeches were made by President Wood, Secretary Campbell and National Executive Committeeman Purcell. A detachment of State troops, under the command of Lieut. Denhard, accompanied the miners to Earlington to see that there was no interference or disturbance. The union miners have claimed all along that they were not permitted to hold public meetings in Earlington and that any attempt on their part to do so would result in their arrest, but to-night the speakers were given a respectful and attentive hearing and there was no sign of disorder.

The last of the series of meetings will be held at St. Charles to-morrow evening. Gen. Murray returned from Georgetown to-night and again assumed command of the troops. Preparations are now being made for the soldiers to leave here. Quartermaster Strange has made the arrangements for transportation and will have everything in readiness to leave Sunday. Orders have been issued to Capt. Powers and Lieuts. Neighbors and Walp, who, with detachments, are on duty at the Carbondale, Crabtree and St. Bernard mines, to report to Camp Thomas J. Smith to-morrow preparatory to returning home.

CHICAGO STEPS FORWARD WITH HER HORSE SHOW.

Great City Will Hold Its Second Exhibition Beginning November 4.

Chicago is preparing for the most brilliant horse show ever held west of New York City. It is to be held at the Coliseum the week of November 4, under the direction of the Chicago Horse Show Association. It will be the second annual exhibition of this organization and, from the present outlook, will far surpass that of last year in the matter of exhibits. Cash prizes to the amount of $20,000 are offered and many handsome and valuable trophies are on the prize list. This will have a tendency to bring the finest collection of high-class horses ever brought together in Chicago, and it is more than probable that the stables of every millionaire in America will be represented when the entry list closes to-night. Special railroad rates are to be offered on all roads running into Chicago.

IN THE FRONT ROW

You will see well built and otherwise handsome men who have been neglectful of their hair and scalps. Most folks think too lightly of Dandruff; they don't realize that it is the premonitory symptom of Falling Hair—and falling hair, you know, is sure to be followed by Baldness. Nature intended hair for your head, so if it isn't there, you may conclude the cause to be disease.

BALDINE Removes Dandruff Stops Falling Hair

By doing this it prevents Baldness. If your scalp is Bald you can have natural hair by using BALDINE. It is the one hope; the one guaranteed restorer. Hundreds of home people are using it, WHY DONT YOU? Get it of your druggist, or write us.

EPWORTH LEAGUE UNION TO MEET.

Sessions Will Be Held In New Albany and Louisville Next Week.

The eleventh annual conference of the Falls Cities Epworth League Union will be held at Jennie DePauw Memorial M. E. church, New Albany, Thursday evening, October 24, and at the Lander Memorial M. E. church, South, in this city, on the following evening.

The theme for discussion will be "The Epworth League, Retrospective and Prospective." The programme will consist of devotional service, business session, enrollment of new members, reports of committees, election of officers, anthems and an address by the Rev. C. E. Asbury, of Jeffersonville, entitled "Looking Backward." The evening will close with a social session.

On Friday evening the programme will consist of a song service, devotional exercises, introduction of the new cabinet and addresses by the Rev. Virgil Elgin and the Rev. W. F. Sheridan, of this city. The consecration service will be conducted by the Rev. W. G. Clinton, of New Albany.

Educational Association To Meet.

The Louisville Educational Association will have a session at the Male High School building to-day. After the opening exercises, there will be a talk on nature studies, followed by the organization of sections for work.

BOOKS AND THEIR WRITERS

SOME NEW NOVELS.

Maurice Hewlett's Latest Volume a Notable Art Work In His Best Style—Other Works of Fiction.

Hewlett's New Book a Delight For Hewlett Lovers.

On the Hewlett highway, as on the Kipling road, there is no half-way house. Either the reader is a lover of the author after the first book is read or he is not. And there is no argument. The man who was not made a convert to Kipling by "Without Benefit of Clergy" or "The Man Who Was," wasted his money when he bought "Kim." The reader who did not tingle with the sense of realization of the arrival of a new force in fiction when he read "Earthwork Out of Tuscany," "The Forest Lovers" or "Little Novels of Italy," has no need for "New Canterbury Tales." It is for the Hewlett lovers. It will convert no reader not already under the spell of this incarnate essence of the Renaissance.

Some—and some who are well-schooled—are repelled by the strangeness of Hewlett's style. Some fail to see in the whiter nudity of this or that of his themes or this or that chance phrase, the fine purity of pagan worship of sheer beauty. For that matter, some people find Gautier sensual and Shakespeare coarse. And it is not for such people, sound in judgment, maybe, in all matters outside of art, that comment on any of Maurice Hewlett's books is intended.

In a flood-tide of cheaply and nastily successful books there bobs up happily, once in awhile, the head of a strong swimmer. The top-thatch of a Rudyard Kipling or a Gilbert Parker or a Maurice Hewlett shows here or there. And the comfort comes to the watcher on the shore when he can cry out "The white-caps die into foam—real art never sinks. And around 'New Canterbury Tales' is the cork-belt of true literature, and it floats bravely."

In other words, Maurice Hewlett proves in his new volume that he can take up a period, as in "Richard, Yea and Nay," he took up a personage, crystallized by a dead master, into a personal possession, and transfer the ownership of that mental chattel. The Lion Heart was Scott's until Hewlett, in his late—and not his best novel—changed possession. The pilgrimage to Canterbury was sacred to Chaucer until it seemed good to this new man to tell other tales of sojourners on that consecrated road. And once more Hewlett succeeds.

He may succeed a little less materially. For his new book is more apt to delight those who took greater pleasure in his early work rather than in the novels that brought him most profit. But when the final word is written of this man's life-work, the tales told in this volume, and notably those of the Prioress, of Dan Costard and of Capt. Solomon Brazenhead, will rank with "Quattrocentiteria," with "Ippolita of the Hills" and with "The Duchess of Nona," and so make Maurice Hewlett stand in his proper place—the artistic Greek who is the gift of the old Gods to each generation, as Keats was and as Gautier was—the apostle of all artists, and ever and for all time caviare to the vulgar.

A New Novel and a New Method of "Booming."

Originality, in whatever field it may appear, deserves commendation. And it has been left for conservative Boston to devise a brand-new plan to out-boom the biggest boomer who ever placed novels and kidney cures on the same basis and to out-Herod the first publisher who started the slaughter of literary art in order to make a 100,000 edition. Briefly, Small, Maynard & Co. have printed a book. They call it "Sylvia." And it doesn't matter at all. The name of the author is Evalyn Emerson. And it might as well be Susie Jones. For the author doesn't matter at all. It is a fairly good little story of the sort that appear in scores every year. But "Sylvia" is notable. And for this reason.

Sylvia is the heroine of a new novel, entitled "Sylvia: The Story of an American Countess." She lived abroad and is described by one of her admirers as "the most beautiful woman in Europe." Twelve artists, known for their types of beautiful women, were invited each to make a drawing expressing his idea of the charming heroine. Their pictures are all reproduced as illustrations in the book. By a natural suggestion, all persons who like a good story and admire beautiful women are now asked to give their opinion of the types represented. Each reader is invited to choose from among the pictures the one which, in his judgment, represents the most beautiful woman, and to indicate the order in which he thinks all the others should rank. The person whose list comes nearest to the choice of the majority will receive a prize of $500.

Just think of it! Five hundred dollars! An entertaining story, twelve really good studies of heads from the portfolios of well-known illustrators, and perforated fly-leaves that entitle the purchaser to a chance at the capital prize. "Sylvia" is a distinct novelty. She will cause some laughter, a little judicious grieving by persons with out-of-date ideas about the dignity of literature. But "Sylvia" will thrive. She is the Twentieth century publisher's girl.

Some of the Other Late Novels.

"The House with the Green Shutters" was the house of John Gourlay, the most pretentious house of the most pretentious citizen in the village of Barbie. No man in the country side could stand with Gourlay in conversation, quarrel of business The downfall of the house of Gourlay is the tragedy which the story tells. A shrewd business competition, a slovenly wife, a cowardly dolt of a son prepare pride's bitter draught. It is a novel, not wholly pleasant, but written with talent in which no little promise is apparent.

"The Road to Frontenac" is a romance of Quebec and the St. Lawrence in the latter part of the Seventeenth century, full of the feeling of the wilderness life, intensely dramatic in its portrayal of the Indians and their treatment of the captured little party whose fortunes the story follows—yet with a love story of the utmost delicacy and charm winding through these rough and bloody scenes. It is a thoroughly honest and admirable work.

"Up and Down the Sands of Gold" is a new book by the author of the successful "From Kingdom to Colony." It is a story of the present time, whose events occur in an American seashore town. It has strong local color and much of the life typical of the old sailors on the New England Coast. "Captain Jack," a quaint, lovable little boy, and "Uncle Billy," are sure to be favorites.

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he kept a store at Salem, Illinois, and studied law in his spare time. He took an active share in the life of the small town, and many stories have survived among the traditions of the place. One of these concerns his interest in Ann Rutledge, the belle of the village. This episode, like others in Lincoln's life, is not necessarily authentic in all its details, but it has served Mrs. Wright as a basis for a delicate and pathetic little love story.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

THE MULLIGANS. By Edward Harrigan. Published by the G. W. Dillingham Company, New York.

It is only a few years since Harrigan and Hart were partners known to playgoers throughout the land. Their theater in New York was a unique institution, and such critics as William Dean Howells declared that the Mulligan dramas, written by Mr. Harrigan, were the most distinctly typical characterplays in the history of the American stage. The taste of play-goers changed and Mr. Harrigan now appears in the role of novelist, with decided success. His book is written by one evidently unused to the novelist's craft, but it is marked by the rich humor and keen character drawing that made up the charm of the old plays, and as a group of real life studies it has decided literary value. The simple dedication "To Tony Hart," in one line, without epithets or adjectives, is full of meaning to many readers who hold "Old Lavender" among their cherished memories of the playhouse.

BAGSBY'S DAUGHTER. By Bessie and Marie Van Vorst. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York.

"Bagsby's Daughter," which has been appearing serially in Harper's Bazar, is now out in book form. It is written in collaboration by Miss Marie Van Vorst and Mrs. Bessie Van Vorst. The novel is of the lively, rapidly moving kind which finds favor with everybody. Miss Van Vorst is already favorably known as a writer of exceedingly well done short stories, many of which have appeared in Harper's Magazine. Carleton's excellent illustrations add to the desirability of a clever, lively novel of the present, to be read for amusement and recreation.

THE WORLD AND WINSTOW. By Edith Henrietta Fowler. Published by Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

Winstow was a quaint old country town near the English Channel. It could not boast of improvements; its pride lay rather in the things of its past. This was the home of Ursula Grey, a motherless little girl, who had the responsibility of the house, as well as of the head of it, on her tiny shoulders, and of Merton Wainwright, a wonderfully clever boy. They grow up together, are separated temporarily by Merton's success in the great world, but are finally reunited. The story shows the development of character through suffering, and emphasizes the fact that real love is never lost or wasted, "death cannot destroy it, only delays it for a while," and that joy and pain are messengers sent to tell us "how exquisitely near to each other heaven and earth really are."

JACK RACER. By Henry Somerville. Published by McClure, Phillips & Co., New York.

The young fellow who has the name part in this story of a typical Western village is a refreshing, imperturbable chap, impulsive, happy-go-lucky, usually doing things which he ought not, in Pekin's opinion, but doing them in the very best way that such things can be done. It is an unpretentious story, told in a breezy, unhackneyed way.

TOOTHSOME TALES TOLD IN SLANG. By Billy Burgundy. Published by Street & Smith, New York.

Billy Burgundy's efforts will be relished by some of the admirers of that dead genius in slang who used the pen name, Billy Baxter. But not by those who saw beneath the surface of the latter's work a keen knowledge of human nature and original, though broad, humor. Billy Burgundy is simply Billy Baxter, plus coarseness and minus wit.

ALBERTA HALL'S ART EDITION OF ELIZABETH AND HER GERMAN GARDEN. Published by the Henneberry Company, Chicago.

This is an exceptionally attractive holiday edition of the work that started the vogue of "garden books," because of its original and wholesome charm. The present edition is the handsomest yet printed. Appropriately bound in dove color, each page is adorned with wide ornamental borders, besides many full-page illustrations. The volume is admirably adapted for water-color decoration and is an especially appropriate gift-book to any one of artistic tastes.

THE OUTCASTS. By W. A. Fraser. Chas. Scribner's Sons, Publishers, New York. Price $1.25 net.

After Kipling's jungle stories, other "talking" animals seem but imitations. W. A. Fraser's "Outcast" is the tale of a stray waif-dog and an old Buffalo bull, slighted by their kind, who travel northward together in search of plenty. While A'tim, the half-breed Wolf and his companion, Shag, fall somewhat short of the Kipling standard, the story will be interesting to those who like an insight into the thoughts and habits of wild animals, as related by themselves; and Fraser gives to them the human impulses and desires, along the lines laid down by his predecessor in this field of fiction.

The book is capitally illustrated by Arthur Heming.

SONGS OF MY VIOLIN. By Alfred L. Donaldson. Published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

Mr. Donaldson proves himself a true lover of music and a poet as well. He makes fanciful use of the scientific relation in the vibrations of color and sound. He sings the song of each of the strings of his violin, and all of them are full of color and poetic feeling. Some of the verse goes very gracefully and musically. Occasionally, however, the poet falls into the error of a too manifest effort to produce the feeling of color by means of mere words. "Lucent "amethyst" and "erubescent hue" convey little meaning; but when the author says the moon —"Shone pure silver in pure blue"

he makes a picture that we see at once and apprehend as beautiful. And that is at once a poetic and a stately effect when he says:

"The solemn Nile flowed like a largo strain."

The musician and the poet both speak in that line. The volume closes with some "Stray Songs and Sonnets," the first of which is an exquisitely poetic description of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony in B Minor.

AS A FALLING STAR. By Eleanor Gaylord Phelps. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

A most attractive little volume in binding and typography. The story is a pathetic illustration of two delicate natures developed through the care of a young woman for a crippled and abandoned child. The sentiment is generous and genuine, though no great art is displayed in the writing of the book. Some interesting glimpses of the cities and people of Italy are given. C.

THE NEW METHOD IN HEALTH CULTURE: A GUIDE TO HOME TREATMENT. By W. E. Forest, B. S., M. D. Edited and enlarged by Albert Turner. Published by the Health Culture Company, New York.

This is the fifteenth edition of a work that gives practical methods of retaining and restoring the health by simple rules of living formulated in a system which, if adhered to, will undoubtedly make well persons stronger and cure many ill persons. While in no degree technical, the book gives enough scientific information to afford satisfactory explanation of the method advised. Exercise by natural means and with the use of apparatus, foods, clothing, and, above all, massotheraphy, are the chief subjects discussed. The latter term is used to include massage and also manipulations by means of muscle rollers and beaters. Numerous diseases are specifically treated of. The book is illustrated with cuts and diagrams.

THE COMPOSITE MAN: AS COMPREHENDED IN FOURTEEN ANATOMICAL IMPERSONATIONS. By E. H. Pratt, A. M., M. D., LL. D. Illustrations by Dr. Frederick H. Williams. Copyright by Dr. Pratt, Chicago.

This is a series of lectures by Prof. Pratt on the composition of the human body, taking up in their order the bones, muscles, arteries, etc., and treating of their especial functions. The range is wider than mere anatomy, as the consciousness and the subconsciousness are treated, the whole subject being summarized and articulated, so to speak, in the final lecture—"The Composite Man." The author assumes to impersonate each of the men he describes, as, for instance, "the Cerebro-Spinal Man," and thus brings boldly forward the functions and properties he describes. With each of the fourteen lectures is a colored plate illustrating the particular subject under discussion, the plates for consciousness and subconsciousness being, of course, symbolized. Prof. Pratt is a distinguished physician of the homeopathic school.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF THE SULTAN.

By Georges Dorys.

A NOTABLE book is the translation of "The Private Life of the Sultan of Turkey," by M. Georges Dorys, a young Greek. The work has never been equaled in boldness of criticism and freedom of detail. That it is regarded as of importance in the countries over which the Sultan rules is shown by the fact of its suppression there.

Why is M. Dorys qualified to write such a book? The name Dorys is assumed. The young man is the son of the late Prince of Samas, was one of the Sultan's Ministers and at one time the Governor of Crete. M. Dorys, under his proper title, has mingled since his childhood with the extraordinary political world which ferments around Yildez Palace and his information concerning the palace life has been obtained personally. Much of his material must have been obtained from his father, but of late M. Dorys has been acting as sub-correspondent for the London Times, and in that capacity has gathered from many sources. The book was written in Paris, as M. Dorys was forced to flee from Constantinople because of the wrath of the Padishah at the Young Turk party, of which the author is an active member.

M. Dorys has made a terrible arraignment of Abdul Hamid II. as he is to-day. With a powerful pen he writes of every phase of life in the gilded palace that is really a fortress. He draws a picture of a man living in constant fear of poison, having cats and dogs and even his staff touch every dish before he partakes of it. He draws an absolute ruler with such a fear of darkness that the whole palace is lighted all night. He shows a man afraid of silence and in constant apprehension of an attack, a man tortured with suspicions and loving stories of blood and violence. A cruel man, a most unhappy man the writer shows the Sultan, and one who certainly bears out Mr. Gladstone's name for him, "The Great Assassin."

The subject of the book feared it enough to appeal to the Governments of the countries where the book has appeared. In Sweden the sale was prohibited and the houses of suspected purchasers raided for copies. The Sultan made a protest to France against the sale of the book, but the public press was too clamorous and the Government could do nothing. The Sultan promptly condemned M. Dorys to death, but the Greek will likely keep himself safe in a foreign country while the Sultan lives.

The history of the Sultan is not a pleasant one to read. It reads like the description of the villain in a play or the old fairy tales of the horrible ogres. He literally swept away obstacles with no qualms and relentless cruelty. He is now older than his years, rickety, emaciated and an actual monomaniac. He is most suspicious of all men, and above all of his relatives who may be possible heirs. His children are his slaves, creatures of his will and whims. He dwells in the magnificent Yildez, a very city in itself, and amuses himself building and rebuilding stronger fortifications and secret hiding places. He dwells in continual fear of assassination and "death from outside."

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF THE SULTAN. By Georges Dorys. Published by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

FICTION OF THE HOUR.

Harper's Ninth American Novel of the Year.

The ninth of the American Novel Series, now being issued by Harper & Bros., is "The Strength of the Hills," by Florence Wilkinson. It is a story mainly laid in the Adirondack Mountains, and partly in New York city.

Enoch Holme, a mountain lumberman and preacher, and Alison MacDonald, a daughter of the city, and secretary of Hollister & Hollister, Holme's employers, are the ones on whom the reader's interest is centered. Made acquainted by reason of Alison's being a guest at Col. Hollister's summer camp in the mountains, Holme's hard, orthodox nature learns from her the intensity of human love, and, finding her engaged to Hollister's son, Dick, is involved in a struggle whereln heart and conscience battle for supremacy.

The strong, masterful mountaineer is a man of iron will; steadfast, even stubborn, in his ideas of right and duty, and the love of his life, made wrong by Alison's subsequent marriage with Dick, is subdued, but never crushed; hidden by the God-given power in the man—the strength of the hills born in his being.

The story is like one of the mountain streams described in its pages; at one time strong, flashing, commanding attention—at another quiet, s'ow and rather sluggish in movement. There is, perhaps, too much of an effort at word painting; an over-much infusion of mountain atmosphere, which palls a little at times.

This volume fills its part in showing the element of American character it was intended to portray, and has made its presentation interesting and worthy the attention it will command as one of this series. A. P.

A Nest of Linnets.

Mr. F. Frankfort Moore, who has written several good tales ere this, makes as strong a bid for favor in "A Nest of Linnets" as he did in "The Jessamy Bride." There is the same happy reproduction of Eighteenth century life and Eighteenth century folk. And of a faith he carries us into a goodly company of those whose memories we yet delight in and whose fame will be deathless. Elizabeth or Betsy Linley walks forth out of Sir Joshua Reynolds' canvas to become the heroine. Rumor made her not only exquisite, but with a ravishing voice and withal a creature so sensitive that it was cruelty to make her face an audience. It is her family that is the nest of linnets, and the family home is at Bath. Here are all the folk of fashion and wit and here the Linley parent practices music with his family and sheds tears at their genius while he looks after the pounds they earn. It is Miss Betsy's one desire to escape public life, and to do so she agrees to wed one Mr. Long, an elderly man of wealth. This seems incredible in a young woman whose singing brings Dr. Johnson, Mrs. Thrale, Dr. Goldsmith and Mr. Horace Walpole to listen at her door as well as the beautiful Duchess of Devonshire and George Selwyn. The hero comes later in the shape of Mr. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who, after numerous episodes and adventures have kept the readers breathless, runs away to France with Miss Betsy, but is met at Calais by Mr. Long, who insists on their immediately getting married. As all their troubles have been that each thought the other was about to wed another, the denouement is certainly happy. The last words leave them in a cottage where Dick Sheridan is contemplating the writing of a society comedy in which shall be a character called Lydia Languish.

The Eighteenth century is certainly giving us some delightful tales, but none is better than this one of Mr. Moore's, in which we are permitted to keep for a brief space the gay company of noted belles, beaux and wits.

Brady's Story of Quebec.

In Cyrus Townsend Brady's new book, "The Quiberon Touch," the fall of Quebec is pictured in as fine a manner as ever before it has been done in recent fiction, and the part of the fleet more fully brought out. The naval battle at Quiberon closes the book; that great sea fight in which "The Great Lord Hawke" crushed the naval power of France, and thus enabled England to hold New France. And this engagement is "told just as it happened" with a knowledge of its maneuvers and a dashing style of narration fascinating to the reader.

Not alone is the historical side of the story praiseworthy, but the adventures of the hero, Philip Grafton, a young American captain in the English navy, are not surpassed in interest by many works of fiction.

Story of Old Boston.

The town of Boston is the place, and the year 1688 the time, of M. Imlay Taylor's new story, "Anne Scarlett;" a time when Sir Edmund Andros was Royal Governor, when Cotton Mather preached, and witches were burned in New England.

Francis Yule had come to the New World from Devon to gain his fortunes. He falls in love with Anne Scarlett, who had been found by Adam Scarlett, a soldier, some fifteen years earlier, during King Phillip's war, near the charred embers of a settler's home, and brought to the town and adopted by him. "Nor had she any name, nor any lineage, with which mortal man was acquainted, yet she was sweetly human and natural in all her ways." Just at this time Lord and Lady Herford arrive from England. The latter had been betrothed to Yule, but had thrown her over for the rich Lord Herford, whom she did not love. On finding Yule engaged to Anne she plots to separate them and keep Yule for herself. She seizes on the easiest way and, by cunning ways and devious means, has Anne accused of being a witch and sentenced to hang. The tables are turned, however, and Anne is saved just in time, and her ladyship's plans come to naught.

The spirit of the time is well portrayed by Miss Taylor, and her work shows careful study of the customs and habits of the period. Her capacity as an entertaining story-teller has been proven before, and her present book will add to her reputation in that line.

President Harrison's Views On Subjects of Political Interest.

Reviewed By J. Stoddard Johnston.

BUT few of our Presidents have been authors. Jefferson and Roosevelt are the only two who had a book to their credit before entering the presidency. Washington's diaries and the correspondence and literary remains of the two Adams, Jefferson and Madison are valuable contributions to history, but they do not constitute their writers authors. Gen. Grant's autobiography puts him in the list, although his book was posthumous. President Harrison as reporter of the Supreme Court of Indiana compiled several volumes of decisions, but strictly his authorship was limited to several magazine articles written after retiring from office. The volume which has just been issued, and is the subject of this review, consists of these articles, together with a series of lectures and various addresses upon current topics. They have been prepared for the press by Mrs. Harrison and are presented to the public without preface or notes. They comprise an interesting collection.

His Lectures on Constitutional History.

The chief feature of the work consists of six lectures on American constitutional history, delivered at Stanford University, California, in the spring of 1894, a year after he ceased to be President. In accepting an offer of the founder of the university to deliver for pay a series of lectures he illustrated his own individuality of character in resuming the active duties of a private citizen unspoiled by high office, and the true republican simplicity of our form of government in the popular recognition of such a course as an additional ground for respect. The lectures, which constitute fully one-third of the volume, give evidence of careful preparation, and, while they reflect in every part the political views of the author as to the theory of our form of government which will not find acquiescence, except with those of the same political school, they contain much that is valuable touching the origin and organization of our Federal Union, not readily accessible to the casual student. In the discharge of his duty he assumed for the time the roll of the college professor, lecturing to a class supposed to have but superficial knowledge of the subject and went to the bottom of it in a thorough manner. But throughout the series he takes pains to impress those whom he is addressing that his province is not merely to marshal the facts of history, but also to draw his deductions from them in conformity with the political convictions illustrated by his official record.

His Federalist Bias.

Summed up in brief, the doctrine taught in these lectures is that of the strictest Federalism. He denies that either the colonies or States possessed the elements of sovereignty, and incidentally that there existed no inherent popular rights upon which such sovereignty could be constructed. He assumes that the colonists only had such attributes of a free people as they derived from the mother country and the charters granted by the crown; that there having never been accorded the element of sovereignty, there was no valid title to it from the start, and inferentially mere time could not cure the defect. It is the old idea that rights are derived by patent, that power must come from some recognized source downward, as opposed to the republican theory that liberty is a right inherent in the people, and all power comes from them upward. It is the doctrine of Hamilton, the theory of Federalism, as opposed to the principles of Jefferson, the true essence of republicanism.

The Counter View

It is difficult for one who has read the history of his country by other lights to comprehend the mental process by which such deductions can be drawn by a well-balanced mind from the actual facts attending the formation of our federated system of government. Senator Stanford, with his great wealth, could afford to pay a liberal price, such as was announced, as the consideration given for this course of lectures, but no amount of money can subvert the truth of history. The Federalist theory of our form of government is equally illogical and untrue. It withered under the exposure of its falsity by Jefferson, and remained lifeless the greater part of a century. Of late years it has been revived, and is the shibboleth of a large political faction. But it is not less false or illogical.

VIEWS OF AN EX-PRESIDENT. By Benjamin Harrison, being his addresses and writings on subjects of political interest since the close of his administration as President of the United States. Compiled by Mary Lord Harrison. Indianapolis: The Bowen-Merrill Company, publishers.

The dramatic edition of S. R. Crockett's novel, "Joan of the Sword Hand," by Miss Jeannette L. Gilder, has been issued by Dodd, Mead & Co. Through the courtesy of Messrs. Ben Stern and Geo. Bowles Miss Blanche Walsh has sent the edition to the leading newspapers of the country. The work reflects great credit upon Miss Gilder's powers of dramatizing well a very strong novel.

A beautiful young actress, Grace Lane, has "created" the part of Joy in "The Secret Orchard," as played by the Kendals in Great Britain. This latest work of the authors of "The Pride of Jennico" will appear in book form in both the United States and Canada before its dramatization will be seen on this side of the Atlantic.

A new aspirant for public favor is the Connoisseur, a magazine for collectors. The publishers are Sampson Low, Marston & Co. The magazine is a very handsome one, with a wealth of illustrations. The Connoisseur proposes filling "the empty place in the world of contemporary periodical publication—a world in which the empty places are so few as is the great world."

A Novel of Tremendous Power

KING MIDAS BY UPTON SINCLAIR

An American story of to-day, by a brilliant new writer. Advance copies of the book have won extraordinary praise from many of the ablest critics, some of whose utterances are given below. No novel that we have ever published equals this in the wonderful reception it has received, in advance of publication, in commendations from the critics and in advance orders from the trade.

Prof. Charles Eliot Norton says: "The book shows gleams of rare power. I shall present a copy of it to the Harvard Library."

Rev. Minot J. Savage says: "I read the book with much interest. . . . It shows a most tremendous power. . . . The opening chapters are to me a perfect delight; the first scene is simply superb, and the heroine is one of the sweetest, truest, and most living characters that I have met with for many years."

Col. Thos. Wentworth Higginson says: "The strong point of the book is the intense earnestness with which it is written and the important moral lesson conveyed. It gives decided promise and shows power and deep feeling."

Edwin Markham says: "I find a fine current of feeling through the pages. They are touched throughout with the hues of poetry and the noblest ideals of life."

"WARWICK OF THE KNOBS."

A New Stringtown Story By John Uri Lloyd.

Through the medium of "Stringtown on the Pike" readers became acquainted with a picturesque section of Kentucky where a peculiar people lived. The interpreter of this life was John Uri Lloyd. In his new book, "Warwick of the Knobs," he once more lays the scenes amid the hills and valleys of the region and where the dusty pike trails along.

"Warwick of the Knobs" is a better book than "Stringtown on the Pike." It is a clear cut, dramatic story of the Civil War, depicting life in Kentucky at a time when families were torn asunder and homes laid waste. Warwick is a figure of iron, a tall, gaunt leader who is loyal to the Confederate cause. Two sons are with Morgan's men and his home is the haven for oppressed Confederates.

To this home Morgan comes after his escape from Columbus prison, and he is guided through the Kentucky knobs by Warwick's daughter. About this girl there revolves the love interest of the story. It is well sustained and developed.

In the development of the character of the preacher, Warwick, Lloyd has done his best work. It is a figure to live long in the memory. Crude, rough, a man of steel, he knows no law, but duty to God and country. The serpent comes into his rugged home in the hills and steals his daughter. Then his son Joshua goes north to find the betrayer.

In this new book is all the color of its predecessor. But fortunately it is lacking in the symbolism and the superstition of the negro which burdened the first Stringtown book.

The knob country is located in what Lloyd calls "northernmost" Kentucky, that part of it near the Ohio river below Cincinnati.

"Warwick of the Knobs" is a war story without any of the carnage of war. It is vividly, keenly, admirably told. It is a book that cannot fail to command attention and hold interest.

A Mysterious Book That Will Interest Omarites.

"THE Rubaiyat of Mirza Memn is a handsome book, beautifully printed on tinted pages, with appropriate decorative designs, fairly well illustrated and in every respect a temptation to inspect with care. But the inspection, if the writer be a fair sample of the lovers of Omar Khayyam, will result in a puzzled feeling. Absolutely no clew is given to the new poet. He states frankly in his preface that many quatrains are paraphrases of McCarthy's prose translation of the old tentmaker's "Rubaiyat." But these are scattered here and there without seeming sequence or purpose. And in their form they furnish no excuse for supplanting their better known guise as given by Fitzgerald. Other quatrains, however, give evidence of a poetic gift that causes regret that the author's talent should be wasted on such an utterly uncalled for effort as a new version of the philosophy of the grand old Persian "rounder." It is a pretty book and an interesting one, but despite its merits we are compelled to sympathize with the man who wrote this.

FLUBDUBAIYAT.

"Each Morn another Rubaiyat doth bring,
There seems to be no Limit to the Thing;
But ev'ry Rhymster in the land must give Khayyam's Quatrains another rendering.

O, Omar K., could you and I conspire
To grasp this sorry, sloppy Stuff entire—
Save Fitz's Version—wouldn't we remold
It into Kindlers for the kitchen Fire?"

Nobody who read "The Redemption of David Corson" closed the book without a strong feeling for or against this unusual story. Mr. C. F. Goss, the author, has now entered the magazine field, and his initial contribution, "The Story of a Thief," he calls it, appears in Leslie's Monthly for October. It is sure to come in for vigorous discussion.

HIS MOST DRAMATIC NOVEL

The Cavalier BY GEORGE W. CABLE

With Eight Illustrations By HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY

The Tribune says:

"It is packed with incident, with a soldier's adventures, but each detail is deftly adjusted to a single aim, which is to carry certain lovers and their sweethearts through thrilling and unhappy times to joyous peace.

"We are grateful to the author for his vivid picture of Confederate camp life and fighting. But we are most grateful to him for a romance which in interest and in literary quality is one of the best things he has ever produced."

LAZARRE

Glorified by a beautiful love story.—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Catherwood has written ever since she can remember, and has published many books. Of "Lazarre" she says: "I am satisfied." Certainly the reading public will express the same opinion.—Boston Herald.

American life takes on an undreamed-of vitality in this book. The march of the emigrants across the continent thunders in our ears; the Indian depredations, the establishment of States are as events of to-day.

The tale lives as a fine drama lives, and in this quality of recreating time and place surpasses any historical novel that has yet been written by an American author.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Lazarre" exhales the spirit of America—America at her highest—freedom, loyalty, courage, simplicity, highmindedness, and a reverence and a love for women that passeth all understanding.—Phila. Public Ledger.

A ROMANCE OF AMERICAN POLITICS

By FRANCIS CHURCHILL WILLIAMS $1.50

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY SAYS: "Jimmy is a most engaging rascal. You like him. You want him to win. The book is a remarkable performance. There will be thousands who will admire it. It is entitled to march ahead of 'The Honorable Peter Stirling.'"

MARION HARLAND SAYS: "I have read the book from cover to cover, every sentence, every word. In spite of myself, in spite of reason, I had to like 'Jimmy.' "I congratulate you most heartily upon having done so fine a piece of work."

DR. TALCOTT WILLIAMS, BOOK NEWS, SAYS: "The strong side of the book is its picture-making. Mr. Williams sees, and his reader sees with him."

AGNES REPPLIER SAYS IN SATURDAY EVENING POST: "Readers must turn with something like relief to the presentation of home truths. Mr. Williams understands his craft. It is a book which would make a European gasp, but of which we know the truth."

BOSTON TRANSCRIPT SAYS: "There is a very charming love-story interwoven with this narrative of stratagem and spoils, which will make it delightful reading for women as well as men."

SATURDAY......OCTOBER 19, 1901

"Business."

Friday Evening, Oct. 18.—Under the influence of the settlement of the Northern Pacific-Union Pacific quarrel, as shown in the sales of Northern Pacific preferred stock held by the Kuhn-Loeb party, the market developed more strength to-day. Northern Pacific rose to 108⅞, but reacted a fraction at the close. The market also lost a good part of the advance and closed dull but steady, but Minneapolis and St. Louis had a big rise. Money was easy at 3@3½ per cent. on call, last loan at 3, though banks are supposed to have lost cash. Sterling exchange was firm. Government bonds were firm, and railroad bonds steady.

The wheat market was active and higher, and closed near the top, at a gain of ⅝c. Corn and oats were kept steady by wheat. Provisions opened weak, but regained most of the loss. Cotton was easier.

Cattle in Chicago were steady at yesterday's decline. Hogs were slow and 5@10c lower, closing dull. Sheep were dull and lower.

Positions of European Banks.

The weekly statement of the German Imperial Bank shows a remarkable and unexpected improvement. There was an increase of over $7,000,000 in the cash in hand and $300,000 in Treasury notes, while there was a decrease of a little over $20,000,000 in the note circulation and of nearly $16,000,000 in the "other securities" item. The report shows that the Imperial Bank has been able to reduce its loans and withdraw a part of its large note issue from circulation. The meaning of this would seem to be that there is at least hope that the crisis has been passed in the German industrial depression, and that hereafter there will be a period of better times. The fact that the railroads will soon let large contracts for extra supplies, chiefly of rails, ought to bring about a better state of things in the iron trade and in other industries also in sympathy. If so, it would be the first break in a dark cloud that has long hung over Europe.

The Bank of England has apparently put itself in order to meet the demand for gold from Berlin and the withdrawal of French loans, its reserve advancing 1.7 per cent. this week. Considerable sums of gold have been sent to Germany, and there is evidently an expectation that large sums of gold will be called for by the United States, since the great bank has sharply advanced the price of eagles. This depends, however, upon the extent of the wheat and cotton shipments. Wheat exports have fallen off from the high point in August, but are doing a little better this week, while there is a remarkable gain in the foreign sales of cotton. This is the season of the year when ordinarily there should be a very heavy movement of cotton, and it should be all the greater this year because foreign spinners held back from buying during September.

The Bank of France, unlike those of England and Germany, increased its bills discounted about $18,000,000 and its notes in circulation about $5,000,000, while it lost $1,100,000 in gold and about the same amount in silver. The Bank of France is fortunately in a very strong position, and some months ago it was complaining of the large amount of idle gold on hand, this being dwelt upon in the annual report of the head of the bank. Business has not had the boom in France that was temporarily enjoyed by Germany and Great Britain, but there has been a tremendous accumulation of surplus capital. It was withdrawn from Germany and Russia when things began to look dangerous in those countries, and this, perhaps, contributed to hasten the industrial collapse of Germany. Since then Paris has been a large lender to London, but Russia is negotiating a new loan of about $125,000,000, and this probably accounts for the demand on London, since it is not known that there have been any financial or serious industrial troubles in France. Exchange on London began to advance and then had a sudden decline this week, due, it is supposed, to the payment of some large loans made by American corporations. The effect of these payments must have passed away, for exchange began rising again three days ago. It has been argued that the break in copper shares has caused serious losses in Paris, it being a very large holder of Rio Tintos and to a considerable extent of Anaconda, but this is hardly probable.

The strain in Paris has interposed itself between London and New York, preventing gold imports into this country. Money continues so cheap here that the gold is easily diverted to Paris, and we shall not suffer.

The Isthmian Canal.

News with reference to an inchoate treaty must always be received with reserve. Such matters are a close secret, or ought to be. While some facts respecting them are pretty apt to leak out, there is always room for doubt as to details. There appears, however, to be good reason to believe that Great Britain has agreed to a treaty superseding the Clayton-Bulwer convention, which is expected to meet the approbation of the Senate of the United States, and so remove one of the obstacles to the passage of an isthmian canal bill. It is hazardous to assert positively what the United States Senate will do in the case of a treaty when a two-thirds vote is required, but as the problem now is to make a treaty which the Senate will approve, and as the views of Senators on the subject are pretty well known, there is some ground to expect that the treaty will go through.

The question of the route is important, but it is still a detail. It is apparent that there is to be an effort to substitute the Panama for the Nicaragua route. It is not yet apparent whether the obstacles in the way of the Panama route can be removed, but it is clear that efforts are making to do so. The project of a canal has interested and powerful enemies, and care is necessary that they be not allowed to play one route against the other for the purpose of defeating both.

Identification Bureau.

Congress will be asked at its coming session to create a Federal bureau for the identification of criminals. A bill for that purpose has been prepared and has secured the approval of the Police Chiefs. It is also said to have the approval of the Attorney General.

The proposed bill provides for the establishment at Washington City, in connection with the Department of Justice, of a division to be known as the National Bureau of Criminal Identification, where shall be collected and filed for record and report plates, photographs, outlines, pictures, descriptions and measurements of all persons who have been or may be convicted and imprisoned for violating any of the military, naval or criminal laws of the United States, including the laws in force in Territories or possessions which are punishable by the United States courts. Of course, this would be serviceable in executing the laws of the United States, and there is as much reason why the Federal Government should provide means of identifying criminals as that the States should do so. The usefulness of such bureaus of identification depend in a great degree upon the interchange of information so obtained. As professional criminals appear both in the State and the United States courts, according to the nature of the crimes, or the place where they are committed, it is desirable that the State and Federal Governments should co-operate in furnishing evidence that will contribute to the identification and conviction of such persons.

For the reason here indicated it is not proposed to limit the Federal Bureau to descriptions of criminals that are convicted in Federal courts. It is also provided in the bill that photographs and descriptions of persons convicted in State or Territorial courts be collected and filed, provided the State authorities furnish them. Provision is made to insure that these descriptions are furnished by duly authorized officials.

The professional criminal is a very elusive individual. He travels to every part of the country and in foreign lands. He has names innumerable and many cunning disguises. When he is released from prison he resumes his business, sometimes near the place of his incarceration, but often at a distance. When circumstances permit he is inclined to seek new fields, where the guardians of the law are not acquainted with his features or conversant with his past. Hence the importance of placing in the reach of the authorities means of identifying him wherever he may appear.

It has long been the practice to send out descriptions of men who are wanted to answer for criminal acts. These descriptions must often be made from memory and are delightfully vague and general. When such a description is sent out, especially when a reward is offered, numerous arrests are likely to follow, with the result that the persons arrested cannot be held. Where photographs are available they are a great aid to identification, but they also frequently fail. By shaving, by growing a beard, by donning spectacles, or leaving them off, according to the circumstances of the case, and by many other devices, the cunning criminal makes himself so unlike the photographs which he knows to be in existence that his identification by them is difficult, if not impossible.

Facts of this nature, known to all arresting officers, led to devising more complete and trustworthy means of identifying criminals. The Bertillon system of measurements, supplemented by elaborate indexes and cross-indexes, has made it possible to identify every criminal whose description and measurements are available. Where some of the measurements fail, owing to changes wrought by time or artificial means, others are found which serve the purpose. The chief difficulty is in getting access to the proper measurements; hence the need of increasing the sources from which they may be supplied.

The establishment of a bureau of identification of Federal convicts is quite within the sphere of Congressional legislation. Such bureaus are necessarily co-operative, and have it in their power to aid one another. It would be a great convenience to have a central bureau with information collected from the Federal authorities in all the States, Territories and dependencies, as well as from the State and local authorities so far as they are willing to co-operate. The expense would be by no means considerable, and the cost would be amply justified by the results under judicious management. Crime is exceedingly expensive to the public, and whatever facilitates its detection and punishment is a good investment.

The proposition to get photographs and measurements of every person convicted and imprisoned in Federal courts appears to be rather too sweeping. Some regard should be had to the nature of the offense. This, however, is a matter of detail, which can easily be regulated by amendment. The general idea is an excellent one, and a judicious bill for the purpose mentioned ought to receive favorable consideration.

The Antique Trust.

"The principal Italian antiquity dealers have formed a trust," says the London Daily Mail, "in order to raise prices and to exploit the growing needs of American buyers."

Is there no escape for American buyers? Are they to be at the mercy of the trusts at home and abroad? Are they to pay trust prices not only for the luxuries but for the necessaries of life?

So far they have worried along without a revolution. They have been compelled to go to the trusts for their food and drink, for their fuel and raiment, for their shelter and tools. While they have not been content to do this they have been resigned, for they were permitted to buy their antiques where they chose. But if this information of the London Mail is reliable; if the Latins have organized a trust to do with our very vitals; if the descendants of Romulus and Remus who have prospered in the manufacture of macaroni and antiques are to put "the growing needs of American buyers" in the hands of a trust, then it is time to do something more than pass resolutions and run for office on anti-trust platforms.

At first there might be an impulse among us to start factories of our own and manufacture all the Italian antiques we need. There is no question that we could do this, nor that, with a little time to get our hand in, we could do it as well as the Italians do. In the manufacturing business we acknowledge no superior. But how would such a course profit us? How long would it be before our Italian antique industry were in the control of an American trust? It is true that as between an Italian trust and an American trust we might prefer "our own damned rascals." But that would inure only to the profit of American rascals, not of American buyers. It would in no sense be a solution of the trust question as brought home to us by the noble Romans.

The trust problem grows knottier and knottier. What are we going to do about it?

A man is just back from Europe who went there in response to a telegram from a practical joker notifying him that his sister was dying. The only way to put any humor into a practical joke is to kill the practical joker. It is true that would not be irresistibly funny, but it would be funnier than a practical joke. It would be sensible if not funny, as it would leave the world with one hopeless ass less.

"Why should not the names of those who send flowers, fruit and encouraging letters to the assassin of President McKinley be published? Are they not, to a certain extent, accessories after the fact to his crime, and has not the public a right to know who these secret enemies of law and government are that are living in its midst?"—[Philadelphia Ledger.

Does the Ledger forget that many of these, so the dispatches say, are "Christian" societies?

A Chicago physician proposes to open an office and furnish the means for those who wish to commit suicide. The novelty of this is in the fact that there are plenty of doctors' offices already which furnish the means to those who do not wish to commit suicide.

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs this week has tackled the question of diet and has decided that men who eat meat are fools. Unfortunately all men can't accommodate their stomachs to a meal of pickles and ice cream.

"Stray dogs and cats are to be cared for in Chicago during the coming winter," the Record-Herald assures us. Is this attributable in any way to the rise in the prices of beef, pork and other sausage ingredients?

The esteemed contemporary which editorially preaches the duty of always observing "the gospel of good humor" runs on the same page a department headed "The Pessimist."

All doubt as to the success of the St. Louis World's Fair has been removed. It has been decided that there is to be a "board of lady managers."

WOMEN WANT PRIVILEGES IN CENTRAL UNIVERSITY.

EQUAL RIGHTS' ASSOCIATION

Completes Session In Covington After Electing Officers—Henderson County Man Who Was Shot Dies.

CONSPIRACY IN MIDDLESBORO.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Synod of Kentucky of the Southern Presbyterian denomination to-day closed its annual meeting. The sessions were unusually interesting, and much business of importance was transacted. The ministers and delegates left for their homes on the afternoon and night trains. The synod by resolutions adopted to-day put itself on record as being thoroughly in harmony with the consolidated university in Danville and the theological seminary at Louisville. The Synod also passed a vote of thanks for the munificent bequest of $300,000 by the late W. T. Grant and his wife, of Louisville.

Mr. John Stites, of Louisville, was elected treasurer of the Synod.

The principal discussion of the last session related to the educational advancement of women. The report upon the higher education of women looking to the development of a plan to establish a great institution of this character in Kentucky was passed.

CO-EDUCATION DESIRED.

Equal Rights' Association Anxious To Secure Privileges In Danville.

Covington, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The second and closing day of the Equal Rights' Association convention was even more interesting than the first. The business meeting was called to order at 9 o'clock and the plan of work was drawn up and recommended by Miss Laura B. Clay, president, of Lexington; Mrs. Mary B. Clay, vice president, of Richmond; Mrs. N. S. McLaughlin, third vice president; Mrs. Mary Cramer, second vice president, of Lexington; Mrs. Roark, secretary, and Mrs. Shepard, treasurer. A motion was adopted that the association endeavor to secure any suffrage for tax-paying women that may be constitutional, to ask the support of the Legislature in securing equal suffrage alike for men and women in the election of presidential electors, and to make a request that Central University, in Danville, be opened to women.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Miss Laura Clay, Lexington; first vice president, Mrs. Mary Clay, Richmond; second vice president, Mrs. Mary C. Cramer, Lexington; third vice president, Mrs. N. S. McLaughlin, Covington; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Miller, Louisville; recording secretary, Mrs. E. M. Roebuck, Newport; treasurer, Mrs. Isadore Shepard, Covington.

The afternoon was devoted to two addresses by Mrs. Catt to the pupils of the Covington High School, who went in a body at 2:30 o'clock to Trinity Hall.

WOUND PROVES FATAL.

Henderson County Man Who Was Shot Dies After Operation.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—John A. Oldham, who was shot by Enoch Clary during the latter's trial before Magistrate Johnson, at Reed's Station yesterday, died at 9:30 o'clock to-night. He was brought to this city to-day and placed in the City Hospital and was operated upon by Dr. W. F. Stirman this afternoon. He began to sink rapidly early in the night and soon became unconscious. Heart failure followed the operation, and death soon followed. His sister, Mrs. Speel, of Curdsville, was his only relative with him when he died. The body was removed to H. W. Miller's undertaking establishment and will be sent to Spottsville, his home, in the morning for burial.

The Clarys went to Reed's Station this morning and surrendered to Magistrate Johnson. They waived an examining trial on the charge of shooting with intent to kill. Their bond was fixed at $500 each, which they executed and were released.

HUNTER'S SERIOUS MISTAKE.

Thought His Friend Was a Squirrel and Fired At Him.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—While in the woods near Sorgho squirrel hunting to-day, Dr. R. G. Cary shot I. P. Williams, mistaking him for a squirrel. The two men became separated. Dr. Cary heard Williams fire his gun and went toward the place whence the report came. Williams had shot a squirrel and as it had run into a hole, he climbed the tree after it. Dr. Cary heard the rustle of the leaves in the tree. He thought a squirrel was there, and fired and shot Williams, who came tumbling out of the tree. He was shot in the side, face and neck, but is not seriously wounded, though Dr. Cary and Dr. Oldham, who are attending him, have not succeeded in getting all the sot out of his body.

Dr. Cary and Williams are great friends and the doctor is greatly distressed that he mistook his friend for a squirrel.

VETERAN MERCHANT DEAD.

James E. Croft, One of Christian County's Pioneers, Expires.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 18.—James E. Croft, the veteran merchant, for whom the town of Crofton, in this county, was named, died at an early hour this morning of paralysis and rheumatism of the heart. He was sixty-two years old and one of the leading citizens of the county of Christian. He had been a successful merchant for more than forty years.

Before the Louisville and Nashville railroad was built by his place he hauled his goods overland from Henderson, sixty miles. When the road came through his land he became wealthy, and the town of Crofton is now a place of importance. He leaves a widow, two grown children and an estate of $50,000. He was the richest man in his section of the county, and the leader in all progressive movements.

WOMEN AS CANDIDATES.

Russell Graded Schools Have Two Representatives In the Field.

Greenup, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Russell graded schools are furnishing two women candidates for Superintendent of County Schools. The principal, Miss Annie M. Davidson, was unanimously nominated by the Democratic county convention, and from present indications will be elected by a large majority, even if the rest of the ticket is defeated. The other candidate is Miss Sophia Kitchen, who has been nominated by the Citizens' ticket, composed of independent Republicans and Democrats of Carter county. Carter is nominally Republican by 500, but four years ago the Democrats came within seventeen votes of electing their candidate for School Superintendent—also a woman. This year, with the aid of the independents, they expect to secure a victory.

STANFORD MAN A CANDIDATE.

Richard C. Warren Seeks Congressional Nomination In Eighth District.

Danville, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Authentic information has been received that Richard C. Warren, of Stanford, will announce himself as a candidate for Congress in the Eighth district, composed of Boyle, Mercer, Lincoln, Garrard, Spencer, Jessamine, Anderson, Madison and Shelby counties. He has represented Lincoln in the Legislature, has been County Attorney and has ably served two terms as Commonwealth's Attorney in this judicial district. It is understood that the Hon. G. G. Gilbert, of Shelbyville, will also seek a renomination, and that the Hon. Lillard Carter, of Anderson, may also be a candidate.

ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY FAILS.

Burglars Enter Mt. Olivet Post-office, But Are Frightened Away.

Mt. Olivet, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Burglars entered the post-office in this city early yesterday morning. They made an effort to blow open the safe, badly wrecking one of the doors. They were frightened away, however, before they secured any of the contents. They obtained $2 in money and $14.50 in stamps from the cash drawer. Before leaving town they went to the stable of J. W. Claypoole and took a fine horse and buggy. When daylight came the loss was discovered, and Mr. Claypoole started in pursuit, finding his horse and buggy in Augusta. The driver had crossed the Ohio river in a skift.

RESULT OF CONSPIRACY.

Several Persons Believed To Be Implicated In Middlesboro Robbery.

Middlesboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Late developments confirm the report that the shooting and robbing of P. T. Colgan, cashier of the Virginia, Iron, Coal and Coke Company, were results of a well-laid plan, in which several persons were implicated. It is thought by the police and detectives, who are working on the case, that the guilty ones will be in the hands of the law in a short time. Mr. Bullitt, chief attorney, and Treasurer Wills, of the Virginia Coal Company, arrived last night from Bristol, and are assisting the officers in their work.

TO HONOR JUDGE COCHRAN.

Banquet To Be Tendered Him By Covington and Newport Lawyers.

Covington, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Members of the Covington and Newport bar have arranged a banquet which will be tendered to Judge A. M. J. Cochran, of the United States Court, at the Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, Saturday night of next week. Invitations have been sent to all the important town in the Eastern district of Kentucky requesting the presence of the members of the bar, and a large attendance is promised.

HUNTING PROVED COSTLY.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

Prisoners In Paintsville Still Under a Heavy Guard.

Paintsville, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The case of Frank Hall and Isom Slone, who are charged with robbing Dan Davis of $500 on the night of August 12, was continued until next Tuesday. The prisoners are still under a heavy guard, as it is feared their friends may try to set them free.

Burgin's Municipal Campaign.

Burgin, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—This town is now in the midst of the most exciting municipal campaign ever known in the history of the place, completely overshadowing the races for various county offices, which are waxing warm. There are two candidates for Judge of Police Court, two contestants for Town Marshal and two sets of candidates for City Council. The present board, which stands for re-election, is adverse to the sale of whisky. The "new board," as the other candidates are called, favors a reduction in druggists' license from $300, as the ordinance now stands, to $50.

Good Year For Sorghum.

Greenup, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The sorghum making for this year is over with, and Greenup county has just marketed the largest crop in its history. Over 1,000 barrels were shipped from Greenup by boat last week, and besides shipments were made all along the river. The price is much more favorable than in former years, the merchants paying $13 a barrel. This county produces more sorghum than any other in Kentucky.

Tobacco Stemmery Sold.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Nimrod Long, in connection with his brother, Stephen D. Long, who has recently moved here from California, has bought the large tobacco stemmery of Small & O'Flynn, paying $4,250 for it. He will make extensive repairs and put up a large stock of tobacco during the coming season.

Barren Republicans' Candidate.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Republican County Committee has nominated J. A. Conyers, of this city, for County Attorney, and is making a vigorous canvass in his behalf. T. D. Underwood, the incumbent, is the Democratic nominee. The Republicans have no candidate for any other county office.

Candidate For Mayor of Lancaster.

HOLDING ON.

Masonic Home Directors Seek Attorney's Advice.

DEMAND FOR THE $93,000.

HISTORY OF THE FUND GRAND LODGE WANTS BACK.

FROM TEMPLE BOND SALE.

Certificates Alleged To Have Read "Not To Be Sold Without Consent of Grand Lodge."

CLAIMED THAT THEY WERE.

The Masonic Home directors will be governed by the opinion of their attorney in the matter of turning over the ninety-odd thousand dollars held in trust by them for the Grand Lodge of Kentucky.

A meeting of the board was held in the office of the Grand Secretary in the Temple Theater building last night. There was a majority of the members present. After being called to order by President T. L. Jefferson, with a statement of the cause of the meeting, the Grand Secretary arose and made a formal request, in conformity with a resolution of the Grand Lodge in annual session Thursday, for the return of the funds, amounting to over $90,000, held in trust by the Home Board for the Grand Lodge. After a brief discussion, it was decided to refer the question to Judge James S. Pirtle, the attorney for the home.

In the meantime, the Building Committee, constituted by the Grand Lodge to superintend the erection of the new temple, and authorized by it to begin the work at once, has been offered the entire $200,000 needed to put up the handsome structure proposed for Chestnut street, near Fourth avenue, at 4 per cent. per annum, by an institution that says it does not want better security than the Grand Lodge of Masons of Kentucky. It is believed that whatever the final action of the Home Board, with reference to giving up the money asked for, work on the "New Masonic" will begin before November 10.

History of That Money.

A prominent member of the order from the central part of the State, who attended the Grand Lodge meeting this week and remained over yesterday to transact some other business, gave to a Courier-Journal reporter last night a brief review of the financial aid of the State body for the Home.

"The history of the trust fund, whose return is requested, is this: After having given nearly all the money it had, as high as $78,000 at a time and various other large sums, the Grand Lodge, in its zeal for the widows and orphans of Masonic brethren, placed with the Home in trust 199½ shares of Masonic Temple stock with limitations and restrictions to the effect that if the management of the Home should become inimical to the interest of the Grand Lodge or the Home become diverted from the purposes of original construction, the stock should immediately revert to the Grand Lodge. Wishing to preserve its meeting place and Grand Secretary's office, it also forbade the sale of the stock without the consent of the Grand Lodge. All of these things were put in the certificate of stock, but the Home trustees were given the right to vote the stock and also the right to collect the dividends for the benefit of the Home.

"The Home sold the stock without the consent of the Grand Lodge. The Grand Master in referring to the subject remarked substantially that it was not necessary to look too critically into the action. Then the Grand Lodge resolved to build a new temple itself, having been deprived of the place it had occupied for nearly half a century.

Promised a Home.

"The Grand Lodge was induced to move to Louisville from Lexington on the assurance that it should meet in the Masonic Temple thereafter without cost. The committee laid no claims to this fund secured from the sale, as it wished the home to derive the benefits from it, but the State organization said to the committee of the board that the $90,000 of the amount we wished to borrow belonged to the Grand Lodge, and we proposed to pay you the regular rate of interest on our own money with the additional sum that we deem necessary for the construction of a new house.

"When the board refused to lend the $200,000 wanted to put in the building and secured by mortgage thereon, with the name of the Grand Lodge signed to the bonds; when it refused to lend the $150,000 it had previously promised, stipulating that $50,000 of second mortgage bonds should be sold at par and pledged before it would furnish the $150,000, the Grand Lodge esteemed it as the last straw, in view of what it had done and was yet willing to do for the home, and, therefore, in self-defense, requested the return of the forfeited trust funds, plainly indicating and even pledging the $20,000 annually given to the home for payment of the money it might borrow, in case the directors refused to return the trust fund.

Home Will Not Suffer.

"But there is no danger that the Grand Lodge will let the Widows' and Orphans' Home suffer or want for any means for their maintenance."

Asked what effect the resolution requesting all subordinate lodges, nearly 500 in number, to send their proxies to the Grand Master to be voted next May at the election of five directors, would have on the personnel of the board as it now stands, the Mason being interviewed said: "The Grand Lodge has made no threat to cut off the official head of any director, but it will place itself in a position to act as it may deem necessary. The terms of Messrs. George Gaulbert, W. B. Hoke, Christian Jenne, W. H. Meffert and C. C. Vogt expire next May. Two of these gentlemen voted in favor of letting the Building Committee have the $200,000."

Clear and Warmer To-day.

The forecast for to-day is for clear and warmer weather. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning the temperature was 35 degrees, the lowest of the fall season. Up to that time, 38 degrees had been the lowest point reached. The indications for to-day are that 45 degrees will mark the minimum. Yesterday's mean temperature of 49 degrees was eight degrees below the normal. The highest temperature was 63 degrees.

MUST SUE.

Mr. Layer's Meat Claim Not Allowed.

REED FOUGHT AGAINST IT.

CITY ATTORNEY STONE SAID IT MUST BE PAID.

WATER COMPANY PROBING.

Lower Board of General Council Appropriates $10,000 With Which To Carry On Work.

THAT TELEPHONE MATTER.

Gottlieb Layer will have to sue the city if he expects to collect the money due him for furnishing fresh meat to city institutions. The rejection of his claim caused a lively debate in the Board of Aldermen last night, but Mr. P. Booker Reed, who led the opposition to the claim, finally won out. The Finance Committee had a meeting yesterday afternoon at which the Layer claim was brought up. Mr. Layer, his attorney and City Attorney Stone appeared before the committee and argued the claim. Mr. Layer agreed to waive all claim for interest on the bill and cause all suits to be dismissed at his cost. Under these conditions and on the advice of Col. Stone the committee recommended the payment of the bill, and at the session of the Aldermen last night Mr. Colston offered a resolution instructing the Controller to draw a warrant for $9,867.32 in full payment of the claim. Mr. Reed called Mr. Ballard to the chair and on the floor made a vigorous fight against the resolution. He claimed not to have any personal feeling against Mr. Layer, but he said the bill should not be paid until the courts said so. He was willing to pay all interest and any damage that Mr. Layer might get in order to have the question settled whether a city officer could furnish the city supplies.

Mr. Colston answered Mr. Reed, saying that Mr. Layer was clearly entitled to his money, and he believed that he acted within the law in furnishing the meat. He said the law was not clear on the subject, but he thought Mr. Layer could contract with the city, but not with the Park Commissioners.

Col. Stone expressed his opinion on the question and read the law. He said it was not clear to him, but he thought the claim was a just one and should be paid, inasmuch as any court would allow it if suit was ever brought. Two or three other members had something to say, but when the vote was taken Mr. Reed declared the resolution rejected.

The Aldermen sustained the Mayor's veto to the resolution contracting with the Home Telephone Company for telephones. The Aldermen's action leaves the telephone matter in a rather peculiar situation. When the original resolution was adopted and sent to the Mayor for his signature, he returned it with his veto. Mr. Ballard failed to report it and the telephone people went before the lower board again with the same resolution, with the exception of one paragraph, which was eliminated, and had it introduced as new business and adopted. The upper board also adopted it and it was sent to the Mayor for his signature. Last night Mr. Ballard brought up the original resolution and the Mayor's veto was sustained. One of the principal reasons given by the Mayor for refusing to sign the original was that it barred competition, but when the new resolution was introduced this paragraph was left out, and it was adopted by both boards and was in the hands of the Mayor before it was discovered. Now it is said that the Mayor will sign the resolution.

Both the boards adopted resolutions taking Health Officer Allen to task for alleged dabbling in politics, and requesting him to refrain from instructing firemen in politics.

After some opposition from Messrs. Meriwether and Brandeis, the lower board adopted the resolution appropriating $10,000 for an investigation of the Water Company's books.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Refuses To Pay Gottlieb Layer For Meat Furnished City.

The Board of Aldermen was called to order at 8 o'clock last night with President Reed in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, approved and signed.

A communication was received from W. H. Trueman, expert bookkeeper, with reference to examining the books of the Water Company. It was referred to the Sinking Fund Commissioners. An ordinance was introduced extending the boundary line of the city so as to embrace a certain portion of Crescent Hill. It was referred to the Committee on Revision. The report of the City Treasurer for the month of August, 1901, was received and filed.

Mr. Colston introduced a resolution authorizing the Controller to draw a warrant for $9,867.32 in favor of Gottlieb Layer in payment of meat bills. Quite a discussion over this matter ensued between Messrs. Reed, Colston and the City Attorney, as detailed above. The resolution was rejected. A resolution adjourning until October 22 was adopted.

Mr. Ballard called up the resolution regarding the city leasing telephones from the Home Telephone Company, and moved that the Mayor's veto be sustained. After some quibbling and explaining the veto was sustained. Mr. Ballard asked that the resolution be adopted, the Mayor's veto to the contrary notwithstanding. He announced that he would vote against the motion, but adopted this means to get it before the house.

The Committee on Grievances reported that it had investigated the complaint made against the Louisville Fertilizing Company by the citizens of High street, and begged to say that there were no grounds for the complaint. The report was adopted.

A resolution was adopted scoring Health Officer Allen for the alleged reason that he gave daily instructions to the firemen in ward politics. The resolution stated that such information had come to the ears of the board, and if it were true it was beneath the dignity of the office.

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Board of Public Works to furnish the Council with the names of city employes who served as officers of registration. The board then adjourned.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN

Appropriates $10,000 With Which To Investigate Water Company.

The Board of Councilmen was called to order last night by President Stern, with seventeen members present.

The resolution appropriating $10,000 for investigating the affairs of the Water Company was adopted, though Messrs. Brandeis, Meriwether and Ramsey declared the amount was too large. A resolution was adopted asking the Board of Public Safety to investigate the rumors that firemen were being made to pay a levy for political purposes, and if found to be true to institute prosecution against those making the levy.

Two bills of the Dixon Garbage and Incinerator Company amounting to $396, for running the plant at Ormsby avenue and Hancock street last March, were brought up. They were immediately rejected. An effort was made to bring them up again after the City Attorney said they would have to be paid eventually, but the effort failed. A communication was received from the Board of Public Works asking that the claim of the Dixon company for $21,960 for erecting the garbage incinerator be allowed with the understanding that the contract for the other be canceled. The communication was received and filed.

President Stern introduced a resolution requesting the Board of Public Works to furnish the names of men employed by the city who served as officers of registration and received their pay from the city.

An adjourning resolution until next Tuesday night was adopted. An effort was made to postpone the meeting for another week, but it was stated that Col. Stone wanted to get his new assistants installed in office before a new Council came in and the meeting was ordered for next Tuesday.

Mr. Watson offered a resolution asking the City Health Officer to refrain from teaching firemen politics. It was adopted, but not until after Mr. Meriwether had expressed his mind pretty freely about it. He said such resolutions were not worth the printing. An ordinance was passed restoring the salaries of the two assistants of the Clerk of the Police Court and one in the City Buyer's office to $1,200 a year. This was the original salary, but was cut to $1,000 by the Council some months ago.

SLAP AT THE SADDLE HORSE BREEDERS.

Chicago Horse Show Association Says They Need Not Be Registered.

Gen. John B. Castleman, President of the Louisville Horse Show Association, has been notified by Mr. John B. Kitchen, Managing Director of the Chicago Horse Show Association, that certain rules for gaited saddle horses, classes Nos. 69, 70 and 72, have been changed and it will not be necessary for horses entered in the classes named to be registered in the American Saddle Horse Register. No reason was assigned for the change. Gen. Castleman says the action of the Chicago association involves an injustice to the American saddle horse which is bound to meet with the resentment of breeders of that horse, and he thinks breeders should avoid exhibiting where their horses are discredited.

Gen. Castleman answered: "There are in the United States three distinct American horses—the runner, trotter and American saddle horse. In respect to all of these you required registration. If you had eliminated the requirement for all three it would not have been invidious, but to single out the American saddle horse is a slap in the face of a great body of men who, for forty years, have protected this horse and who, for ten years, have exacted registration in order that a distinctive type might be adhered to and developed. Your ruling encourages an inferior, not a superior exhibition of horses. Nearly all of the fine saddle horses, whether gaited or ungaited, successful in competition in this country are American-bred saddle horses. Many of these horses, shown in the walk, trot or canter classes, may not be registered, but where they are shown conforming to the requirements of the American saddle horse, that is, going five gaits, it is fair that a prominent association should support an organized effort to improve the breed."

Flower Mission Report.

[Communicated.]

We were not able to clothe all the poor people who came to us during the week, as our wardrobes are empty. We have calls for all kinds of clothing, mostly cloaks, underwear, shoes, etc. Stoves, both heating and cooking, are needed very much among the poor. Will not our kind friends donate them?

The Flower Mission will have to call on its friends for money to move on, as we do not wish to take the funds we have for the poor. We earnestly trust that all of our friends will contribute for this purpose. All those who can send clothing this week will please do so, as we wish to relieve all the poor folks who come to us.

We sincerely thank the Ladies' Aid of the First Christian church for $1 through Mrs. Lyons; Mrs. V. G. Engelhardt, Llewellyn Smith, Miss Bessie Dow, for clothing; Messrs. Nanz & Neuner, F. Walker, Schutz, Thompson and Charles Riemers, for flowers; Mrs. W. G. Womack, Miss Edith Lewis, C. F. Soden, for literature; Mrs. E. Kirby, for clothing, a cot, a baby buggy and other useful things.

Send money to 814 Third street and bundles to 112 West Walnut street.

ANNA M. BOUSTEAD, Secretary.

Richmond Man's Appointment.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Mr. Warfield C. Bennett, son of Mr. James Bennett, of this city, has been appointed United States Commissioner and Deputy Clerk of the Eastern Kentucky district. The young man is a grandson of Gen. Cassius M. Clay and is highly educated, having graduated both at Central University and Columbia University, New York.

SAGE DAVIS.

Party Predictions Are Coming True.

BAKER HAD A "CALL DOWN."

ALDERMAN'S CLERK SHAKY ABOUT REPUBLICAN SUCCESS.

STRATTON AND THE NEGRO.

Mr. Sapp Is Seldom Seen About the Republican Headquarters These Days.

NOT TELLING HIS THOUGHTS.

Alf Davis, clerk of the Board of Aldermen, is possessed with an idea that he has few equals as a political forecaster. He believes in that old saying that "coming events cast their shadows before them," as will be demonstrated in this story. "Alf," as he is known to everybody, is something of a politician himself and has been a power in politics in the First ward for many years. In fact, the ward usually went the way Mr. Davis wanted it to in primaries and conventions. A few years ago Mr. Sapp came along. He retired Mr. Davis, who has been out of politics ever since, and he is averse to going back until after the Customhouse crowd is retired. "They want me to get out and do some hustling," said he yesterday, "but I can't stand this night air."

With this remark he shivered, smiled a knowing smile and made a pretense at coughing.

"Let me tell you a few things about politics, young man," said he.

He settled back in his seat, cocked his legs on the desk, threw a book at the office cat, sent a messenger after some theater tickets and began.

"You know, or rather you ought to know, that the men at the head of the Republican machine in Louisville are without political sense or sagacity. Hasn't their every action proved it? The stock in trade of every political party consists of but one thing—votes. If the party can't get the votes it hasn't any business in the field. What have the Republicans done but driven votes away from them? What's the cause? Blunders, nothing but blunders. I told the party leaders four months ago that the party in Louisville would become disrupted. Guess I'm not far wrong, am I? Take that primary for instance. Look how Booker Reed was butchered. Call that political sense? There is no doubt in my mind that Reed would have won the nomination with a fair deal. Up in the First, he got 196 votes in one precinct, and when the committee got through with the returns, he only had 119 votes in the entire ward. What would you call that? Take old man Struss. Look how he was treated. He has four grown sons, all of whom live at home and vote. Mr. Struss only got three votes in his home precinct. In a certain precinct in the county, Two-mile House, nearly every resident is related to him, yet he only got three or four votes, and his opponent got over 500. How about that for political sense? I could recite you dozens of cases just like these, but what's the use.

"I'll tell you about another prediction I made and how it came true. It was a short time before the Philadelphia convention that I told Mr. Sapp and Dr. Baker that if the method of running things was not changed somebody would get a call down. One day at the convention Dr. Baker came up to me smiling. 'Alf,' says he, 'you remember that prediction you made a few weeks ago? Well, it came true. Come around to the Continental Hotel to-night and I'll tell you about it.'

"I went around and 'Doc' said that 'Uncle Mark' had administered a pretty swift call about the manner in which things were being conducted down at Louisville. Dr. Baker was wise. He came home and immediately retired from politics and you don't hear him puttin' in now, either. Wouldn't be surprised to hear of another call down after the November election, would you?"

Mr. Davis can't be classed as a "Sappite," though he is a Republican and will vote the ticket. He admitted yesterday that things looked pretty shaky.

Mr. Stratton and the Negro.

Mr. John A. Stratton, the Republican candidate for Mayor, has placed himself in rather a bad light with his negro constituency. While going about the city making campaign speeches to the negroes, assuring them he is their friend, he enters a business compact in which he shows his feeling against the negro. Last March Mr. Stratton sold a piece of property at Lydia and Texas streets to Mr. Thomas Goss., Sr. The deed to the property was recorded in deed book 546, page 518, at the County Clerk's office, and it contained this clause: "And for further consideration party of the second part (Goss) agrees and binds himself, heirs and assigns not to sell the property, or any part of it, to persons of African descent; also that he shall not rent the property to persons of African descent."

When this compact was made Mr. Stratton evidently had no intention of becoming a candidate for Mayor, else he would have been more cautious in the wording of the deed.

Mr. Sapp Takes To the Woods.

"What's the matter with my old friend Sapp?" asked a politician yesterday. "Never see him quoted in the newspapers these days, and I have been around Republican headquarters a half dozen times this week looking for him. Have never been able to find him in and the clerks say that he rarely comes around. Can it be that he has suddenly tumbled that he is making himself the laughing stock of the city and has quit talking and quit dictating?"

Mr. Sapp rarely visits either of the campaign committees, and when he does he only remains a few minutes. He seldom comes down in the city at night, and in the day time he is usually about his office at the Customhouse. He won't talk politics and when the subject is mentioned to him his reply is usually, "I've quit thinking," or "I'm thinking, but can't tell my thoughts." If he is doing any campaign work at all for the ticket he is employing "gum-shoe" methods and the public hears little about it.

was to be "bounced" at the end of the evening's reception.

Prospective freedom inclined to make him impertinent.

When Mr. and Mrs. Penny and daughter entered, he announced them "Three-pence."

It was all right, but—

It is all right for you to have anyone anywhere supply your printing needs, but—

You're not dealing with the printshop of largest capacity for printing and lithographing work, the one with the greatest facilities for turning out fine work if you're not dealing with our house.

There is nothing from printing a card to a catalogue that we can not do and do not do.

We can engrave the invitations needed for the coming wedding, too.

And if you're a merchant who presents a calendar to each of your customers each year, we'd like to show you our calendar samples. A pleasing line of samples at pleasing prices await your inspection and orders here.

Three Jockeys Injured.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—Three jockeys were hurt to-day, one of them dangerously, in the races now being given here by the Interstate Fair Association. In the mile hurdle Henry Gibbs and Dewey D. collided at the fourth jump, throwing both horses and riders. Higgins on Henry Gibbs had his collarbone broken and sustained severe injuries, and Pierce, the rider of Dewey D., broke his ankle. The horses were only slightly hurt.

In the fifth event Intent, piloted by Jockey Castro, was crowded into the fence. Castro was hurled to the ground and was picked up in an unconscious condition. The jockey's condition to-night is serious, but it is not thought that his injuries will result fatally.

City To Get Two New Engines.

Mayor Weaver yesterday approved contracts for two new steam fire engines to cost $5,000 each. One of the engines will be stationed in South Louisville and the other in the southwestern part of the city. The contracts have been held up by the Council for more than a year, but were finally approved and the engines will be shipped immediately. One is to come from the La France Company, of Elmira, N. Y., and the other from the Ahrens Company, of Cincinnati. Both will be of the latest improved pattern.

No Trace of the Negro.

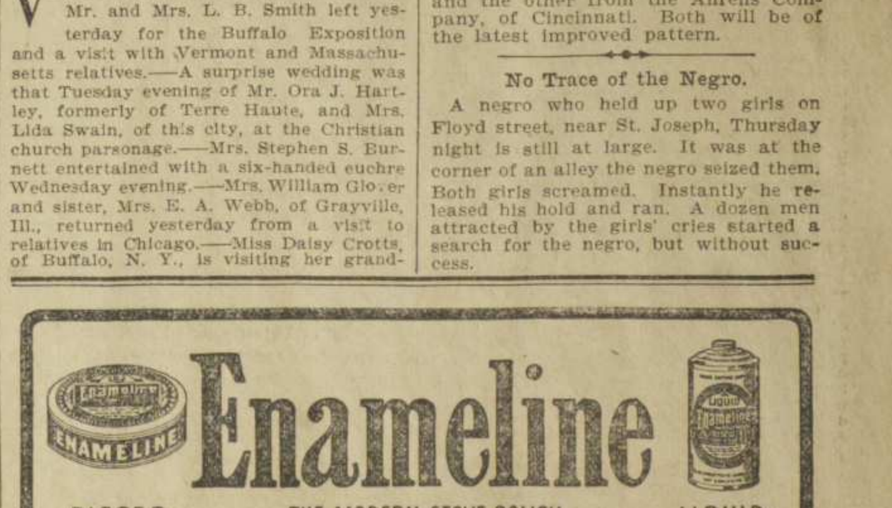

A negro who held up two girls on Floyd street, near St. Joseph, Thursday night is still at large. It was at the corner of an alley the negro seized them. Both girls screamed. Instantly he released his hold and ran. A dozen men attracted by the girls' cries started a search for the negro, but without success.

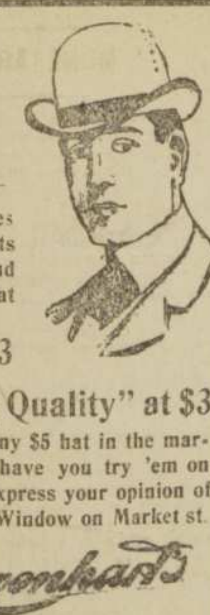

TO THE MAN WHO THINKS.

LOOK yourself squarely in the face and see if you are not half ashamed to be without Ivory Soap in your house. Worse than this, your wife is without it. It is bad enough for a man, though a man often doesn't care how his comfort is mis-spelled. But a woman misses all these little helps to housekeeping. And Ivory Soap is one; its great potency makes it actually cheaper than yellow soap for general work. It floats.

NEW BASEBALL MAGNATES NAMED

St. Louis Capitalists Are Behind New American League Club.

KILLILEA TO BE PRESIDENT.

Manager Selee Declares He Was Sorry To Leave Soden, of the Bostons.

HE MAY MANAGE CHICAGO.

A SPECIAL from St. Louis says: The capital in the new St. Louis Baseball Club of the American League, it is reported, will be principally controlled by St. Louisans. Those who are back of the new "browns" are said to be Gussie Busch, Zach Tinker and George Heckel.

Both Heckel and Tinker were interested in the baseball deal two years ago, but the project fell through. Messrs. Busch and Tinker will hold the greater interest in the club. The rest of the capital will come from Chicago and Milwaukee. Fifty thousand dollars will be raised in St. Louis. The capital stock will be about $75,000.

The organization of the club contemplates the election of Mat Killilea, of Milwaukee, as president; Zach Tinker, of St. Louis, as treasurer, and George Heckel secretary. At least this is said to be the scheme at present. Russell Gardner is said to be connected with the deal, but this Mr. Gardner denied.

Other parties interested would not discuss the story. The business details of the club will be run by Killilea, and the playing management will be under Jimmy McAleer. It is said that offices will be opened here in February.

Manager Frank Selee closed his connection Tuesday with the Boston Club, of the National League, after twelve years' service, says a special from Boston. Mr. Selee called on President Soden to say that he was perfectly satisfied with the head of the club and to add that he thought the change best for all. President Soden is a cool-headed business man, and was never known to display any real sentiment, but he was more than pleased to find his old manager feeling kindly toward him.

"Mr. Soden has always been a fine loser," said Selee, "while I cannot say as much for the other directors. I am sure I can do better away from Boston in a financial way," said Selee, "and have not made up my mind as to where I may go, although I have several good offers and have lines out to buy a minor league club."

Selee mentioned Buffalo as one of the cities where he might put his money into a franchise.

Speaking of his connection with ball players, he said he never had trouble with any man, and the only ones that had not seen fit to act fairly were Hamilton and Tenney. The former Selee called down for playing lobster ball during the middle of the season, and was never forgotten for the same. As to Tenney, Selee was the man who brought him out and really made him what he is in baseball. Selee said that Tenney was positively the limit for knocking, and selfish beyond measure.

"Herman Long," said Selee, "made a fine success as captain of the team, and was the most valuable man ever connected with the club. Others shirked their work and often laid off for weeks at a time, but Long was always in the game and earned all the money the club ever gave him."

"I am glad that Herman remained with Mr. Soden," said Frank, "as he likes Boston and has been a success as a captain."

Selee estimated the loss of the Boston Club for the season at $25,000. He also added that he could not see where things could be any better next season at the South End Grounds.

"The Boston Club charged the players for the ball shoes they wore this season for the first time," said Selee. "Rather poor judgment when they wanted to sign their men."

Says the Chicago Inter Ocean: "Boston papers have it that Frank Selee, for eleven years the manager of the bean-consumers, has decided to accept an offer from James A. Hart for 1902. If this is correct, a tip given in the Inter Ocean exclusively about a week ago is verified to the letter. It was said at the time when the story was given out that Hart liked Selee and was anxious to give him a chance. If Tom Loftus did not take the job for 1902, it was further figured, Selee would be the one man whom Jim Hart would like to have in his employ.

"Frank Selee will come here next year if Tom Loftus doesn't. That much seems assured, and the idea of Ned Hanlon bringing his Brooklyns here may now be laid on the shelf. Selee is an ideal manager, of good habits, and popular with his men. He went to Boston from the West in 1890, and in twelve seasons has never had a team at or near the bottom. His Bostons finished third in 1890, first in 1891, first in 1892, first in 1893, then ranged second or third in 1894, 1895 and 1896. They came first again in 1897 and 1898, and have done well ever since, falling to fifth this season simply because the best men had been seized by the American League.

"Selee's record, therefore, is equaled by but one man in the National—Ned Hanlon—and by but one manager in the American—Comiskey. He would assuredly brace up the team, while his judgment of young players would result in some valuable additions to the force. Andy Freedman has been after him, but Selee, like all other men, would rather play in Chicago a hundred times than with the stern-browed Andrew."

National Team a Winner.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18.—An exhibition game of baseball was played this afternoon by picked nines from the National and American Leagues, the former winning by a score of 10 to 7.

DENMAN THOMPSON WINS BY A NECK

ARGREGOR BEATS ST. MARCOS.

Fight It Out Through the Stretch With Six Shooter Coming Like a Wild Horse.

MONEY MUSS WINS AGAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—In one of the most desperate finishes imaginable Denman Thompson won the special four-cornered match at Worth to-day, with only a neck to spare over Argregor, who put his head in front of St. Marcos in the final stride. Less than a length away was Six Shooter, coming like a wild horse.

Denman Thompson was the extreme outsider in the betting, being as good as 9 to 1 and closing at 8 to 1. St. Marcos was always the favorite and heavily backed. He opened at even money, was pounded down to 4 to 5, then went back to 11 to 10, and another rush forced him back to even money. Then there came a terrific rush on Argregor that drove his odds from 3 to 1 down to 5 to 2. From a perfect start St. Marcos and Argregor alternated in setting the pace, until the far turn was reached, when Denman Thompson put in his claim, and through the stretch the three horses raced neck and neck.

Prince Blazes won the second event at one and one-sixteenth miles, beating Miss Liza in a hard drive. Money Muss won from Sevoy and Gonfalon at six furlongs in the third, showing himself to be one of the best sprinters in the West.

The track was fast, and the largest crowd of the meeting was on hand. Summaries:

First Race—Five and a half furlongs: Little Scout, 103 (Coburn), 9 to 1, won; Throstle, 94 (Hicks), 10 to 1, second; Rag Tag, 104 (McInerney), 25 to 1, third. Time, 1:07 3-5. Pyrrho, Lawrence M., Dandola, Marcos, Lysbeth, Irma's Choice, Digby Bell, Bert Sargent and Silk Cord also ran.

Second Race—One mile and a sixteenth: Prince Blazes, 97 (Jackson), 5 to 2, won; Miss Liza, 92 (Meade), 8 to 1, second; El Ghor, 96½ (Doss), 13 to 2, third. Time, 1:49 3-5. Moroni, Helen Paxton, Joe Gammage, Fantasy, Canova, King Bermuda and Refugee also ran.

Third Race—Six furlongs: Money Muss, 114 (Dominick), 8 to 5, won; Sevoy, 107 (Robertson), 2 to 1, second; Gonfalon, 117 (Coburn), 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:14 1-5. Bummer, Georgie, Lyror Bell and Von Zollern also ran.

Fourth Race—One mile and a sixteenth: Worth Fall Special: Denman Thompson, 109 (Blake), 8 to 1, won; Argregor, 112 (Winkfield), 5 to 2, second; St. Marcos, 112 (Coburn), even, third. Time, 1:48 4-5. Six Shooter also ran.

Fifth Race—One mile and an eighth: Hermencia, 102 (Coburn), 5 to 1, won; MacGyle, 102 (T. Knight), 4 to 1, second; Jessie Jarboe, 102 (Gormley), 11 to 2, third. Time, 1:53 3-5. Orontas also ran.

Sixth Race—Seven furlongs: B. G. Fox, 108 (——), 6 to 1, won; Oliver Mc., 103 (Dominick), 12 to 1, second; Andes, 106 (Otis), ——, third. Time, 1:29. Ecome, Henry of Franstamar, Whangdoodle, Prairie Dog, Domadge, Latch Key, Synia and Sam Lazarus, Esq., also ran.

LUNAR BEATS WAX TAPER.

Mark Gumbert's Mare Gets the Verdict By a Nod At St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—Mark Gumbert's game mare, Lunar, beat the once-great Wax Taper a nose on the post in the feature event at the Fair Grounds to-day, in one of the most exciting finishes ever seen in St. Louis. Lunar was a slight favorite over Wax Taper and Peaceful. The mare and Wax Taper hooked up at the last eighth pole, and from there to the finish line it was a battle royal, Lunar winning by the nod. Hilee, the prohibitive favorite on the second event, showed a remarkable reversal of form from his last out, Orleans, an ordinary selling plater and the longest shot to win to-day, taking his measure easily. Three favorites, two second choices and one outsider won. Track good. Summary:

First Race—Five and one-half furlongs; selling: Ed L. 114 (Fauntleroy), 16 to 5, won; Tenney Belle, 109 (Bell), 4 to 1, second; Sam Lazarus, 114 (Beauchamp), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:09. Deveric, Staff, Lynch, Randazzo, Spinel, Quaker, Northumberland, Sinfi, Alea and Horseshoe Tobacco also ran.

Keene Sells More Geldings.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Algernon Daingerfield has purchased of Jas. R. Keene another lot of yearling thoroughbreds, including a chestnut colt by Handspring, dam Honey Dew; a bay and a brown filly by St. Leonards, out of Belfield and Mere Hill, respectively, and a chestnut colt by Kingston, out of Sylvan Bell. The terms were private.

The Results At Newmarket.

London, Oct. 18.—Lord Harewood's Minstead won the Middle Park Plate, the blue-ribbon of the two-year-olds, at Newmarket to-day. R. Forrest Tod's Czardas was second and J. Gubbin's Port Blair, ridden by "Clem" Jenkins, came third. Crown Equerry, ridden by Jenkins, won a mile selling stakes, distance one mile and eleven yards.

The Automobile Tournament.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 18.—There was a small attendance to-day at the opening automobile tournament. The weather was unfavorable. Owing to the failure of several machines in the road race to reach here in time, the programme was rearranged, several special contests taking the place of the regular events. Results:

Ten miles; gasoline vehicles; weight unlimited: E. E. Shaw, Chicago, won. Time, 27:22. Robert Shaw, Chicago, second.

One half mile; steam carriages: W. J. Eldredge, Chicago, automobile, first. Time, 1:00. Charles H. Tucker, Chicago, second; Dr. Frank Davis, Chicago, third.

Five miles; steam racing carriages; American locomobile handicaped one and a half minutes: C. H. Tucker, Chicago, first. Time, 11:29. Dr. Frank Davis, Chicago, second; H. M. Brinkerhoff, Chicago, third. Handicaped machine disabled.

Owensboro Gun Club.

Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Owensboro Gun Club will give two all-day shoots at the grounds of the Daviess County Gun Club November 6 and 7. Two silver loving cups will be contested for.

THE REFEREE IS SELECTED.

Harry Corbett To Officiate At the Jeffries-Ruhlin Bout, November 15.

HARRY CORBETT.

HARRY CORBETT, the elder brother of the ex-champion, will be the referee of the coming championship contest between Jim Jeffries and Gus Ruhlin. It will be held at Mechanics' Pavilion, San Francisco, November 15.

These matters were decided on at a meeting held at 'Frisco by the managers of the boxers. Billy Madden represented Ruhlin, and Billy Delaney acted in a similar capacity for Jeffries. Delaney suggested the name of Jack Welsh and Ned Homan. He said either would suit him, but he did not insist that either should be selected.

Madden suggested Harry Corbett, and Delaney finally remarked that he was satisfied with the ex-champion's brother. Delaney added by way of explanation that he had been told Jim Corbet had made the remark he would like to see Ruhlin win from Jeffries. It also was said that Harry might favor Ruhlin on account of Jim's desire to see him win.

Madden and Harry Corbett said they did not think Jim cared who won, and that he had not made the remarks attributed to him. Delaney agreed with Madden and Harry Corbett. Then the date of the fight was arranged.

Harry Corbet is known as one of the squarest sports on the Pacific slope. The principal match in which he acted as referee was that between Terry McGovern and Herrera.

HARD GAMES FOR THIS AFTERNOON.

Y. M. C. A. Eleven Expects To Make Good Showing Against K. U.

LOOK FOR A HARD BATTLE.

Manual Team Will Try Hard To Down the Mooney School Eleven of Franklin, Tenn.

K. M. I.'S TO GO TO FRANKFORT.

THE Y. M. C. A. football team will have its first game of the season this afternoon at League Park. Kentucky University will be the opposing eleven, and the prospects for a hard game are bright.

There is much more interest in the Y. M. C. A. team this year than ever before, and a large crowd will probably be on hand. The fight for the team at the start aroused all of the members of the association and also many of the followers of football in this city. There is plenty of material to pick from; in fact, a great deal more of good material than ever before for a team in this city, and the prospects for a good team are good, although the boys cannot be expected to play up to their true form this afternoon.

Both teams will be out for victory, and promise to fight for it from start to finish. The K. U. boys expect to win, for this would mean much for them in the campaign for the title of champions of Kentucky, and that they expect to win is shown by the reports from Lexington that the K. U. boys are betting the State College men two and three to one. The same sort of bets were made that Centre would turn the trick last year, but when this money hit Louisville there was a rush for it, and before the game started it was five to three the other way.

Roberts has been sending the team along at a fast clip, and the boys have been working steadily with him. Robbins has been doing light work at the place for the last two nights, and, while he is not in shape for fast work, he says he can take care of the job if called upon. Mechling, Vissman and Doerhoefer are doing some good work behind the line, but W. Wilson, O. Robbins and Lord can all make a good showing at either of the places. Pannenburg, who has been at end for the University of Louisville until that team disbanded, will probably be sent in at right end. Although a new man on the team he is playing fast ball. He knows the game, and was onto all of the plays before he had been working fifteen minutes. Ken Rodman will take care of the left end of the line, and Bridges, Swann, Farrar and Seaton will help out if needed. Rogers and Rob Vissman will look after the tackles, with Gossum to fill in if he is needed. Gossum is a new man to the game, but as a ground gainer has not failed against the big team a single time that he has been called on. Keim or Varble will be at center, and, although each of them weighs only 170 pounds, it is safe to say that center will be well looked after. Anyone who has been watching the practice of Clark and Abrahams as guards will not worry about these places. For two new men their play is surprising, and the way such big men move is something unusual. Altogether the team is in fair shape and ready for the fray, but hardly up to a bruising contest.

The K. U. boys will come in over the Southern road this morning. A letter received from Manager Jolly yesterday afternoon stated that all of his men were in good shape, and that they all felt confident of giving the Louisville team a good drubbing.

The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock. Menefee Wirgman will referee the contest, Sam English will act as linesman and Angus McDonald will hold the watch for the local boys. The Lexington officials have not as yet been announced. The halves will be twenty-five and twenty minutes, respectively.

The line-up will be as follows:

K. U.	Positions.	Y. M. C. A.
Thompson	Left end	Rodman
Woodward	Left tackle	R. Vissman
Young	Left guard	Abrahams
Miller	Center	Keim (or Varble)
Eldred	Right guard	Clark
Wilson	Right tackle	Rogers
Bishop	Right end	H. Robbins (or Pannenburg)
Stucky	Quarterback	Roberts
Price	Left halfback	Doerhoefer
H. Yancey	Right halfback	J. Vissman
W. Yancey	Fullback	Mechling

Georgetown To Play K. M. I.

The Georgetown College eleven and the Kentucky Military Institute team will line up at Spring Cove Park, at Frankfort, this afternoon, and a warm contest is promised.

Two weeks ago it was hard to scrape up any sort of a scrub team together, but after the way they handled K. U. last Saturday the candidates flocked out on the practice field, and for the past week there has been four teams out every afternoon. After beating K. U. they expect to have no trouble with the K. M. I. boys, but, although the latter team is light, it is composed of a set of fast, hard-playing youngsters, who work well together, and they may not win, but they will make the Scott county boys play some to win. Several changes have been made in the line-up of the K. M. I. team since last Saturday. Ewing takes F. Arterburn's place at right tackle; H. Wilson will probably be at quarter in place of Fairleigh, and Nelson and Freeman, who have been playing the guard, have exchanged places, and the boys have the "guards back" and several other new plays well developed. Thursday and Friday the men did their practice in private, and when it was over all of the boys were confident of making a good showing.

Frankfort is the former home of the K. M. I., and it is expected that a large crowd of Capital City society people and football rooters will be on hand to see the game. An invitation to attend the game has been extended Gov. Beckham and staff, and it is expected that they will attend in a body.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock, and the teams will line up as follows:

K. M. I.	Positions.	Georgetown.
Morgan	Left end	Dickey
Foreman	Left tackle	Sallee
Freeman	Left guard	Shropshire
Finley	Center	Harvin
Nelson	Right guard	Crawford
Ewing	Right tackle	Simpson
Buck	Right end	Levrings
H. Wilson or Fairleigh	Quarterback	Barum, Capt.
Ross	Right half	Howell
A. Wilson, Capt.	Fullback	Greathouse

A Fine Game Expected.

This afternoon the Manual Training High School football team will line up against the team of the Mooney School of Franklin, Tenn., and a fine game is assured to all who attend. These schools have met only once before, and the score—0 to 0—leaves in doubt which school can turn out the best team. The Manuals have been training for a month under the direction of Coach Davis, who coached the Manual team of 1899, which won the State championship. They meet daily at the new park of the High School-Manual, at Brook and Breckinridge streets, for practice, and they play with a vim which shows that they are heart and soul in the game. The team which will line up against Mooney has not yet been given out by Coach Davis, but it is safe to say that an aggregation will be sent in the field which will give Mooney a good fight.

The Mooney team is composed almost entirely of men who played on their team last year, and they have started out this year on as successful a season as last year. They have already won several games and come here in the best of condition. They are slightly heavier than the local boys, averaging 149 pounds to the Manuals 140 pounds, but the Louisville boys expect to make up in speed what they lack in weight, and they seem in a fair way to do this. The last hard practice of the team was taken last Thursday, and the boys did some fine work. They made a touchdown from the center of the field against twenty scrubs in one minute and another in fifty seconds. A gratifying feature of the practice was the entire absence of fumbling. The game will begin promptly at 3 o'clock at Brook and Breckinridge streets.

The line-up will probably be as follows:

Mooney.	Positions.	Manuals.
Barrett	Center	Caldwell
		Snyder, Caldwell
Byrne and Sneed	Guards	and Caye
		Beard, Cartwell
Muse and Lyons	Tackles	and Applegate
		McBride, Wilkins
Harris and		McCauley
Morris	Ends	Hughes, Matlock
		Hunter, Hancock
Newton (capt.)		Wilson,
and Love	Half backs	Sale and Clerget
Hamtilton	Fullback	Haynes and Joyce
Whitefield	Quarter	Tileston, Zubrod

High Schools Go To Indianapolis.

The High School eleven, accompanied by a band of rooters, will leave this morning for Indianapolis to play a game with the High School team of that city. Of this game the Indianapolis News says:

"The game between Shortridge and Louisville High Schools to-morrow will be the first of a series of games in a new football league which has been formed recently. This is the Indiana-Kentucky League, and is composed of the two local High Schools and the two Louisville High Schools. Arrangements have been made by which each of these schools will play the other, the one winning the most games being considered the champion. The compact extends over two years, and will in time be the means of settling the Indiana-Kentucky championship, which has been in doubt. In to-day's battle the Shortridge team will line up as follows:

Connor	Center
Dugan	Right guard
Hacker or Posey	Left guard
Gibbs	Right tackle
Masters	Left tackle
Ward Dean	Right end
Scott or D. Dean	Left end
Clark	Right halfback
Tolin or Holdson	Fullback
Merriwell	Quarterback

No Game At Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—The Minnesota-Grinnell football game to-morrow has been canceled on account of Gov. Pillsbury's death. Minnesota will stand to lose its $350 guarantee. The game can hardly be pulled off later, as there are no open dates.

RYAN HARD AT WORK.

Australian In Training For His Coming Bout With Root.

AUSTRALIAN JIM RYAN is losing no time getting himself in the best possible shape for his coming contest with Jack Root, of Chicago. Ryan realizes that he is going up against the hardest proposition in the country, and is preparing accordingly. Ryan and Root have come together twice, both contests going the limit. Good judges say that in their bout in Chicago Ryan should have had the decision. On their second meeting, here two years ago, Ryan was in a very bad fix, and was advised not to go in the ring, but he stood Root off for twenty rounds. Root remembered the punch Jimmy gave him in Chicago. Root was taking his count when the bell rang.

Ryan will do his indoor work at Schmitt's place, on Shelby and Rapp streets. The "Dixie Boy" will help him to get in shape. He also intends to add "Kid" Hubert to his training staff. The "Dixie Boy" has done considerable boxing with Root in Chicago. Ryan had a lively mix-up with the "Dixie Boy," and after the bout yesterday Ryan spoke in the highest terms of his sturdy sparring partner.

The manager of the Olympic Club is trying to arrange a ten-round preliminary between Bud Masters and the "Dixie Wonder."

To-morrow's Benefit Game.

To-morrow at 3 o'clock p. m., the Reccius Club will have its annual benefit game. All of the boys are well supplied with tickets, and will call on their friends. The Reccius Club is the champion semi-professional team of the city and State, and has held that title for the past five years. Sunday being the last game, Manager Reccius has arranged an attractive programme. Besides the ball game with the Greenville Club, he will have three foot-races between local sprinters, a walking match, a long-distance throwing contest, and Richter, Doup and Mayer in the acrobatic feats. Following is the line-up:

Reccius.	Positions.	Greenville.
Vetter	Catcher	Ramp
Vetter or Brown	Pitcher	McGill
Mayer	First base	Doup
Huiswitt or Smith	Sec. base	Fisher
Richter	Third base	Tilford
Beard	Shortstop	Evans
Blake	Left field	Dugan
Walters	Center field	Edwards
Newman	Right field	Jenkins

COL. COCHRAN IN SEVEN HEATS

Geers Pilots the Shadeland Onward Horse To Victory.

CHAIN SHOT GETS ANOTHER.

Prelatess Beats Hattie Smith In the Lexington Stake For Two-Year-Olds.

RED PRINCESS A WINNER.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The ninth day of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association saw the appearance in public for the first time this year of a very sensational two-year-old and a mile by her which takes the record for fillies in the Lexington Stakes. The brown daughter of Ponce de Leon was a much-touted good thing for the stake, and when nothing but Hattie Smith qualified against her no pools could be sold on the race. Her first time around was nothing more than a slow warming-up. In the second she was driven for a record and for both ends of the stake. Hattie Smith was never in the race from the time the word was given.

Prelatress was going very fast, coming from behind on the score, and immediately began to draw away. There was a laugh from the unsympathetic crowd as Hattie Smith fell back. The quarter had been turned in 33 seconds, a 2:12 clip. The pace was increased going to the half, and Rea was driving hard. When 1:05½ went up in the timing stand as the half was passed there were many "ahs" in the stand. The brown filly began to tire now, and the next quarter was trotted in 34¾ seconds. Through the stretch she sped, with Rea laying the whip on her shoulders, but she was very tired at the end. The mile in 2:15½ provoked cheers.

The unfinished 2:18 trot proved a surprise, for an unknown quantity came on and won. The judges removed Squires when the race was called and put Ed Geers up behind Col. Cochran. The result was certainly beneficial to the racing of the son of Shadeland, for he finished so close to Una Belle that the crowd thought he had won the fourth heat, which was the first to be trotted to-day. The next three heats went to Col. Cochran, and the talent received a decided throw-down on the result. Another change was made in the same race, for Gahagan was taken from the sulky and Benyon put up to drive Galbetor, but the new driver could make nothing more out of the erstwhile favorite.

The 2:10 trot found Chain Shot a decided favorite over his field, and he had no trouble in winning, although the first heat promised a great struggle. Toggles was leading at the head of the stretch and looked the winner at that point, but Chain Shot came on with a rare burst of speed and took Toggles off his feet at the eighth pole. The next two heats were easy for Chain Shot, with Janice the contender, as the first mile had taken the life out of Toggles. His driver (Clark) was much overweight, and on that account asked that McDowell be substituted for him in the third heat.

The 2:22 class proved a split-heat affair. Henrietta was the favorite in the overnight pooling, but the play on Red Princess was so strong before the first heat to-day that she was made the favorite, with the black mare second choice. David Harum was a hot tip, which some of the talent played. The first heat developed a hot finish between the favorite and David Harum, and it apparently took her life to win by a length. In the next two heats there was nothing to it but David Harum, and it looked like the good thing would go through, but Red Princess loomed up at the head of the stretch and there was a drive that brought the crowd to its feet cheering wildly. David Harum maintained the lead to near the finish, when Red Princess and Happy Jack came in a whirlwind finish and both beat out the tired David Harum. Summaries:

Pooling On To-day's Races.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The 2:17 pace, the Bluegrass Stakes for 2:19 trotters and the Kentucky Stakes for three-year-old trotters make up the card for to-morrow, the last day of racing at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association meeting. In the pace Cambria Maid sold favorite at $50; the field of Tommy Mc., Dora Delpha, Dan R., Carle M., Junius, Sagwa, Lucie May, Miss Leach, Dandy, General Agent, Miss Mark and Aggie brought $20.

In the Bluegrass Stakes May Allen brought $50, and the field of Dorothy Redmond, Baron Bell, Sally Simpson, Alice Carr and Yarrum, $30.

Hawthorne and Melton were the only entries for the Kentucky Stakes, and no pools were sold on the race.

Southern League Meeting To-day.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 18.—The annual meeting of the directors of the Southern Baseball League will be held here to-morrow and Sunday. The contest between Nashville and Little Rock for the championship pennant is to be decided at this meeting. The controversy has been spirited and acrimonious. The work of the year will be reviewed and all business closed up.

Plans for next year will be outlined. It is possible that the league will be composed of ten clubs next year, as Mobile and Montgomery are anxious to get in. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year. John B. Nicklin will be re-elected president without opposition.

"Young" Walcott Talks Some.

"Young" Walcott stated last night that he would not box Steve Crosby for less than a purse of $100, and that a match between him and Crosby was not on as yet. "Crosby has a good reputation here," said Walcott, "and a bout between us is worth $100. I will agree to meet any other boxer of his weight in the city a good deal cheaper, and am eager to box Steve for a $100 purse, divided any way to suit him. I can be found at 106 East Green street, where I have a nice gymnasium, and am training. I am open to meet any other lightweight in town cheaper than $100."

THREATEN TO RETALIATE IF CZOLGOSZ IS EXECUTED.

One Hundred Women In the United States To Be Killed If McKinley's Assassin Pays Death Penalty.

Detroit, Oct. 18.—The Free Press to-morrow will say:

"A surprising story was told in Detroit to-day by a prominent young society woman of Petoskey, Mich., who is visiting friends here, but who does not wish to be quoted. She says that since the condemnation of Czolgosz the wives of three of the most prominent citizens of that place have received anonymous letters, threatening them with assassination. The letters state that the recipient is one of 100 women throughout the United States selected to be killed in retaliation for the execution of the assassin of President McKinley.

"Mrs. H. O. Rose, one of the women who has been threatened, is the wife of one of the wealthiest real estate men of that part of Michigan; a second is the wife of Attorney Wachtell, and the third is the wife of Judge Newberry.

"The matter has been put in the hands of the Sheriff and is causing a great deal of excitement."

DEATH OF JOHN SAUTER.

Succumbs To Blood Poisoning At Seventy-four.

Mr. John Sauter died from blood-poisoning at his home, in Castlewood, early yesterday morning.

Mr. Sauter had been ill but a short time, his extreme age, seventy-four years, having much to do with his death.

The funeral will take place from the First German Evangelical church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Eastern cemetery.

Thieves Discovered At Work.

Thieves broke into the wholesale millinery store of Cannon & Byers, on Main street, between Fifth and Sixth, at 1:30 o'clock this morning. They made their entrance by breaking in one of the front glasses. They were discovered by the night watchman and forced to run before they could procure anything. They made good their escape.

To Give a Mask Ball.

The Knights of Rest Fishing Club will give its first mask ball of the season at Phoenix Hill Hall Monday night. A gold-headed cane will be awarded to the most popular candidate for public office.

Holmann—Lebus.

Cynthiana, Ky., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Lebus, the daughter of Mr. Lewis Lebus, of this city, and Mr. Claud Holmann, of Los Angeles, Cal., took place Thursday in Los Angeles. Miss Lebus resided with her parents here for a number of years, and was as popular as she was handsome. Her father, Mr. Lewis Lebus, is widely known as one of the wealthiest residents of this section, and spends much of his time in California, where he has large interests. The groom is a prominent real estate dealer in Los Angeles. The ceremony took place at the Lebus home in Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lebus, of Cynthiana, attended the wedding.

Goodnight—McIntyre.

Simpsonville, Ky., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The engagement is announced of Miss Angie McIntyre and Mr. Frank P. Goodknight, both of this place. The wedding will take place the latter part of December.

THE COMING RACE MEETING.

Manager Palmer Leases Stalls At Thompson Track—Dan Murray To Assist Him.

SAYS MANY HORSES WILL BE HERE

WALTER O. PARMER, who is to conduct a race meeting at the Douglas track, beginning Saturday, November 2, arrived in the city at noon yesterday from Nashville, rented 150 empty stalls at the Thompson trotting track, which is between Churchill Downs and Mr. Douglas' course, and left for Nashville at 9:25 last night. He will return here Monday or Tuesday to remain until after the meeting, if not longer.

"The announcement that we were to have a running meeting here this fall has been received with pleasure by horsemen in the South and West," said Mr. Parmer last night. "I have talked to a number of horsemen at Nashville and elsewhere, and have received at least half a hundred telegrams since I was last here, and every horseman heard from wants stable room for his animals.

"I expect so many horses at our meeting that I went out to the Thompson track this afternoon with Lum Simons and rented all the available stalls there, about 150. These will be in addition to the 300 already at Mr. Douglas' track, the 150 he is building and the 100 which I will build beginning next Monday. But from what I can hear our stable room will be taxed at that, for there will be between 600 and 1,000 horses here when the meeting opens. Horsemen from Newport and near Cincinnati have already contracted with me for over 100 stalls.

"Everything is in ship shape, and while I am not at liberty just at present to announce the officials of either the club or the meeting, I will state that Dan Murray, the well-known form sheet man, who is well known here in Louisville, as he is here during the meeting every spring, will act as assistant secretary. He has been with me on the Canadian circuit and is an exceptionally able man. Murray and I will do all the hard work. The other officials of the club and those who will officiate at the meeting will be decided on as soon as I return to the city next Monday or Tuesday.

"Regarding the prices of admission to the races I can only say that this matter has not been finally decided, though I am of the opinion that we will charge fifty cents per person during the fall meetings and $1 for admission to the spring meetings.

"We had a little conference this afternoon and decided that no purse would be for less than $250 and that the handicaps would range from $300 to $400 each.

"The people all through the South seem to feel that the meeting will be a big success and I am much encouraged. At any rate the horsemen will have a place to race and to earn a living. I will have some interesting news when I return."

Says the St. Louis Globe Democrat of the meeting: "The news that Walter Parmer had secured the Douglass track at Louisville, and would give a fall meeting, beginning November 2, was very well received by the horsemen at the Fair Grounds. The addition of this track strengthens the Turf Congress and will make the establishment of a Southern circuit comparatively easy, provided it is found necessary to build one up to fight the Western Jockey Club. The Turf Congress has all along been in a position to maintain itself independently of the Chicagoans, but its principal officers have been very desirous of peace on the general theory that warfare does no one any good. The Jockey Club has been willing to make peace at any time, so far as St. Louis is concerned, provided the St. Louisans would desert the horsemen who stood by them in the fight, which, of course, was impossible. Whether it is to be peace or war will probably be decided Monday next, but no one seems to be at all worried now as to what the Chicagoans may see fit to do."

CIGARS

The Winner

Gen. Lee one day asked Gen. Forrest, "Forrest, what is the secret of your success in so many battles, anyhow?"

"Getting thar fu'st with the mostest men, General."

Francis Marion 5-cent Cigars represent our effort to "get thar fu'st." We believe we've got "thar." We actually feel that these are the best 5-cent cigars sold. Hundreds of smokers think so, too. The cigar dealer who sells Francis Marions will sell more cigars. The cigar smoker who will smoke Francis Marions will get the best 5-cent smoke he ever smoked. All dealers sell 'em. Try one to-day.

BEER.

We Are Old Fogies.

We cannot and do not boast that we are experts in the modern methods of making beer.

We are making beer now by the old formulas we used 25 years ago. The process of making beer from corn and rice we know nothing about, and we are too old now to learn new tricks.

We use malt and hops, and while we don't make as much beer as we could easily produce by the modern methods, we have the satisfaction of knowing that the product we turn out is BEER and not slop—that it is the "purest and best made in this country."

We are proud of the fact that

ON THE OTHER SIDE.

Kaiser Admires the Biograph.

The German Emperor is an enthusiastic admirer of the biograph, and never wearies of the fascination of "moving pictures." He is always eager to grant facilities to biograph operators, and even sends them intimation of any forthcoming reviews or ceremonies at which he imagines they might wish to be present.

A Peculiar Appeal.

The sympathies of the generous Briton who visits a certain Italian cathedral are always roused (together with his senses of humor) by the following notice, which appears in a conspicuous position over an alms box, says Cassell's Saturday Journal: "Appele to Charitables. The Brothers, so-called, of Mercy ask slender arms for the Hospital. They harbour all kinds of diseases, and have no respect to religion."

Biblical Discovery.

The supposed audience chamber of Nebuchadnezzar is alleged to have been discovered by a German exploring commission which is now engaged in delving among the ruins of Babylon. The building measures 156 feet long by fifty-four feet wide. The wall-paintings and ornaments are well preserved and several clay tablets have been unearthed with Assyrian inscriptions, said to be psalms, and contracts. The excavations are being vigorously prosecuted.

NEW CASES.

Diphtheria Still Prevalent In New Albany.

OLD PEOPLE MARRY.

DR. AND MRS. HUTCHINSON TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY.

BOYS HANG COMPANION.

Two new cases of diphtheria were reported in New Albany last evening, making sixteen in all, but neither of these was of a nature to create any alarm, as both developed in families where the malady already existed and consequently there is no real spread of the disease. One is that of Mrs. Adolph Laden, who lives on Cherry street, and whose child died a few days ago, and the other is the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kobbe, Clark street, who have already two cases in the family, the last having been contracted from them. All the cases are being watched carefully by Dr. Weathers, secretary of the Board of Health, his associates, and all the other physicians of the city.

The sufferers are nearly all either convalescent or rapidly improving and the physicians hope to have the malady cleared out entirely within a few days. Dr. Weathers made a thorough investigation of the city yesterday and was gratified to find that the children were being kept off the streets, in compliance with the order of the Board of Health, showing that the utmost diligence is being used to assist in the efforts to eradicate the disease. Children under the age of fourteen years are not allowed under any circumstances to be on the streets, even if they should be accompanied by their parents and guardian, and they will be arrested if found off their own premises.

One death was reported yesterday morning, Bertram, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wolfe, who died of the disease at the home of his parents on the Vincennes road, a short distance north of the city. This makes the seventh death that has occurred since the malady originated six weeks ago. A case of this disease is reported on the River road, five miles west of the city.

Ante-Nuptial Contract.

Hardin Crandall and Mrs. Sarah F. Miller, well-known and prosperous people living in Georgetown township, eight miles west of New Albany, were granted marriage license yesterday by County Clerk Scott and the marriage is to be solemnized to-morrow evening in the Methodist church at Georgetown by the Rev. Mr. Jeffries.

Before making application for the license the pair called at the office of County Recorder Sappenfield, in New Albany, and filed for record with that official, an ante-nuptial contract, an unusual document in that city and very rarely recorded in Indiana. By the terms of the contract, if Mr. Crandall should die before his wife, she is to have all his property without reserve to hold until her death, or as long as she remains a widow. In case she dies or remarries, the property is to go to the other heirs of her husband in the same manner as if he remained single. The prospective groom is an old and wealthy resident of Floyd county, and the bride the widow of the late Jacob Miller, is a good looking woman, several years his junior.

Married Fifty Years.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Hutchinson, the venerable emeritus pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, New Albany, and his estimable wife will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage October 30 at their home on East Oak street, near Eleventh. The event will be the occasion of the home coming of all the children and grandchildren of the beloved old couple. They were married in the East and came to New Albany shortly after the ceremony. For nearly fifty years Dr. Hutchinson was the pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, and he retired only a few years ago on account of the infirmities of advanced age. He is now over eighty, but is still active mentally and physically beyond his age, and he gives promise of years of additional usefulness.

Robbed and Set Fire.

Early yesterday morning the frame house at State and Cherry streets, New Albany, occupied as a saloon by Victor Herb, was discovered to be on fire by Capt. Cannon, who turned in the alarm from box 7. The fire had so much of a start before it was discovered that when the firemen reached the place it was beyond their power to save much of the building. The loss on the house and contents is placed at $600, fully covered by insurance. The fire was thought to be of incendiary origin, as it was ascertained upon examination that the cash register had been broken open and its contents taken, and that a number of boxes of cigars had been carried off. It is supposed that the house was robbed first and then set fire to hide the robbery.

Nearly Hanged a Companion.

A gang of boys playing on West Fifth street, in New Albany, Thursday afternoon came near causing the death of one of their little companions, the six-year-old son of Adolph Meyer. The boys were playing at hanging and the Meyer lad declared that he was not afraid to make the attempt. A rope with a slipknot was passed around his neck and the other end was stretched tight to a tree, with the little fellow's feet resting tiptoed on a bucket, which was kicked out from under him. The boys shouted for help at once, and a man passing seized the suspended lad and cut the rope, but not before he was nearly choked to death.

NEW ALBANY.

—Dr. H. C. Utz, of Atlanta, Ind., is in the city visiting his brother, Judge Utz, and other relatives.

—Maj. Henry Romeyn, U. S. A., is visiting Judge and Mrs. John H. Stotsenburg, East Main, near Fourteenth street.

—The Rev. Hamilton A. Hymes, George W. Smith and John P. Bentley have returned from Madison, where they had been attending the annual Synod of the Presbyteries of Indiana.

—Mrs. Mary E. Swarens is seriously ill of neuralgia of the brain at her home on West Sixth street, and a number of her relatives from other cities have been summoned to her bedside.

—No Sunday-school sessions will be held in any of the churches of the city to-morrow morning on account of the prevalence of diphtheria, and in compliance with an order from the Board of Health.

—Miss Maud Orella Scott, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. L. H. Scott, is to be married at her home on North State street, November 14, to Elder B. F. Cato, the minister of the Christian church at Thorntown, Ind.

—Superintendent Bence, of the Poor Asylum, and Township Trustee Emery returned yesterday from South Bend, where they had been to attend the annual meeting of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

—Andrew Hutchens, who served in Company B, Twenty-third Indiana infantry, during the Civil War, and who is well known by the old soldiers of this city, died Thursday at his home in Portland, Ind. He was sixty-five years old.

—The case of the State against Peter Oldenburg, who is charged with perjury, was called in the Circuit Court yesterday morning, and was reassigned to October 24. Special Judge Marsh, who had been selected to try the case was unavoidably absent.

—The Rev. Sylvester D. Nokes, pastor of the Advent Christian church of the Silver Grove suburb, is at Mt. Moriah, Ind., attending the semi-annual conference of the Advent Christian churches of Southern Indiana. He delivered an address before the conference last night.

—Magistrate Richards fined Geo. Case, a farmer living four miles north of the city on the Green Valley road, $9.50 for assaulting his wife, a plea of guilty having been entered. Case stated that he and his wife were engaged in romping, the lamp was turned over and the woman was hit in the neck with a chair. Case and his wife have been married eighteen years.

—Oscar P. Meyer and Miss Cora A. Hammersmith were married Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammersmith, at their home on the Grant Line road, a short distance north of the city, by the Rev. Dr. Hurlstone, pastor of Trinity. They have gone to housekeeping in a handsomely furnished home at 903 East Eleventh street.

—Final settlement of the affairs of the defunct banks at English and Leavenworth was made at the first-mentioned place yesterday by Capt. C. A. Arnold, the receiver. The banks will pay over 90 per cent. of their indebtedness, in addition to the costs of the receivership, which is a fine showing and is most creditable to the business tact and ability of Capt. Arnold.

—In the Circuit Court yesterday, Victorine Renn was granted a decree of divorce from Conny Renn, on proof of failure to provide. Custody of their child was granted her, and she was awarded $300 alimony. She alleged in her complaint that since their marriage more than five years ago her husband had worked but five weeks, although of rugged health and with work offered him.

—William T. Miller filed a suit in the Circuit Court yesterday against the P., C., C. and St. L. Railroad Company, to recover damages in the sum of $7,000 for personal injuries. In his complaint he alleges that on account of negligence on the part of the employes of the company he was so badly injured while attempting to alight from a Dinkey train at East Ninth street, January 29, 1901, as to be permanently injured.

—The Elks' country fair, which is to be held at the Home the week beginning October 28, promises to be a great success in every particular. Contributions of all kinds to be disposed of at the store are coming in daily, and a sufficient quantity of nearly everything imaginable has already been received to insure a handsome sum of money. An active part is being taken in the affair by the women, and the success of the department under their charge is assured in advance.

—Capt. Fite has received from the War Department tombstones for the graves of the following soldiers: B. A. Spurrier, Company C, Indiana infantry; J. S. Reynolds, Company I, One Hundred and Seventeenth Indiana infantry; Henry Rollin, Company F, One Hundred and Seventeenth Indiana infantry; James Wilson, Company I, Twenty-first United States infantry; W. M. Allen, Company A, Eighty-first Indiana infantry; George Martin, Company K, Seventeenth Indiana infantry; W. D. Morris, Company F, One Hundred and Forty-fourth Indiana infantry; James McIntire, Company C, Twenty-third Indiana infantry; J. M. Brown, Thirty-fourth Kentucky infantry; N. Danihoo, Company G, Thirty-first Indiana infantry; Charles Cartwright, Company B, Third Indiana cavalry. These gravestones are furnished on a requisition made by Sanderson Post, G. A. R. They are at Capt. Fite's residence, 354 Vincennes street, and he requests those interested to call and get them.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

—J. L. Lawson, of Chicago, is in the city.

—Frank Andrews, of Cincinnati, is in the city.

—Harry Hamlen, of Akron, Ohio, is in the city.

—Borden's electric-light plant is nearly completed.

—Mrs. Reuben Dailey has returned from Cincinnati.

—Harvey Warren has taken another change, and is better.

—Mabel Stutevant died from membraneous croup at Lexington.

—Robert Smith died yesterday at Charlestown. He was fifty-two years old.

—Oscar Morris and Frank Johnson, of Charlestown, have enlisted in the regular army.

—By the provisions of J. P. Doubett's will the property is bequeathed to his widow.

—F. V. Holloway, a prominent Democrat of Bethlehem, is seriously ill from rheumatism.

—A flying timber struck W. J. Dolan over the eye at the Car Works, causing a painful injury.

—Jeffersonville Lodge of Elks bought 150 tickets for the New Albany Elks' Fair. A big crowd of Elks and their friends will be in attendance from this city.

—Edward Stauss has equipped a gymnasium at his hotel, and it is likely some of the boxers from the East will prepare themselves for bouts in Louisville at his place.

—F. Marion Snook and bride, who was Miss Ida Thickstun, have returned from their honeymoon in the East. After November 1 they will live three miles from Eminence.

—Louis Spencer Daniel will give an entertainment at Spieth's for the benefit of the Public Library Fund November 14. He will read selections from "Stringtown on the Pike" and other books.

—Dr. J. P. Hearst, who was at one time pastor of the Presbyterian church, has returned to Crown Point after a brief visit here. He had been in attendance at the Presbyterian synod at Hanover.

—Charles Cranford, a son of the Rev. Henry Cranford, and B. Dismore, a son of Samuel Dismore, have returned to Scottsburg from the Philippines. They had been serving as soldiers with Company H, Twenty-second infantry.

—Sheriff Rave delivered the following prisoners at the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City: Charles Smith, colored, incest; John Bardwell, colored, bigamy; John Carney, Harvey Friend, larceny. Each will serve from two to fourteen years.

—Dr. Frank Allhands, of Wingate, was married a few days ago to Miss Georgia Goodwin, of Sellersburg. At the same hour on the same day Dr. Allhands' brother, Prof. J. M. Allhands, was wedded at Green Hill, N. C., to Miss Jennie Rucker. An exchange of cards gave the parties the first intimation of each other's marriage.

—According to Dr. C. F. C. Hancock, diphtheria exists at John Piercy's house in Clarksville, and orders of Dr. W. H. Sheets, secretary of the County Board of Health, to display the usual warning are disregarded. The Piercys refuse to put up a card, and as soon as one is tacked up by an officer they are said to tear it down. The matter will be carried into court, Dr. Sheets says, if Mr. Piercy insists on ignoring the law.

—Thousands of railroad ties, which had been cut in West Virginia, were carried down the Ohio river some time ago by a freshet. People living on the river bank have been earning money by catching the floating timber. At Utica an eight-year-old son of Capt. Turner towed 301 ties to the bank, and when James Adams, a lumber buyer, came around he paid the child $24.08 for his work. This is at the rate of eight cents for each tie.

Mr. Chase Ill of Pneumonia.

Mr. Edwin H. Chase, Jr., of the firm of E. H. Chase & Co., is suffering from an attack of pneumonia at his home at Anchorage. Mr. Chase returned a few days ago from a trip East and was immediately taken ill. A trained nurse was called in yesterday.

Does Not Long Survive.

Three weeks ago Mrs. August Palmer, a young wife, was killed in a runaway accident at Jackson and Marshall streets. Yesterday morning her husband was found dead in his bed at 546 Second street. "Heart failure," said the Coroner.

Sunday-School Lesson

FOR OCTOBER 20.

JOSEPH EXALTED—Gen. xli., 38-49.

By Rev. J. E. Gilbert, D. D., Secretary American Society of Religious Education.

CONNECTION.—Pharaoh's butler, of whose dream we studied last week, was restored to office, but he forgot Joseph, who had interpreted the dream, and who therefore remained in prison. Two whole years passed, during which the young Hebrew performed his little round of duties. But God did not forget him. Then Pharaoh had a dream which troubled him, and he sought in vain to the wise men to know its meaning. It was then that the butler recalled the kindness and service of Joseph and mentioned him with special commendation to the King. Joseph was called into the presence of Pharaoh, and the dream was explained. The lean cattle seen in the vision represented a famine, and the fat cattle a time of plenty, and it was advised that during the good years officers should be engaged to gather up the surplus grain in storehouses to be preserved for the days of want. The members of the court were entirely satisfied with this explanation.

RECOGNITION. (Verses 38 and 39.)—It is not difficult to find men for the humbler stations of life, where little ability is required. Indeed, many strive for positions that may be easily filled. But when some delicate task is to be undertaken, demanding more talent, the selection of the person must be made with great care. Who shall supervise this industrial matter in Egypt so as to provide for the people? That question caused some discussion, and at length Joseph was recognized as the proper person for the place. The text shows that Pharaoh reached this conclusion after consulting with his advisers, and that afterward he made known the decision to Joseph. The basis of the choice was the young man's wisdom, which exceeded that of other men, and his superiority in this regard was plainly referred to one circumstance—"the spirit of God was in him." (Numb. xxvii., 18.) A heathen monarch thus recognized what is the burden of all Scripture—that the Divine in dwelling makes man truly great. (Job xxxii., 8.)

PROMOTION. (Verses 40 and 41.)—There is one advantage in an absolute monarchy—measures may be quickly executed. It was not necessary for Joseph to enter into a heated canvass as against some other candidate, resorting to various expedients to secure an election. As soon as the King's council determined his qualifications he was appointed. Probably an hour did not pass between the interpretation of the dream and the words that gave him position. Pharaoh spoke directly to him in terms that could not be misunderstood. He was set over all the land of Egypt, a kind of viceregent. (Dan. vi., 3.) He was also made the ruler of the King's house (Psalm cv., 21), and according to his word should the people be governed. There was to be no power above that of Joseph except the power of Pharaoh. The throne itself was not to be vacated, but the Hebrew was promoted to a place next to the throne. In a single day he went from the prison cell to the highest position in the gift of the sovereign.

HONOR (Verses 42 and 43.)—Every place of responsibility has its appurtenances, the proofs of the dignity and the instruments of usefulness of the occupant. These may not be denied without wronging him who holds the place. And so Joseph was duly invested with that which belonged to his exalted station. On his hand was placed the royal ring, used in sealing public documents. (Esther iii., 12.) He was arrayed in vestures of fine linen, the apparel of officers of high rank, and a gold chain, expressive of wealth, was hung about his neck (Dan. v., 29), as an adornment and distinction. The second chariot, the first being reserved for Pharaoh, was offered for his use. Indeed, all this was done at once. And as he went forth in this state from the palace couriers preceded him and cried "Bow the knee," and the populace humbled themselves as he passed. So was the young man honored, then but thirty years of age, all because God was with him to give him a sound mind.

AUTHORITY. (Verse 44.)—In the fortieth and forty-first verses the exalted position of Joseph is indicated, as ruler over all the land and people of Egypt. By implication that carried with it whatever authority was needed. Yet a more formal and direct statement was deemed to be appropriate, and here it is. He is invested with the most absolute control over the entire population, so that no man should lift a hand or foot in all the land without him. He is thus made the master of every soul. His law is supreme. His word is final and universal, from which there should be no appeal. The conveyance of this authority was in a most interesting and affecting way. "I am Pharaoh," said the King, declaring his sovereignty, and hence his unquestioned right to grant to whom he pleased the reins of government. He possessed in his own person, without division or dispute, what he transferred. He would have Joseph know the source from which the authority was derived.

MARRIAGE. (Verse 45.)—This wonderful elevation of Joseph really meant his entrance into the royal household, a remarkable occurrence, when it is remembered that the Egyptian foreign policy was marked by a hatred of the yellow and white races, as Herodotus shows. A transformation was therefore effected by two processes. A new name was given which signified "the revealer of secrets," an announcement of his chief characteristic as the ground for his promotion. That new name served the same end as circumcision among the Jews, who incorporated strangers by that act. (Ex. xii., 48.) Joseph also received an Egyptian wife, given to him by Pharaoh, the daughter of Potipherah, priest of On. The priest rank was esteemed the highest, as it was the caste to which the King himself belonged. The introduction of Joseph into those relations was doubly proper. By his natural gift and his work as an interpreter of dreams, as expressed in his new name, he was supposed to have intercourse with the supernatural, and by his new office he was to be related to the highest dignitaries.

ABUNDANCE. (Verses 46 and 47.)—Thus installed in his responsible office, Joseph visited all parts of the land. As Grand Vizier or Chief Minister of Pharaoh he went to execute those measures which in his judgment were necessary to the public welfare, knowing that after seven years the famine would come. He would naturally give instructions on all industrial, agricultural, domestic, financial and public matters, warning every one to make ready for the coming of distress, and whatever he said the people would obey. His presence would be an inspiration to all, and his words would be held as the embodiment of wisdom. And during all those years the earth yielded rich harvests. This was due in part to the improved methods by which the fields were cultivated, to the care exercised by the workers, to the frugality and industry on every hand, but more probably to the blessing of God. There can be no question that the Almighty sends at times His favor to reward the toil of men, so that the product is greater than otherwise it would be. (Deut. xxviii., 4.) At least such is His promise.

STORAGE.—(Verses 48 and 49.)—The yield of grain exceeded the need of the people, and the surplus was laid up for the coming years. Joseph caused storehouses to be erected in all the cities for this purpose, and of course overseers were appointed to care for them. Here the fifth part of the harvest was laid up, gathered from the region round about. Vast quantities, like the sand of the sea, were stored, so great that toward the end no account was kept of it. Never before or since has there been such treasure of provision by the Government of any people. The seven years during which this was done, like the years occupied by Noah in preparing for the flood (Gen. vi., 22), were eloquent of the faith of the Hebrew who superintended. It was a growing object lesson in political economy, in provident industry and in practical religion (Prov. xi., 6). For the first time in all her history, perhaps for the last time, the great nation of Northern Africa, the home of civilization, is preparing throughout her entire borders to meet the future as disclosed by a prophet of God.

CONCLUSION.—This fragment of ancient history contains important instruction on several points: 1. God cares for His children. He may for reasons known only to himself suffer them for a time to come under sure trial, but He never forgets them, and in His own way He brings them forth into places of usefulness. 2. Genuine worth will generally be recognized. He who has ability will be sought and found and employed and trusted. He who gets ready for a work will doubtless be called to that work. 3. The good man in every place should be a public servant and benefactor. He may indeed receive honors and emoluments. These will be gladly bestowed according to his station and merit. But more important is it that he should fill his place. To act one's part is the highest honor. 4. In the times of prosperity all should prepare for adversity. The years of plenty should be the time of ingathering and storing that there may be no lack in the times of famine. Foresight and economy added to industry will supply abundance for the days that lack and give rest to the toiler.

VALE OLD GRADE!

L. AND N. PLANNING NEW ROUTE AT BAKER'S HILL.

One of the Most Dangerous "Climbs" In the Country—Nashville People Worked Up.

The famous Baker's Hill grade on the Louisville and Nashville railroad, between Baker's Station and Ridge Top, this side of Nashville, may pass into history in a few months and become only a memory to engineers, firemen and brakemen of many hard, long pulls.

A surveying corps is now trying to get a route around the hill that will materially reduce the grade. Two surveys are being made. One leaves the present main stem at Baker's Station, passes around Ridge Top and unites with the line again at Hygeia. The other quits the main stem at Edgefield Junction and comes back at Springfield. Either route will throw several towns off the main line of the road. The watering places of Ridge Top and Hygeia would suffer—the first by the former route; the second by the latter. Nashville people interested in Ridge Top are very much worked up over the proposed change and are bringing what influence is possible to be left on the railroad's map.

Baker's Hill is known far and near as one of the most dangerous grades in the country, and the L. and N. has desired for some time to change its route so safer and more rapid service could be obtained. The grade is four miles long, with several curves. The steepest portion is over two and a half miles long, the maximum grade being 216 feet to the mile. When it is considered that the ideal grade is only 52.8 the "hard climb" for trains is apparent. It is necessary at all times to have one helper and sometimes two. On account of the curves the run down grade frequently requires two engines. The officials hope to get a grade of sixty-six feet to the mile by using either of the new routes, the surveys of which, however, are not yet complete.

Wants Car Line Extended.

Mayor Weaver has asked the Louisville Railway Company to extend its car lines out Von Borries avenue to the retreat of the Passionist Fathers. This order is preparing to erect a handsome monastery on its property on Von Borries avenue. The Fathers have made a similar request of the railway company.

DANFORTH—BOTTOM.

Mrs. Peachie W. Danforth, formerly Miss Peachie Bacon and well-known in Louisville society a few years ago, is to be married on October 30 to Mr. George Bottom, of Kansas City.

The wedding will take place at noon on the date mentioned at "Wheatland," the home of the bride-elect's cousin, Mr. John Hanly, four miles from Frankfort, where Mrs. Danforth has been visiting for some time.

Mr. Bottom is a former Kentuckian, having been born and reared at Perryville, in Boyle county. He is now a prominent produce commission merchant at Kansas City, with a large branch of his business at El Reno, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Danforth is a sister of Mr. Carey H. Bacon, of Wood, Bacon & Co. Her father was the late Byron Bacon.

The couple will go immediately after the ceremony to Kansas City.

Real Estate Transfers.

Reported by the Louisville Title Company yesterday:

Rebecca A. Waddell, widow, to Minnie N. Caldwell, 20x105 feet, west side Fifth street, 104 feet south of Market, $15,500 cash.

George Vogt and wife to Henry J. Thiemann, lot 1, block 21, Oakdale addition, $290 cash.

Edward F. Meizner and wife to John A. Armstrong, 36x168 feet, south side Ash street, 90 feet west of Hickory, $330 cash.

Anton Hauber and wife, etc., to Daniel F. Reidhar, 30x198 feet, south side Rudd avenue, 126½ feet east of Thirty-second street; also interest in 1¼x198 feet, south side Rudd avenue, 156½ feet east of Thirty-second street, $300 cash.

Catherine Fouse, widow, to Elizabeth A. Williams, wife of William A., 30x150 feet, southeast corner Fourth and O streets, $1,000 cash.

THE CHARM.

Woodson Sentenced Third Time Up.

LODGEN GOES TO JAIL.

J. R. MILBY ON TRIAL AGAIN IN FEDERAL COURT.

NUGENT GIVES NEW BOND.

Richard Woodson, of Clinton county, appeared for the third time in the Federal Court yesterday morning to stand his third trial in three terms for retailing whisky without the sanction of the Government. It seems that Woodson attended a Baptist revival in Clinton county, and though the spirit moved him, it was the spirit contained in a quart bottle of moonshine, which he emptied at five cents a swig, thereby adding to his worldly possessions and encouraging worldliness on the part of those seeking higher things.

Woodson admitted on the stand that he had been twice before presented in court during Attorney Hill's term, but held out stoutly that he had, on both occasions, escaped conviction. But the explanation proved a poor defense, as it was shown that Woodson had escaped sentence by pleading guilty. The first time Woodson promised to reform and was allowed to go home. Again he came up for trial, pleaded guilty, and again was allowed to go home. The second time the officers furnished the money with which to make the trip. Woodson repaid this by selling the clothes furnished him by the Government and using the proceeds to secure more whisky.

This time Woodson's visit home will be delayed six months, which he will spend in the Louisville jail. He was also fined $500.

The jury in the case of Reverdy Arnold, of Monroe county, charged with retailing liquor without a license, brought in a verdict of guilty. He was given thirty days in jail and a fine of $100.

J. H. Smith, of Monroe county, charged with breaking into a bonded warehouse, was declared not guilty. Smith claimed that the prosecution had been instituted by his enemies.

Ed. Lodgen, the notorious old moonshiner, with a record of thirty years of law-breaking and the deaths of three or four men to his credit, pleaded guilty in the Federal Court yesterday morning to the charge of making whisky without a Government license, and was fined $500 and sentenced to eight months in jail. Lodgen recently claimed that his ancestors were all Kings, Dukes or Emperors.

In the case of Leo Melton, of Nelson county, charged with retailing liquor without a license, Judge Evans gave peremptory instructions for the defendant.

The jury found William Smith, of Cumberland county, not guilty of retailing whisky without a license.

The greater part of the afternoon session was taken up with the trial of J. R. Milby, of Milby, accused of using the United States mails to sell bills that would pass for real currency at prices greatly below what their face value purported to be. The case has been pending in the courts for several years, a recent reversal by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals causing Milby to be reindicted, the first indictment having been held insufficient. The most important witness was J. R. Stites, the postmaster at Portland, Ore., to whom Milby sent the bills. The case will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning.

The case of W. T. Nugent, charged with violation of the bankruptcy laws, was passed yesterday in the Federal Court until the next term, because the defendant was not ready. Nugent gave a new bond for $3,000, his sister, Miss Catherine Nugent, and other members of his family going on the bond.

YOUNG SOLDIER DEAD.

Joseph Wrockledge, Who Served With First Kentucky.

Joseph Wrockledge, who served through the Spanish-American War with the First Kentucky and was First Lieutenant of Company D under the organization, died Thursday morning at his home near the city. His health was undermined by his army service and he has traveled all over the country hoping to have his health restored. He was buried yesterday morning from the home of his brother, Harry Wrockledge, 1906 West Chestnut street. The burial was in St. Michael's cemetery.

Wrockledge was one of the best-known soldiers in the Legion and was a favorite with both officers and men.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The two divisions of the Boys' Bible class will begin work this morning at 9 o'clock. Every Saturday morning hereafter the Boys' Bible class will be held from 9 to 9:45. Both divisions will take up illustrated outline studies.

This afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock the Rev. Edw. L. Warren will conduct the Sunday-school normal class for the preparation of the lesson for the following day. All persons interested in the study of the Sunday-school Lesson, whether teachers or older students, are invited to be present.

To-morrow afternoon the Rev. Chester Birch, of St. Louis, will inaugurate a series of eight services to be held at Music Hall, the service to begin at 3 o'clock. Mr. Birch will speak every night in Music Hall at 7:30 o'clock. All the meetings are for men only.

George Baker Missing.

George Baker, an usher at the Masonic Temple Theater, has disappeared and no one can tell where he has gone. Young Baker was last seen Monday evening when he left his home, at 1112 East Washington street. His mother is now ill from anxiety. His father, James E. Baker, reported his son's disappearance to the police. The young fellow is twenty-two years old.

Public Reception.

The Louisville and Nashville R. R. Company will place on public exhibition Saturday, October 19, in the Union Station, Tenth and Broadway, one of its new dining cars. The car will be open for inspection from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. All are cordially invited.

VOLUME

Of Business Expected To Break All Records.

UNFAVORABLE SIGNS RARE.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES EXCEPTIONALLY ACTIVE.

SPECULATION IS QUIET.

New York, Oct. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, to be issued to-morrow, will say:

Unfavorable signs are rare in the business outlook. Manufacturing industries enjoy exceptional activity and most jobbers and retailers find no occasion for complaint. Mild weather is the one influence that may be charged with retarding retail merchandise distribution, yet there is general confidence that any sales thus postponed will be made up later. The same influence is invaluable in facilitating the handling of crops, erecting buildings and other outdoor work. Although a fifth of the year is still to be heard from, including the usual interruption of election and possible disturbance of legislation, there is ample evidence that the volume of legitimate business will largely exceed all previous records. Speculation is comparatively quiet both in securities and option on leading products, which emphasizes the activity in trade channels as shown by bank exchanges for the week at New York. They are 33 per cent. larger than last year and 8.4 above 1899, while at other leading cities the gains were 16.3 and 9.1 per cent. respectively.

Strength without inflation still summarizes the iron and steel situation. Despite two months of interruption by the strike, evidence accumulates that the year will surpass all records in production of finished material and consequently in consumption of ore and pig iron. Orders already booked for delivery far into 1902 promise that next year will bring still higher records, and the steadiness of prices makes the outlook especially favorable. Mills as a rule have practically closed contracts for all the orders that can be filled this year, and future developments can only affect conditions in 1902 as to finished steel. Heavy orders are recorded for rails, with a free movement of structural material, while wire and wire nails go abroad in large quantities. Pig iron is hardening under the vigorous demand, forge and Southern foundry securing definite advances and Bessemer in Pittsburg is firm at $16. Tin plates are almost restored to normal prices. Since domestic mills have resumed and imports ceased the London market has declined sharply. Copper rose in the face of reports that a large reduction in list price was contemplated by leading producers to reduce stocks.

Footwear factories still have many weeks' full employment on heavy weight goods for winter. Supplementary orders for seasonable lines still arrive from Eastern jobbers. Prices are not quotably higher, though the rapid rise of leather and hides has taken so much of the profit that shoes must soon deteriorate in quality if better quotations are not forthcoming. Leather has begun to exhibit symptoms of speculation, but buying by the leading manufacturers for actual consumption also reaches a large total.

Cottons move freely, with prices well sustained for all lines and definite advances in bleached goods. Woolen goods are more quiet, yet shipments of over five million pounds of wool weekly from Boston indicate no decrease in activity of mills.

Fluctuations in cereals were small, with markets dull and featureless. Corn receded a little further, influenced unfavorably by the insignificant shipments from Atlantic ports of only 501,5555 bushels for the week, compared with 2,799,377 last year and 4,747,258 in 1899.

Wheat lost a little of the early gain, although declining prices a year ago makes the difference smaller than it has been at any time this crop year. Foreign buying of flour is still unsatisfactory, but the outgo of wheat is heavy. For the week United States exports (flour included) amounted to 4,591,053 bushels, compared with 3,646,751 last year and 4,255,766 two years ago. Western receipts of 5,903,614 bushels, against 7,426,651 last week and 7,126,419 a year ago, indicate that the new crop is being marketed less freely, growers holding back in expectation of better prices, despite the estimate of foreign authorities that the world's yield will exceed 2,700,000,000 bushels, and unofficial predictions of a domestic crop of more than 750,000,000 bushels.

Failures for the week number 229 in the United States, against 209 a year ago, and 23 in Canada, against 26 last year.

BRADSTREET'S

Review of the Commercial Situation.

New York, Oct. 18.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:

Among the notable features brought out in trade dispatches this week are the reports of stimulated retail trade, due to cooler, settled weather and advices of continued activity in all leading industrial lines, notably iron and steel, shoe and leather, coal, lumber, jewelry and cotton and woolen goods. The shipments of products of these industries and of groceries to consuming sections continue heavy and are accompanied by reports of delays due to the scarcity of cars. Another one of those slight upward swings in prices of staples so numerous of late has also occurred, by which the general level of cereals, raw cotton, dairy products and lake copper has been raised. Clearings have expanded because of an extension of interest in the security markets, but also because of continued good collections, which in turn have induced rather more ease in money rates at leading markets. Advices from the South are still of a backward cotton crop movement, hampering full demand and collections, but even here there has been an improvement noted this week.

Iron and steel consumption continued fully equal, and in some cases in excess, of production. Features this week have been the sale by merchant furnaces in the Pittsburg district of 75,000 tons of Bessemer pig iron to leading interests at from $16.25 to $15.50 per ton at valley furnaces. Steel billets have continued scarce and are practically unobtainable for prompt delivery, though $27 and $28 per ton is offered against the nominal quotation of $26 for distant delivery. Pig iron stocks in the Central West are said to not exceed one week's supply. Orders for fully one million tons of rails for next year's delivery have been booked, although the principal consuming interest has not yet apportioned its business, which is expected to exceed 185,000 tons. Plates, bars and sheets and structural material are all active, but iron bars are reported easier. Tin plate mills are catching up with their orders and a cut is reported in the price of wire nails. Railroads are in the market for cars and one Western system has bought 2,000 this week. Export business in iron and steel is not promising.

Cooler weather and fear of frosts, coupled with good reports from the print cloth industry, have stimulated raw cotton, and this in turn is reflected in higher quotations for nearly all leading bleached cottons. The conviction seems to be growing that the cotton crop this year will not be as large as hoped for, and estimates by leading authorities point to all available present and possible future supplies being needed. Woolen goods are rather quiet as regards new demand, but the mills are busy on heavy weights, and when these are out of the way a large volume of orders for spring weights guarantees continued activity. Wool is steady and firm with a large consumption progressing.

The cereal markets were rather apathetic early this week. Reduced speculative interest and liquidation, caused by larger receipts in the Northwest, weakened prices early. Decrease in these receipts and smaller Argentine shipments and poor crop reports brought about a rather firmer feeling later, by which the early loss was regained and a slight advance registered on the week. All estimates agree that the world's wheat supply will be larger than a year ago, the increase being here and in Canada and the decrease in Europe. But against this is to be cited the fact that the rye, corn and oats yields, not to mention other food stuffs, are smaller this year than for some years past.

Wheat (including flour) exports for the week aggregate 5,536,073 bushels, as against 4,719,898 last week and 3,756,844 in this week last year. Wheat exports from July 1 to date (fourteen weeks) aggregated 93,104,251 bushels, as against 54,354,891 last season.

Corn exports aggregate 640,000 bushels, as against 678,200 last week and 2,536,993 last year. From July 1 to date corn exports are 14,945,100 bushels, as against 48,889,900 last season.

Eastern shipments are 24 per cent larger for the week and 18 per cent. higher for the season than they were a year ago.

Failures in the United States for this week number 198, as against 183 last week, 223 this week a year ago, 221 in 1899 and 213 in 1898. Canadian failures for the week number 29, as against 35 last week, 22 in this week a year ago, 20 in 1899, 24 in 1898 and 48 in 1897.

BUSINESS OF THE BANKS.

Increase of 14.4 Per Cent. Shown In the Clearings In Louisville.

Boston Wool.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The Commercial Bulletin will say in to-morrow's report on the wool trade of the United States:

"Wool has sold steadily this week, but is not generally active. Mills are taking such supplies as they need, and as consumption is larger this means that there is a good deal selling. Some dealers catch more trade than others. A few big sales have been made on the quiet. Buyers for the four largest consumers have been on the market. Prices show no change and are firm, with a hardening tendency, particularly on the finer grades. The Melbourne market opened on the 16th. Prices were equal to last season's average rates. Good wools will not be offered in quantity for a fortnight. The receipts of wool in Boston since January 1 have been 235,352,789 pounds, against 146,794,615 for the same period in 1900. The Boston shipments to date are 204,206,582 pounds, against sales of 114,221,000 for the same period in 1900. The stock on hand in Boston January 1, 1901, was 76,309,500 pounds. The total stock to-day is 97,454,737 pounds."

Manchester Dry Goods.

Manchester, Oct. 18.—Cloths quiet, with a moderate inquiry. Yarns quiet and unchanged.

Bacon—Short clear quiet at 48s 6d; long clear middles, light firm at 49s 6d; do heavy firm at 49s; short clear backs firm at 46s 6d; clear bellies firm at 56s. Shoulders—Square firm at 47s 6d. Hops at London (Pacific coast) steady at £3 5s@£3 15s. Receipts of wheat during the past three days 144,000 centals, including 62,000 American; receipts of American corn during the past three days 19,500 centals. Weather dull.

FORMER GOV. PILSBURY DEAD.

One of the Best-Known Men In Minnesota Dies After a Brief Illness.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—John S. Pillsbury, former Governor of Minnesota, and one of the State's foremost citizens, died early to-day of Bright's disease. His illness was comparatively brief, owing to his advanced age. He was over seventy-three years old.

He was a member of the famous family of flour millers and in spite of numerous benefactions leaves a large fortune. He served three terms as Governor, from 1876 to 1882. He was always the friend and benefactor of the University of Minnesota, to which he gave its $150,000 Science Hall and on whose campus its alumni erected to him a fine bronze statue. He has long been a member of the Board of Regents, having been named a life member. He also presented to his native town of Sutton, N. H., a town hall in memory of his parents. With his wife he established an endowment fund of $100,000 for a home in this city for children and aged women. Last year he built here a home for working girls at a cost of $25,000, and this year he gave $75,000 for a public library on the East Side. He has been a resident of Minneapolis since 1853.

OHIO MAN TORTURED BY MASKED ROBBERS.

His Family Bound and Gagged and He Is Forced To Give Up the Keys To His Store.

New Lexington, O., Oct. 18.—Six masked men entered the residence of Charles Tague, at McLuney, this county, and, at the point of revolvers, bound and gagged the whole family. They required Mr. Tague to go into the yard with them, where they relieved him of his watch and a considerable sum of money. The keys to his store were then demanded, but he refused to give them up. His shoes were removed and his feet roasted with matches and hot irons until he gave up his keys. The bandits then entered the store, which they looted entirely. Taking their victim's horse and buggy, they loaded in a quantity of goods, the contents of the safe, other booty, and drove off. There was considerable delay in sounding the alarm and they got a big start of the Sheriff, who is now in pursuit. The buggy has been located and bloodhounds are on the trail of the men.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MONETARY.

Friday Evening, Oct. 18.—While there was a heavy demand for money with some institutions, others reported a quieter market and an increase in deposits. Banks with out-of-town correspondents are receiving a good deal of paper, which is taken at 6 per cent. when it is taken at all. The ruling rate is 6 per cent., though demand loans are occasionally taken at 5. New York exchange was weaker and quoted at 25c discount to par, but the only sales reported were at par. Counter business was fairly good, but clearings were light.

The Clearing-house report to-day was as follows:

Day's clearing $1,387,109
Balance 236,799

There has yet been no revival of speculative demand for local securities and the investment buyers are looking for bargains and getting a few. Still, there is a moderate amount of trading in bonds and the better class of stocks. Gas was in some request at 108¼, at which one small lot was sold, with more offered at 108½. Bank and trust company stocks continue in request and 25 shares of Third National sold to-day at 116¼, the highest price yet reported. Following were the sales:

$4,000 United Railways 4s *89¾
$5,000 Southern Railway Air Line 4s 99¼
$1,000 Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s 107
$1,500 L., H. and St. L. 5s *110

The Columbus Railway Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the preferred stock, payable to stockholders of record October 16.

Railroad earnings were reported to-day as follows:

Hocking Valley, second week in October, increase $8,820; from July 1, increase $193,012.

Toledo, St. Louis and Western, second week in October, increase $10,724; from January 1, increase $626,135.

Texas Pacific, second week in October, increase $212; from January 1, increase $1,886,606.

Chicago Great Western, second week in October, decrease $2,326; from July 1, increase $223,190.

Missouri Pacific, second week in October, increase $13,000; from January 1, increase $3,533,674; net for month of August, increase $165,728.

Detroit United Railway, second week in October, increase $6,207; from January 1, increase $258,088.

Mexican Central, second week in October, increase $12,379; from January 1, decrease $10,442.

Toledo, St. Louis and Western, second week in October, increase $10,724; from January 1, increase $626,135.

Texas Pacific, second week in October, increase $212; from January 1, increase $1,886,606.

Denver and Rio Grande, second week in October, decrease $4,200; from July 1, increase $191,900.

Chicago Great Western, second week in October, decrease $2,326; from July 1, increase $223,190.

Mexican Central, second week in October, increase $13,379.

Mexican National, second week in October, increase $13,588.

The strength in Northern Pacific preferred is due to rumors that the stock is not to be retired at par, but 5 per cent. dividends are to be paid on the common and preferred.—(Wortley.

We hear a story that a Northern Pacific plan will come out to-morrow and that the preferred will go in at 116.—(Manson.

Much talk has been printed about the decline in railroad earnings. The following statistics are worth consideration in this connection: Gross earnings of fifty-five roads for the fourth week of September amounted to $14,473,063; increase $1,603,488, or 12.40 per cent. over last year. Gross earnings of eighty-four roads for August were $101,129,755; increase $10,928,017, or 12.11 per cent. Net earnings of these roads were $37,713,496; increase $5,653,021, or 17.09 per cent.

The market is strong on account of the rapid rise in Northern Pacific preferred and rumors of consolidation of Great Northern and Northern Pacific. We cannot find out what is to be done with Northern Pacific preferred and no one who knows will tell. It's a good sign stock is again coming on the market. The principal selling was by a Kuhn-Loeb broker. This must surely indicate that the Kuhn-Loeb and Morgan interests are in entire harmony. In spite of the good selling which was in evidence all over the room, the market seemed to be hardening somewhat and reacted in the afternoon much less than yesterday. The short interest continues to be as great as ever.—(Halsey & Halsey.

The stock market was favorably influenced by the renewed activity and sharp advance in Northern Pacific preferred. The movement in this stock started numerous conjectures in explanation of it. Among them was one that in connection with the retirement of the stock a valuable privilege would be given. Another was that the dividend would be increased in connection with a similar increase upon the common. Marked improvement was visible in the entire list. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Baltimore and Ohio and Atchison sharing in the general advance. Chicago Great Western showed great activity on buying supposed to be for interests closely identified with the Northwestern situation. The traction stocks developed some strength on a more favorable view taken as to the franchise tax law. Outside of Copper and Sugar the industrial list was not very active. Both issues were strong, Copper on Boston buying and Sugar on more satisfactory trade conditions. Money continued steady, notwithstanding the loss by the banks of about two and one-half millions for the week.—(Hunt & Hutchings.

The American Car and Foundry Company has received the following orders: General Chemical Company 15 cars; Swift & Co. 100 refrigerator cars; the Waukegan Tank Line 5 freight cars; St. Louis and Santa Fe 500 coal cars; Pere Marquette road 12 coaches; the Cold Blast Furnace Co. 100 refrigerator cars; miscellaneous, 29 tank cars, 30 logging cars, 15 mine cars, 5 freight cars and 29 cars for individual concerns. The business of the company is very good.

The market was stimulated to-day by all sorts of rumors growing out of the new Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway Company. There was very little interest taken in the late trading. Conditions remain unchanged, and until we are able to get definite information regarding Northwest roads we can only advise buying on declines.—(Almstedt Bros.

London.—The market for American railway shares closed on the curb firm at the best prices. There was arbitrage buying throughout the list. Other departments were at a standstill pending to-morrow's holiday. The Paris Bourse was heavy and the Berlin Boerse quiet.—(John W. & D. S. Green.

The early session of the market was enlivened by a decided advance in Northern Pacific preferred, which rose from 101 to within a fraction of 109. It is not clear what caused the rise in this stock, as no official statement is forthcoming concerning either the right to retire the stock at par by the company, or whether a majority vote of the present holders is necessary to do so. The activity in Northern Pacific brought about a general advance in such stocks as St. Paul, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific, but, as usual in a professional market, dullness set in and with it a sagging tendency all through the list. In fact, the market became exceedingly dull during the latter part of the day. The striking features of to-day's market were Minneapolis and St. Louis common and preferred, which advanced 3 and 5 points respectively on exceedingly good earnings and talk of a deal with Iowa Central. Sugar was also strong in the early part of the session; likewise the general run of industrial securities, and Amalgamated Copper, as well as Anaconda, while making no great advances, were apparently in good demand. The traction stocks were active, with an advancing tendency owing to the report that testimony in the matter of the franchise tax law was all in and that indications point to a decision against the constitutionality of the law, but in this case, as in all others, no definite news can be given. Earnings in a number of cases again showed good increases; a notable instance being the report of Missouri Pacific, giving for the month of August a net increase of $168,728, and this may account for the better tone in the Gould stocks to-day. The close of the market was at or near the low figures of the day for most of the stocks, except in the number of specialties cited above—(W. L. Lyons & Co.

The liquidation which caused the decline yesterday afternoon seemed to have entirely disappeared this morning, the market opening strong and advancing steadily during the first hour. Speculation again ran in the high-priced stocks, more especially in St. Paul and Northern Pacific preferred, the latter of which sold at the highest prices since last May. It is said that it is not contemplated to retire this stock at par, but on the contrary it will be left undisturbed, and that there are chances that both common and preferred stocks will shortly have dividends at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. The street is very much puzzled over the status of Northern Pacific in regard to the combination in the Northwest. This uncertainty is no doubt largely responsible for the absence of speculation in the general market on the part of the outside public. The market closed dull and heavy, with prices changed to an insignificant extent. It is thought that the banks have lost during the week between $1,900,000 and $2,300,000, shipments to the interior having been heavier than last week.—(S. C. Henning.

The financial editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser is much pleased with the annual report of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad and also with the policy of the Louisville and Nashville in building up the road with its surplus earnings instead of paying them out in dividends. The Advertiser says:

"After the transfer of the Paducah and Memphis line from the Louisville and Nashville to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis had been ratified by the stockholders of the latter company a year ago the suit brought by one of the minority owners to annul the lease was abandoned, and, according to Louisville authority, 'the majority and minority interests in the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis are now working in entire harmony.' Chattanooga's capital stock stands at $10,000,000, and more than 60 per cent. of the amount is owned by Louisville and Nashville, $5,500,000 being pledged under that company's unified mortgage. Chattanooga's financial and operating results, accordingly, interest all shareholders in Louisville, as well as the minority proprietors of that company itself.

"Since the suspension of dividends by Chattanooga in 1899 the surplus earnings have been turned into new property and into the reduction of the accumulated floating debt. The company's troublesome indebtedness appears to have been the result of expansion in previous years, and as such might be funded legitimately. The policy of the administration, however, appears to be still to delay the resumption of dividends until the outstanding obligations shall have been canceled and the estate shall have been built up from earnings. This will take some time longer at the present rate of progress. The balance sheet, as of June 30, 1901, shows a floating debt of $1,167,000, as against $1,514,000 a year earlier. Notes payable, including equipment notes, amounted to $1,387,000 on June 30, 1900, and to $1,062,000 on June 30, 1901. The new annual report states that this liability, exclusive of $313,000 of deposits of employes, is to be paid in semi-annual installments during the next three years. Meanwhile the surplus income goes steadily into the plant. Apparently, therefore, the present purpose is to delay the resumption of dividends at least three years longer.

"On the basis of $10,000,000 of stock the surplus shown as applicable to dividends was about 6¾ per cent. last year, as against 5⅞ per cent. in 1900. These percentages are by no means excessive as an expression of the actual earnings. The indications are that, in comparison with average annual requirements for maintenance in all departments, the operating expenses of 1901 were overcharged not less than $250,000. Hence the road may be considered fairly to be earning at this time 9 per cent. or better on the stock before allowing for outright additions and improvements. Such betterments should be met from income, as a matter of course, to a certain extent, whether in any case all of the surplus revenue should be diverted to additions or not. Chattanooga's operating efficiency is by no means high, and in the long run it is likely to be found that the income now expended upon the property has been put where it will do the most good."

STOCKS AND BONDS.

New York Stock Exchange.

New York, Oct. 18.—Money on call steady at 3@3½ per cent.; last loan at 3; prime mercantile paper 4½. Sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.88 for demand and at $4.83⅝@4.83¾ for 60 days; posted rates $4.84½@4.85 and $4.87; commercial bills $4.83@4.83½. Bar silver 57⅝c. Mexican dollars 45¼c. Government bonds steady. State bonds inactive. Railroad bonds firm.

Attention was wholly centered in the Northern Pacific question to-day, and the more the operators in stocks studied the problem the more they did not understand it. The continued activity of Northern Pacific preferred in strong contrast to the stagnant condition up to yesterday evening since the corner in the common stock was the occasion of interest in the subject. The conjecture exhausted itself in forming rumors that would give a plausible explanation of this development. The conclusion seemed unavoidable that actual steps were being taken in the Northern Pacific settlement, although there was some bold enough to claim that the transactions in Northern Pacific did not represent genuine transfers of the stock at all. This interpretation was strained, but it serves to illustrate the completely mystified condition in the street. Another rather far-fetched explanation was that the new Burlington railway incorporated Wednesday would exchange its stock for the bonds which were issued jointly by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern in exchange for the Burlington stock purchase. This operation would be in effect to cancel the whole Burlington deal and thus remove the cause of conflict for control of Northern Pacific. But this would not explain the absence of a single share of Northern Pacific common in the dealings. That it might be a satisfactory solution to some of the capitalists concerned was not doubted. The broad intimation from sources usually accredited to Morgan influences of the undoubted right of the Northern Pacific Company to retire Northern Pacific caused an uneasy feeling that the whole dispute was in danger of breaking out again, although the urging of such a claim without enforcing it might be designed to exert a moral influence upon the opponents in the settlement. The source of the selling of Northern Pacific preferred continued to be shrouded in mystery and the fact that Harriman brokers were employed in some of the selling added to the confusion of sentiment, whether designedly or no. As it is believed that the Morgan-Hill claims to absolute control rests entirely on their holdings of a majority of the common stock with a proposed retirement of the preferred, it was ingeniously suggested that their holdings of the preferred might be coming on the market. But this would not explain the advancing price of the preferred, which reached 103⅜ at one time to-day. This served also to refute the suggested retirement at par. Another suggestion was that a valuation above par might be designed for the stock in the terms of exchange with the stock of the intended securities holding company. It was significant that in all this whirl of rumor and suggestion there was no further suggestion that the plans for the community of interest were to be taken up where they left off when the May cyclone interrupted them. The late course of the market was generally downward, resulting in reducing or wiping out the early gains, except in special instances, notably Brooklyn Transit and Amalgamated Copper. There was another sale of 200 shares of Lake Shore at a further advance of 10 points. There was strength in Lackawanna, the Minneapolis and St. Louis stocks, the Iowa Central stocks, Leather preferred and other less prominent stocks. To-morrow's bank statement, with a decrease in cash indicated of less than two million dollars, will depend on the loan account.

The railroad bonds market was pretty firm owing to the demand for some of the convertible bonds. Total sales, par value, $2,065,000. U. S. bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

A London cablegram says: "The stock market to-day was idle in anticipation of to-morrow's holiday and the stagnation of American stocks was phenomenal. Copper rallied 10 shillings, but the copper stocks were inclined to hang back. Gold to the amount of £250,000 has been sent to Egypt. Paris exchange is 25.12. Gold exports to Paris are no longer feared, but Austria and Germany are still inquiring for the metal."

New York Exchange.

New Orleans.—Bank $1 per $1,000 premium; commercial $1.25@1.50 discount.
St. Louis.—15c discount.
Cincinnati.—10c discount.
Chicago.—10c discount.

Foreign Financial.

London, Oct. 18.—Money was easy to-day and the supplies were augmented in spite of the continued nervousness regarding the possible outflow of gold. Discounts were easier, though there was little inclination to take bills, in view of the uncertainty as to foreign exchanges. Business on the Stock Exchange was dull. In anticipation of to-morrow's closing and the settlement of Tuesday there was no inclination to speculate. Americans opened inactive, but the tone was good, and they grew firm later, especially after the receipt of New York's opening prices, and closed steady, fractionally below the best of the day. Copper shares were steadier. Kaffirs hardened at first, but closed easier. Consols for money 93 and for the account 93 1-16; Anaconda 7⅛; Atchison 80¼; do preferred 99¾; B. and O. 105¾; Canadian Pacific 113⅛; Chesapeake and Ohio 46⅝; Chicago Great Western 24¼; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 170⅛; Denver and Rio Grande 45¼; do preferred 94⅞; Erie 42¼; do first preferred 71¼; do second preferred 58; Illinois Central 150; Louisville and Nashville 106¼; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 25⅞; do preferred 51½; New York Central 160¼; Norfolk and Western 57⅝; do preferred 91; Northern Pacific preferred 105½; Ontario and Western 34¼; Pennsylvania 75¼; Reading 20⅛; do first preferred 39¼; do second preferred 26¼; Southern Railway 33¼; do preferred 88¼; Southern Pacific 61⅛; Union Pacific 102½; do preferred 90½; United States Steel 44¾; do preferred 95¼; Wabash 20½; do preferred 37½; Spanish fours 69½; Rands 10¼; De Beers 37⅞. Bullion to the amount of £150,000 was withdrawn from the Bank of England to-day for Egypt. Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Buenos Ayres 130.60; Madrid 42.40. Bar silver quiet at 26⅝d per ounce. Money 1@1½ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2½@2 9-16 per cent.; do three months' bills 2 5-16@2⅝ per cent.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Prices on the Bourse to-day opened firm. Rio Tintos, favorably influenced by yesterday's New York Stock Exchange news, started to rise, but soon relapsed. The whole list grew heavier during the last hour and the tone was undecided. Internationals were fairly supported. Rentes were heavy, but improved at the close. Tractions were steady. De Beers and Kaffirs were weak. The private rate of discount is unchanged at 2 13-16 per cent. Three per cent. rentes 100f 42½c for the account. Exchange on London 25f 12c for checks. Spanish 4s 70.10.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—Prices on the Bourse to-day opened firm except locals. Soon the absence of the demand resulted in dullness. An unsatisfactory report of the coal and iron trade had little influence on industrials, which were mostly firm. Spanish 4s improved. Americans were firm, notably Northern Pacifics, in response to New York.

LEAF TOBACCO.

Friday Evening, Oct. 18.—Only three warehouses had sales to-day and but 47 hogsheads of Burley were offered. The Burley sales were not satisfactory.

Five hogsheads of dark were put up and sold perhaps a little better than heretofore. One was a new crop hogshead from Warren county of the one-sucker variety and 24 inches long. It brought $5.60, which was not as good as expected, but it was full of sap and could not be rejected.

Offerings for the week have aggregated 2,189 hogsheads, of which 755 were sold privately, and were mostly Green River Pryors. The market has been higher on colory types, but not satisfactory on red leaf.

The offerings to-day were 52 hogsheads, of which 47 were Burley and 5 dark; 33 original inspections and 19 reviews. Rejections yesterday 139.

The following are the revised quotations as prepared by the Quotations Committee of the Leaf Tobacco Exchange for this week:

Clarksville Market.

M. H. Clark & Bro. write as follows concerning the Clarksville tobacco market under date of October 17, 1901:

"Our receipts this week were 35 hhds; offerings on the breaks 154; public and private sales 204. The breaks ran low in grade. Leaf tobaccos sold at about former figures. Lugs of all sorts were rather stiffer under a more general demand. The unsold stocks are now reduced to a few hundred hogsheads. They have been added to by small lots withdrawn from sale in the Bremen market. The crop is now all in the house and the most of it cured. The samples which have come in from the barns show that its supposed fine quality was much exaggerated, though there is much good wrappery leaf. The crop was finer in the field than in the barns. We quote:

"Low lugs $4@4.25; common lugs $4.50@4.75; medium lugs $4.75@5; good lugs $5@5.50; low leaf $5.25@5.75; common leaf $6@7; medium leaf $7.50@8.50; good leaf $9@10.50; fine leaf and selections, none offered."

Cincinnati Market.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—While offerings this week on the breaks were liberal (1,510 hhds), they were not quite so heavy as last week. The character of the offerings was about the same, and with the exception of colory grades, which were higher, prices ruled at about last week's figures. Outside of medium leaf up to $11 and the better grades above $12 the market on reds was dull and featureless. Manufacturers negotiated privately for color that they could not get on the breaks. Sales in this way amounted to about 160 hhds. Rejections for the week were 398 hhds; actual sales 1,112; receipts 808. The total offerings averaged $8.34 per hundred, against $7.89 for 1,002 hhds the corresponding week in 1900. Prices ranged as follows: 13 scraps at $1.90 to 3.50; 198 at $4 to 5.95; 328 at $6 to 7.95; 434 at $8 to 9.95; 216 at $10 to 11.75; 106 at $12 to 14.75; 13 at $15 to 17.75; 2 at $20.50 and 22.50. Only one house sold to-day—the Farmers' and Shippers'. Offerings amounted to 67 hhds. The market was good and prices firm, ranging from $2.15 for scraps and from $5.65 to $15 for common and medium red colory leaf.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Louisville.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, Oct. 18.—Cattle—The receipts to-day were very light, only 64 head of fresh arrivals here. Market ruled very quiet at yesterday's prices on all grades. There continues a fairly good demand for strictly good feeders and desirable butcher cattle; common and medium kinds dull on account of the oversupply and light demand.

Calves—Receipts 34 head. Market steady; best $5.50@6, some fancy calves a shade higher; common calves slow sale.

Hogs—The receipts were light, 1,446 head. The market opened up early with steady prices on the heavy and medium weights, while lights and pigs sold a shade higher; best 200 lbs. and up $6.25; 160 to 200 lbs. $6.15@6.25; 120 to 160 lbs. $5.80@5.90; good 100 to 120-lb. pigs $5.40@5.60; light pigs $4.50@5.35, according to quality, and roughs $4.50@5.30. Market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs—The receipts were comparatively light, only 113 head here. The market ruled steady to a shade higher; best lambs $4@4.25; other grades steady; best fat sheep $2.25@2.50; something extra good would bring a little more money, but the common kinds are very dull.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 18.—Cotton futures opened steady and 1@4 points lower, a poor response to weak cables. But as the forenoon wore along room longs became disheartened by heavy receipts at the ports and interior towns and by the scarcity of public buying orders. Prices worked slowly lower, with Wall street figuring from time to time as a buyer of late months. More hedges were put out against purchases of spot cotton in the South, and this pressure helped to weigh down the market. Slightly higher temperatures except in the north central and extreme eastern belts were reported. But after dropping to 8.02c for January the market rallied several points on frost predictions for the Carolinas, bad crop advices from many parts of the belt, reports that a good business was doing in cloths and yarns and reduced crop estimates from the western belt. For the rest of the session fluctuations were very narrow and business dragged more or less. Wall street continued to pick up January options under 8.05c and the West purchased a moderate amount of the same months. The weekly Liverpool statement of statistics was very strong, showing a light stock and no great increase in the amount afloat. The close was quiet and steady, with prices net 2@6 points lower.

Receipts at the ports to-day were 65,000 bales, against 46,033 (actual) last week and 62,824 (actual) last year; for the week 355,000, against 277,632 (actual) last week and 266,159 (actual) last year; to-day's receipts at New Orleans 17,500 bales, against 19,232 last year and at Houston 16,306, against 18,046 last year.

Spot cotton opened quiet, with middling uplands quoted at 8½c and middling gulf at 8⅝c. Closed quiet and unchanged; sales 446 bales.

MONTH.	Open-ing.	Clos-ing.	High-est.	Low-est.
October	8.03	8.01	8.03	8.00
November	8.07	8.02	8.07	8.00
December	8.07	8.05	8.07	8.05
January	8.05	8.04	8.07	8.02
February	8.00	8.01	8.01	7.99
March	7.98	7.97	8.00	7.95
April	7.98	7.96	7.98	7.95
May	7.97	7.95	7.97	7.92

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—The spot cotton market to-day was quiet and easy. Offerings are now free and factors are inclined to force the movement, but the general feeling is sympathetically easier and bids in some instances range as low as ¼c below board prices. Of course there is no trading upon such a basis, but the bids are interesting as being representative of instructions from the other side of the Atlantic. Sales 5,500 bales, including 2,900 to arrive. Quotations reduced 1-16c; ordinary 6¼c; good ordinary 6 15-16c; low middling 7¾c; middling 8 3-16c; good middling 8 7-16c; middling fair 8 11-16c; receipts 17,585 bales; stock 98,596. Only a moderate amount of business was noted in the market for contracts and the outlook was far from attractive to the long element. Liverpool dropped 1-32d on spots and 1-64d on deliveries, which led to a decline of 2@4 points on the opening in the local market. After first call there was small interest in the situation displayed by other than the scalping contingent and prices wavered over a range of 2@3 points, but with just a slight leaning toward lower figures. The reports of light frosts in several portions of the belt and predicted frosts for to-morrow throughout North Carolina and exposed places in South Carolina had not the slightest effect upon the market, which merely drifted along listlessly until the closing, which showed net losses for the day of 7@8 points on the entire list.

Liverpool, Oct. 18.—Spot cotton quiet; prices 1-32d lower; American middling fair 5 7-32d; good middling 5 1-32d; middling 4 29-32d; low middling 4 25-32d; good ordinary 4⅝d; ordinary 4½d. The sales of the day were 6,000 bales, of which 500 were for speculation and export and included 5,000 American; receipts 14,000 bales, including 12,300 American. Futures opened quiet and closed easy.

Savannah, Oct. 18.—Cotton quiet and easy; middling 7 13-16c; sales 1,740 bales; receipts 11,085; stock 91,841.

Memphis, Oct. 18.—Cotton quiet; middling 8¼c; receipts 5,144 bales; shipments 2,974; sales 2,000; stock 53,309.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—Cotton quiet; middling 8 3-16c; sales 350 bales; receipts 5,032; stock 25,508.

Boston, Oct. 18.—Cotton quiet; middling 8½c; net receipts 968 bales; gross 4,054.

Hester's Cotton Statement.

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—Secretary Hester's weekly New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement, issued before the close of business to-day, shows a decrease in the movement into sight compared with the seven days ending this date last year in round figures of 17,000 bales, an increase over the same days year before last of 89,000 and a decrease under the same time in 1898 of 40,000.

For the 18 days of October the total shows a decrease under last year of 177,000 bales, an increase over the same period year before last of 35,000 and a decrease under 1898 of 222,000.

For the 48 days of the season that have elapsed the aggregate is behind the 48 days of last year 262,000 bales, behind the same days year before last 389,000 and behind 1898 by 488,000.

The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 499,808 bales, against 507,984 for the seven days ending October 18 last year, 401,338 year before last and 531,153 same time in 1898, and for the 18 days of October it has been 1,110,017, against 1,287,074 last year, 1,075,377 year before last and 1,332,386 same time in 1898.

These make the total movement for the 48 days from September 1 to date 1,804,703 bales, against 2,166,401 last year, 2,194,089 year before last and 2,292,736 same time in 1898.

The movement since September 1 shows receipts at all U. S. ports 1,219,432 bales, against 1,537,569 last year, 1,465,777 year before last and 1,628,786 same time in 1898; overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to Northern mills and Canada 83,630, against 114,026 last year, 191,761 year before last and 124,291 same time in 1898; interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year 247,671, against 310,001 last year, 317,583 year before last and 349,491 same time in 1898; Southern mill takings 254,000, against 204,805 last year, 218,968 year before last and 190,168 same time in 1898.

Foreign exports for the week have been 205,956 bales, against 283,211 last year, making the total thus far for the season 782,841, against 967,520 last year, a decrease of 184,679.

Northern mill takings and Canada during the past seven days show an increase of 17,283 bales as compared with the corresponding period last year, and their total takings since September 1 have increased 5,086. The total takings of American mills, North and South, and Canada thus far for the season have been 453,142, against 349,410 last year. These include 196,904 by Northern spinners, against 151,870.

Stocks at the seaboard and the 29 leading Southern interior centers have increased during the week 183,511 bales, against an increase during the corresponding period last season of 145,768, and are now 1,977 larger than at this date in 1900.

Including stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop and the number of bales brought into sight thus far for the new crop the supply to date is 2,164,390 bales, against 2,288,935 for the same period last year.

Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows an increase for the week just closed of 286,883 bales, against an increase of 358,644 last year and an increase of 98,647 the year before last.

The total visible is 2,144,987 bales, against 1,858,104 last year, 2,385,898 last year and 2,422,153 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 1,750,987, against 1,401,104 last week, 1,603,398 last year and 2,245,143 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 444,000, against 453,000 last week, 452,000 last year and 477,000 year before last.

The world's visible supply of cotton shows an increase as compared with last week of 286,883 bales, a decrease compared with last year of 240,911 and a decrease compared with year before last of 1,277,156.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton as above there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 926,000 bales, against 1,120,000 last year and 1,702,000 year before last; in Egypt 81,000, against 71,000 last year and 95,000 year before last; in India 200,000, against 212,000 last year and 230,000 year before last, and in the United States 958,000, against 983,000 last year and 1,405,000 year before last.

GENERAL MARKETS.

Chicago 'Change.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Speculative activity on the Board of Trade to-day was confined chiefly to wheat, which closed ⅝c higher for December. Corn closed ⅛c and oats ¼@¼c higher in sympathy, while provisions eased off slightly.

December wheat at the opening registered a gain of ⅜c over night in response to an advance at Liverpool and additional news of the evil effects of dry weather in Argentina. The market started with sales ranging from 70⅝@71c to 70⅝c. Liberal buying for the long account and covering sent the price up to 71¼c during the afternoon, and although there was fair selling by traders who were disappointed at the slack export demand and an advance in ocean freights, the market held firm and December closed ⅝c up at 70⅞@71c. Local receipts were 136 cars, 8 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 650 cars, making a total for the three points of 786 cars, against 1,013 last week and 938 a year ago. Primary receipts were 914,000 bushels, compared with 1,072,000 a year ago. Seaboard clearances were 418,000 bushels and Argentine shipments were 200,000 bushels.

Corn was moderatively active and prices held steady under the strengthening influence of wheat. There was little trade excepting that done by scalpers, the stagnation of the shipping trade being reflected in the speculative pit. December sold between 56⅜@56½c and 56⅜c, and closed ⅛c higher at 56½@56⅝c. Receipts were 188 cars.

The oats market was a narrow one. Elevator interests offered moderately at the best prices, but values held in sympathy with the surrounding steadiness. Receipts were 136 cars. December closed ⅛@¼c higher at 35¼c, and May, for which there was a better demand than for the nearer delivery, ⅛c up at 37¼@37⅜c.

Provisions were quiet and prices easier because the run of hogs was greater than had been expected. Local packers sold early, while there was buying for shorts and for the English account. Pork closed 5c lower at $15.22½, lard 5@7½c down at $9.10 and ribs 5c depressed at $7.92½ for January delivery.

Estimated receipts for to-morrow: Wheat 145 cars; corn 215; oats 215; hogs 16,000 head.

Coffee—Dull sentiment still predominates in the market for futures. The opening was steady in tone at a partial gain of 5 points on local covering, following satisfactory European and Brazil market cables, only to react immediately after the call under bearish hammering and some profit-taking. In the early afternoon unfavorable crop reports were received from Santos and, like yesterday, prices instantly began to climb amid considerable excitement and tremendous sales movement. Before the market finally closed a net gain of 15@20 points was noted, with the official tone described as steady. Total sales reached the unusual total of 103,770 bags and included November at 5.60@5.70c, December at 5.70@5.95c, January at 5.80@5.85c, February at 5.85@6c, March at 5.95@6.25c, May at 6.15@6.40c, June at 6.25@6.40c, July at 6.30@6.55c, August at 6.40@6.50c and September at 6.45@6.70c. Spot—Rio steady; No. 7 invoice 6⅝c; mild steady; Cordova 7½@11c.

Metals—Interesting features were lacking in the metal market to-day. Tin at London, after opening 10s lower, closed 10s net higher on the day on speculative buying, spot being finally quoted at £112 and futures at £105. Locally a quiet and unchanged market prevailed, with spot quoted quoted at $24.25@24.75. Copper was without change locally and closed at 16.85@17c for Lake Superior and at 16⅜@16⅝c for casting and electrolytic. At London prices were 2s 6d better, closing spot at £63 17s 6d and futures at £62 12s 6d. Lead was very dull and unchanged, both at home and abroad, closing at $4.37½ and £11 7s 6d respectively. Spelter was featureless, closing at $4.20@4.25 here and at £17 2s 6d at London. COURT ANGRY.

Fines J. M. Tipton For Contempt.

PRISONER MAKES CHARGES.

HEIR OBJECTS TO SARAH E. HAMILTON'S WILL.

APPEALS FROM PROBATE.

J. M. Tipton was presented in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of disorderly conduct and as a consequence was fined $3 and six hours in jail for contempt by Judge Buckley and was given a fine of $5 and required to give a bond of $300 for twelve months by Acting Judge Lawson on the charge docketed against him. The specific act alleged was annoying Della Clemmons and Ida Clemmons, two young girls.

When the case was called, Judge Buckley told Tipton that he had received from him a letter in which he made outrageous charges both against him and Judge Barker. A similar letter was sent to the grand jury, in which Tipton charged that his son, Richard Tipton, had been unjustly accused of complicity in stealing some flour from Callahan & Son; that Walter Horn and Will McCorkle were being protected by the police at his son's expense. He strongly criticised both Judge Barker and Judge Buckley.

Judge Buckley told Tipton he would not stand such conduct, whereupon Tipton said excitedly:

"I can prove everything in that letter."

Judge Buckley then fined him for contempt and ordered him sent to jail for six hours. Judge Buckley refused to sit in the trial of the disorderly conduct case and Maj. Thomas W. Lawson presided with the result named.

An examination of the records in the Criminal division shows the following indictments:

Sam Tipton, housebreaking, one year in the penitentiary; James Tipton, malicious striking, six months in jail; Sam Tipton, assult and battery, filed away; Richard Tipton, grand larceny, filed away; Richard Tipton, housebreaking, not guilty; Sam Tipton, grand larceny, bench warrant; Richard Tipton, housebreaking, on the docket.

Objects To Mrs. Hamilton's Will.

Walter Hamilton filed an appeal yesterday from the probating of the will of his sister, Sarah Elizabeth Hamilton. The following bequests were made: Jennie Walker, New Orleans, $75; Broadway Methodist church, $50; the Rev. Dr. B. M. Messick and the Rev. J. P. Strother, $50 each. The last bequests were originally $35 and were conditioned on Dr. Messick's conducting the funeral services and Mr. Strother's going to the graveyard. Hamilton makes no objection to these bequests.

The residue of the estate, which is valued at $17,000, is left to the Fidelity Trust and Safety Vault Company in trust for the testatrix's brother, W. E. Hamilton, who is an inmate of the Eastern Kentucky Asylum. The will has the following provision:

"But I want Walker Hamilton to have the use of the principal in six or seven years."

Negro Refused Restraining Order.

Ella N. Garnet, colored, recently entered suit for divorce from Will T. Garnet on the alleged grounds of abandonment and nonsupport. Garnet filed an answer in which he alleged that his wife on one occasion broke an umbrella over his head, threw a can of hot water over him and tried to assault him with a hatchet. He also stated that his wife's conduct was such as to arouse his suspicions as to her fidelity and in support of this filed a letter as an exhibit.

Yesterday Garnet entered a motion for a restraining order to prevent his wife from molesting him. He charged in his affidavit that she followed him on the streets, threatened him and had raised a row in his office.

Judge Toney refused to grant the order, saying that the Chancellor had no authority to regulate the conduct of people. If a person's conduct is a nuisance resort should be had to the Police Court.

Court Paragraphs.

—Adeline Eckert is the sole devisee and executrix under the probated will of her husband, Louis Eckert.

—The trial of Mathew Kelly, colored, who killed Artie Smith, and then attempted his own life, was set for trial on December 11.

—Fred Popp entered suit for the appointment of a receiver for the property situated on the south side of Dumesnil street, 355 feet east of Tenth.

—Articles of assignment were filed by H. Le Jeune, a cigar manufacturer at 147 Fourth avenue, with Augustus J. Bizot as assignee. The liabilities are estimated at $2,500 and assets, $1,500.

—The will of Mary Dohrman was probated yesterday. The estate, after the payment of a bequest of $5 to testatrix's grand daughter, Florence Schultz, is left to testatrix's son, John Dohrman, who is named executor.

—Levi Hawkins, colored, was given one year in the penitentiary for breaking into the house of Levi Hawkins. Ed Robinson, colored, pleaded guilty to breaking into the hourse of Alex. Gooch and was given twelve months in the workhouse.

Court of Appeals Decisions.

Appeal and Error—Failure to File Transcript in Time—Omission to Ask Clerk to Grant Appeal—Correction of Clerk's Indorsement.—Wright's administrator vs. Lexington and Eastern Railway Company.—(To be reported.) Filed October 8, 1901. Appeal from Lee Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Paynter, dismissing appeal.

An appeal granted by the lower court will be dismissed for failure to file transcript within twenty days before the second term after it was granted; and where the clerk, in the absence of any request by the appellant that a new appeal be granted, indorsed on the transcript "appeal granted below" that indorsement will not be corrected so as to make it appear that an appeal was granted by the clerk.

J. F. Sutton, E. C. Hyden for appellant; Morton & Darnall for appellee.

Champerty—What Constitutes Actual Possession—Instructions to Jury.—Mayes vs. Kenton.—(Not to be reported.) Filed October 15, 1901. Appeal from Nicholas Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear, reversing.

First—The possession of land by one person which will render void a sale and conveyance of the same land to another is such actual adverse occupancy contemporaneous with the deed sought to be avoided by it as to give notice in advance to the purchaser of the occupier's hostile claim, mere fugitive acts of ownership exercised at intervals not being sufficient for that purpose.

Second—It was error to instruct the jury to find for defendant if they believed he was in the "actual possession" of the land at the time plaintiff purchased the land and took a conveyance for it, without also instructing them what would constitute such "actual possession."

Third—Where plaintiff and defendant claimed under a common grantor but by mistake defendant's deed, which was executed first, failed to embrace the land in controversy, and defendant relied upon the fact that he was in the adverse possession of the land when plaintiff took a deed thereto, all averments as to mistake in defendant's deed were properly stricken from his answer in the absence of any averment of notice to plaintiff.

Winfield Buckler for appellant; Thomas Owens for appellee.

Evidence—Withdrawal from Jury By Consent—Carriers—Outcries of Passengers in Collision of Trains—Failure to Object to Evidence—Personal Examination of Injured Person.—Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company vs. Simpson.—(To be reported.) Filed October 15, 1901. Appeal from Nelson Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear, reversing.

First—There can be no reversal for the admission of evidence which was withdrawn from the jury by consent of parties, and which the jury was admonished not to consider.

Second—The fact that outcries were made by passengers other than plaintiff in the collision in which plaintiff was injured was not admissible in evidence, but as there was no objection to the admission of the evidence there can be no reversal on that account.

Third—Where plaintiff testified that by reason of an injury to her hand she could not close it by voluntary exercise of its muscles it was an abuse of discretion not to compel her to submit to an examination of the hand by physicians introduced by defendant as witnesses, who testified that they could tell by such an examination whether the hand was stiffened as claimed and whether such condition would probably be permanent.

Fourth—Where the evidence presented a case of such negligence that the jury might be warranted in finding that it evinced a reckless disregard of human life it was proper to give an instruction authorizing exemplary damages.

John S. Kelley for appellant; George S. & John A. Fulton for appellee.

Order Appointing Administrator—Immaterial Error—Master and Servant—Fellow-servants — Punitive Damages — Harmless Error.—Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company vs. Edmond's Administrator.—(Not to be reported.) Filed October 15, 1901. Appeal from Warren Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear, affirming.

First—An order of a County Court reciting that plaintiff, "having been appointed" administratrix, executed bond, will be treated as making the appointment, it being the policy of the courts to construe liberally the language of the orders of inferior courts, and the Court of Appeals being required by the Civil Code of Practice to disregard immaterial errors.

Second—Where servants of a common master, though of the same grade and in the same line of employment, are so disconnected as not to give the one a right or opportunity of controlling or admonishing the other, or observing the other's manner of doing his work, the master is liable for an injury to one by the gross negligence of the other, and therefore where a conductor of a train on one division of a railroad was injured by the gross negligence of the servants in charge of a train on another division of the same road at a point where the two divisions crossed the common master was liable.

Third—Where the verdict returned was no more than compensatory damages for the life destroyed an error in instructing the jury as to punitive damages was harmless.

J. A. Mitchell, H. W. Bruce, W. D. Hines, Edward W. Hines for appellant; B. F. Proctor, G. H. Herdman, C. P. Chenault, John W. Ray for appellee.

Municipal Corporations—Limitation of Indebtedness — Improvements Authorized Prior to Constitution.—Warren vs. City of Newport.—(Not to be reported.) Filed October 11, 1901. Appeal from Campbell Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Paynter, affirming.

The provisions of Constitution, Sections 157 and 158, limiting the indebtedness of cities, do not apply to an indebtedness for public improvements which a city of the second class was specially authorized, prior to the adoption of the Constitution, to contract, it being provided by the charter of cities of that class passed since the adoption of the Constitution that the General Council shall have power to issue bonds for an amount sufficient to complete and pay for any "public improvement authorized to be constructed under the laws heretofore enacted."

Otto Wolff for appellant; Aubry Barbour for appellee.

FILTERED SEWAGE

WILL FLOW FROM LAKELAND ASYLUM NOW.

Plant Has Been Completed and Accepted By Commissioners—No Danger From Infection.

The completed sewage filtration plant at Lakeland Asylum has been formally accepted by the Commissioners of the institution and is now in operation.

While the plant is an experiment there seems every reason to believe that it will put an end to the long-standing troubles caused by the defective sewage of the asylum which has vitiated the waters of Goose creek, has been declared the cause of widespread sickness and at one time brought about the indictment of the asylum commissioners, though the charges were proved groundless.

The plant is 1,000 yards from the main building. There are two filters to be used alternately. The refuse matter passes through sand, gravel and cinders, and the water leaving the filter flows clear and bright into Goose creek. The solid material left in the filter is used for fertilizing purposes on the asylum farm. It is possible that the addition of septic tanks to the filtration plant may be found necessary. The plant, as it now stands, cost $7,000, which came from the asylum fund. It has been officially inspected by Mr. H. P. McDonald, the architect, and the Commissioners of the asylum.

Some weeks ago the report of Dr. Cashin, the bacteriologist appointed by the Council, showed that Louisville's water supply was affected with sewage matter from Lakeland. The entire matter of securing the filtration plant was intrusted to a special committee consisting of Mr. R. W. Brown, Judge Thos. R. Gordon, Dr. J. G. Furnish and Dr. T. P. Satterwhite. The investigation was conducted by the State Board of Health and the asylum commissioners, Dr. Cashin co-operating.
